U. S. Health Insurance Plan Asked By President

Compulsory Payroll Tax, Federal Aid To Hospitals and Colleges Included

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

President Truman asked Congress yesterday to enact a four-fold health program including a compulsory health insurance plan financed by payroll taxes.

The President did not give any estimate of the annual cost of prepaid medical care, but officials have set it at about six billion dollars a year.

Social Security officials who have worked out a national health insurance plan financed by payroll taxes estimate it can be inaugurated by a payroll tax of 3 per cent—equally divided between employer and employe.

Aid to Schools Asked

The other three points covered in the Chief Executive's special message to Congress are:

1. Federal financial aid to medical schools and teaching hospitals to expand the number of doctors and other trained medical personnel. This would include scholarships.

2. Increased Federal aid for the construction of hospitals and other medical facilities in communities where they are needed.

3. An increase in Federal grants to States for the prevention and control of disease, the promotion of maternal and child health services, services to crippled children and public health activities.

"Now that we have the medical knowledge that can bring good health within our reach to a degree heretofore undreamed of, we must improve the means for putting that knowledge to practical use," the President said.

"Good health is the foundation of a nation's strength. It is also the foundation upon which a better standard of living can be built for individuals."

Battle Lines Formed

The proposals outlined in President Truman's 3000-word message to Senate and House already had been anticipated because of his past advocacy of them.

Stiff battle lines have already formed on Capitol Hill, and even some Administration leaders predict that there is no chance the whole program will be enacted during this session of Congress.

The American Medical Association has launched a campaign against the President's program, particularly the prepaid national medical insurance plan. Members of Congress, most recently Senator Wayne Morse (R., Oreg.), have charged the AMA with "scandalous" tactics in raising a $3,500,000 lobbying fund to defeat the proposal on the ground that it is "socialized medicine."

The AMA and members of both parties in Congress have offered, instead, various types of voluntary insurance programs.

Apparently in rebuttal of arguments for such plans, Mr. Truman said:

"Unfortunately, however, voluntary plans have proved inadequate to meet the need. Most voluntary

Child, 7, Rescued From 7-in. Slot Between Walls

Providence, R. I., April 22 (AP).—Carol Ann Russell, 3, was rescued by firemen from a 7-inch slot between two buildings 20 minutes after she slipped off a play yard roof adjoining her second-story home here late today.

Playing with her sister, Frances, 10, the younger child fell into the gap between the buildings and dropped 14 feet before she became wedged fast. Frances ran crying to her mother, Mrs. Lois Russell, who called firemen.

Firemen sledged a hole in a foot-thick concrete wall and extricated the child. She had suffered only minor bruises and fright.

Murphy Sent As Trouble Shooter

Allies Offer Compromise Plan In West German Stalemate

Two moves to break the stalemate over creation of a West German republic—a deadlock which is serving the Russians as a powerful propaganda weapon—were made yesterday.

1. The United States, Britain and France offered to concede additional financial power to the proposed central government in western Germany, if a compromise formula can be worked out.

2. Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, acting chief of the State Department's new office of German-Austrian Affairs, was rushed to Germany to try to bring about that compromise.

Murphy, former political adviser to Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor in Germany, will spend about a week there in the hope he can employ the new Big Three offer to resolve differences between the Western allies' views and those of the two biggest parties in western Germany, the Social Democrats and the Christian Democrats.

Each of these parties has 27 seats in the 65-member Parliamentary Council, meeting at Bonn, Germany, since September 1 in a so-far futile attempt to draft a constitution which balances Social Democrats' demands for a strongly federalized republic, Christian Democrats' desires for a loose federation of states, and Big Three views on a midway solution.

Rejecting recommendations by the military governors for limitation of federalized powers, the Social Democrats have now produced their own constitutional proposals. These, it is believed, would permit eventual nationalization of West German industries—a key desire, which General Clay disapproves.

Failure to reach agreement threatens to nullify the accords reached here two weeks ago by the Big Three's Foreign Ministers on establishment of a West German republic, and replacement of the preesnt military government with a civilian high commission at the time the provisional German government is formed.

Delay over approval of a constitution is playing into the hands

Perversion Theory Held in Tenor Slaying

'Many Reports' of Sex Aberrations Produced, Atlanta Police Say

Atlanta, April 22 (AP).—Atlanta police said today they are investigating "a possibility" that sexual perversion was involved in the slaying of Metropolitan Opera Tenor John Garris.

Lieut. M. M. Coppenger, homicide chief, said the investigation has produced "many reports" of unnatural sex activities.

"Naturally we are checking that angle," he said.

Dr. Herman Jones, Fulton County criminologist, said police are working on a theory that sexual perversion "might have been the whole thing behind it."

"That's about all we've got to go on now," Dr. Jones added.

Police said they had no definite suspects.

Garris was found yesterday morning in a rain-drenched alley in Atlanta's warehouse district. A steel-jacketed .38 pistol bullet had pierced his body.

The tenor had been scheduled to accompany the rest of the opera troupe to Memphis on a train leaving Atlanta about 4 a. m. yesterday.

Coppenger and Jones, returning to Atlanta after questioning scores of the opera company in Memphis, said witnesses saw Garris at the train between 3 and 3:30 a. m. (EST).

Jones said Garris must have left

A jury in Circuit Court of Martinsville, Va., returned a second death penalty in two days yesterday in finding Frank Hairston, jr., 19, guilty of raping the wife of a Martinsville department store manager.

Hairston is the second of seven Negroes being tried separately for the rape of the white woman January 8. Trial of the third defendant will start Monday morning.

Editors Study Bad Record in 1948 Election

Ivory Tower Attitude, Reporting and Poll Dependence Blamed

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

Public opinion polls, "ivory tower" editors and lack of good reporting all were blamed yesterday for the great newspaper upset at last November's election.

Members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors heard these remarks at a panel discussion at the Hotel Statler on the Truman election upset:

"Ivory tower" editors up North who send reporters "behind the cotton curtain" to "spy" on the South instead should try to learn as much about their own communities as they profess to know about far-away places.

If such were the case, "our press would have made bums out of the pollsters before Mr. Truman did." This came from Tom Hanes of the Norfolk (Va.) Ledger-Dispatch which supported Gov. Thomas E. Dewey last fall.

The "mystery" of the election returns can be found in "the long memory of the people" of the depression of the 1930's and their fear of its return. The press in many people's minds "thinks too much of its own economic freedom." This came from Richard J. Finnegan of the Chicago Sun-Times, which supported Mr. Truman.

There is "nothing wrong between the newspapers and the people

First Negro Made Member of N. C. Education Board

Raleigh, N. C., April 22 (U.P.).—Gov. Kerr Scott today named the first Negro member of the North Carolina Board of Education in the State's history.

He is Dr. H. L. Trigg, president of St. Augustine's College in Raleigh and a one-time public school teacher in North Carolina. Dr. Trigg is to serve as a member at large. His term lasts until March 31, 1957.

Dr. Triggs is a graduate of Morgan College in Maryland and earned his master's degree at Syracuse University.

Scott said he felt it was time the State recognized its Negro population and accorded them a voice on State boards. Negroes make up about 35 per cent of North Carolina's total population, he added.

Prisoner 'Lost' in Jail 4 Months

N. C. Theft Suspect Given No Hearing, Bail Opportunity; Fay Orders Probe

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

A suspect in a $120 theft has been held in the District jail for almost four months without bail and without a hearing here, it was learned yesterday.

The circumstances surrounding his detention were disclosed only after the prisoner filed a motion in District Court for dismissal of a larceny indictment against him. He is Scott W. Fuller, 23, of Sedalia, N. C. The indictment was handed down last Monday.

Jail authorities disclaimed any fault on their part in the continued detention. United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence, who issued the warrant for Fuller's arrest, said he lacked the power to aid the defendant.

United States Marshal Bruce Matthews said the case had been handled according to established routine and law. Records of the District Court clerk's office showed that until Monday the court had never been officially informed of Fuller's case.

Fay Orders Investigation

All officials involved referred reporters to United States Attorney George Morris Fay, who immediately ordered an investigation after stating he knew nothing about the case.

Court officials admitted that had Fuller not obtained an attorney, his plight might not have become known for an even longer time.

Fuller employed Emmett McKenzie as his attorney only this month. It was the lawyer who discovered that the man had not been indicted, arraigned, tried, allowed to post bond since he was brought here December 22 from North Carolina.

McKenzie on April 13 told the United States attorney's office about Fuller and the grand jury issued an indictment.

Arraignment Due Monday

McKenzie then moved to dismiss the indictment against Fuller, who is due to be arraigned in District Court Monday.

The theft of which Fuller is accused was reported by Milton Gendleman, 5727 3d pl. nw., on June 20, 1948. On December 13, Commissioner Lawrence issued a warrant for the arrest of Fuller. McKenzie claims Lawrence did so without a sworn affidavit of the complainant.

On this warrant, Fuller was arrested in North Carolina, and brought here. McKenzie claims that Fuller was never given a hearing there, but Marshal Matthews says his records show hearings before a commissioner and a magistrate preceded the removal.

It is undisputed that Fuller arrived in Washington and was dispatched to the jail, where he was imprisoned on a "temporary commitment."

Repeatedly Notified, He says

A jail official who asked that he not be identified by name said that the United States marshal's office and the United States commissioner here were repeatedly notified that Fuller was being held. At the jail, officials said they were perturbed by the prolonged detention because Fuller's "legal trap" might irritate other prisoners.

Marshal Matthews declared he was never notified "in writing" of the Fuller case by the jail and was sure his office was not at fault.

Commissioner Lawrence said

DAR Attacks Compulsory Health Plan

Immigration Law Changes and Crime Comics Opposed in Votes of Congress

By Genevieve Reynolds
Post Reporter

The Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday adopted resolutions opposing compulsory health insurance, changes in present immigration laws, and crime comics and radio programs for children, at the final session of the fifty-eighth annual Continental Congress.

As the Congress adjourned, Mrs. V. Eugene Holcombe, building promotion chairman, announced that the $500,000 goal for the building fund had been reached.

When the five-day congress opened Monday night in Constitution Hall, Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne of Brookville, Ind., president general called upon the 1500 delegates and members to increase the $325,000 already raised to $500,000.

$19,825 Windfall

A last-minute push netted $8000 in cash and pledges, in addition to individual gifts. But the largest windfall to the $900,000 administration building project connecting Memorial Continental Hall and Constitution Hall came from an unused life membership fund of $19,825.

National officers dug up a 58-year-old resolution as authorization for transferral of sums upon a vote of delegates.

According to Mrs. Rex Hays Rhoades, treasurer general, a resolution adopted October 11, 1891, by the one-year-old national society, provided that all charter and life membership fees be set apart as the nucleus of a building fund.

While many officers and delegates tossed their "greenback" corsages into a large, striped hatbox to swell the building fund at the morning session, hundreds of dollars were held back for the post-Congress banquet, held last night at the Mayflower Hotel.

Compacts, silk scarves, silver spoons, and a couple of heirlooms auctioned off during the banquet brought in an estimated $300 to $400 addition to the building fund drive.

At the end of the banquet new pledges, "greenback corsages" and profits by daughters on articles sold during the convention sent the building fund to $512,000 by midnight.

Appreciation Expressed

In another resolution, the 5000 delegates and members expressed appreciation to President Truman for his expression of confidence in the organization.

The Daughters pledged themselves to use all their strength and force to combat "socialistic planning invading our country," and to keep the United States a land of individual rights and freedom.

The thank-you and pledge to Mr. Truman referred to a sentence in the President's message read by Mrs. O'Byrne at the opening session Monday night:

"In full confidence that the Daughters will bear their full share in safeguarding and perpetuating our national heritage, I send one and all my hearty felicitations and warmest personal greetings."

In the resolution opposing the Administration's proposal for compulsory health insurance, the DAR said:

"Powerful forces are at work to enforce the passage of compulsory

Fall of Nanking Near; Reds Cross Yangtze, Drive for Shanghai

100,000 Retreating Troops Clog Four Roads Southward; City Being Looted

Shanghai, China (Saturday), April 23 (U.P.).—The fall of Nanking became a matter of hours today as Nationalist forces abandoned their capital to the Communists.

The Red underground emerged and began taking over the city. Communist underground leaders in the city were trying to subdue the rioting mobs with promises that the Communist troops would soon enter Nanking and restore order.

Red armies poured across numerous Yangtze bridgeheads and aimed their drives at Shanghai, China's foremost city, and Wusih, a rice-growing center south of Nanking. A strong government force at Wusih reportedly was trying to get set to block penetration into South China.

One dispatch said gunfire was audible in Wusih.

Chiang Back in Struggle

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, coming out of retirement, conferred late yesterday with government and Kuomintang leaders at Hangchow, 150 miles southeast of Nanking.

The Nationalists, at Chiang's urging, decided to fight it out.

As far as could be learned there were only meager government forces standing between Shanghai and thousands of Red troops being hurled across the Yangtze east and west of Nanking.

U. S. Marines Alerted

Full martial law was declared in Shanghai today. The 700 United States Marines in the city were alerted to protect the lives and property of Americans against possible mob violence similar to that which broke out in Nanking earlier today.

A Communist mechanized column raced past Nanking and cut the main highway to Shanghai, dooming Nanking. Nanking's fall was expected about noon Shanghai time (11 p. m. Friday EST).

Acting President Li Tsung-jen and Premier Ho Ying-chin left Nanking at dawn in the last plane out.

Troops and police in Nanking commandeered all available trucks, motor cars and horses—sometimes at bayonet point—and poured out to the south in the predawn hours.

Virtually Defenseless

Except for a few hundred "Peace Preservation Corpsmen"—local poorly trained militia, the capital was left defenseless.

Mobs immediately began looting garrison headquarters. The presidential residences and the railroad stations.

Communist forces took Pukow, directly across the Yangtze from Nanking, and began crossing by boat and sampan at 8 a. m.

Train service out of the city had been suspended at midnight last night.

Looting gained intensity by the hour. Roistering and dangerous mobs surged from sacked official buildings to private dwellings.

United Press Correspondent Chang Kuo-sin saw the rioters break through the gates of Li Tsungjen's house, crash through the windows and batter down the doors. They dragged furniture and draperies, scrolls and decorations from the walls and ran off laughing and babbling.

Downtown shops were raided and glass from smashed windows littered the streets. The mobs sought rice and wheat flour first,

Invasion Plan Of Soviet Told, Witness Says

Quotes Red Official As Saying Army Was Ready in Siberia in '45

New York, April 22 (U.P.).—A Maryland Communist leader told a party meeting in 1945 that Russia's Red army had 500,000 men in Siberia who could invade the United States through Alaska, a witness at the trial of 11 United States party leaders testified today.

Charles W. Nicodemus, former Communist from Cumberland, Md., said he listened to a talk at a Cumberland meeting by Albert Lannon, described as the Maryland-District of Columbia Communist director, in which Lannon conceded that he saw no prospect of an internal revolt in the United States for five or six years.

Lannon added that, even then, a revolution was not possible without the aid of the Red army, Nicodemus testified. He said he interrupted to ask how the Soviet army could invade the United States since Russia did not have an adequate navy.

Lannon replied that Russia had 500,000 troops in Siberia and was building up its air force and building air strips there, Nicodemus testified. He said that Lannon remarked.

"Russia could invade Alaska and come down through Canada."

Nicodemus testified that Lannon told the meeting that the duty of American Communists, in event of war with Russia, would be to sabotage industry and demoralize the populace.

[The Associated Press quoted Nicodemus as saying the meeting at which Lannon spoke was held at the home of Evelyn and Boyd

2 D. C. Women Drowned in Car Accident

Colonel's Auto Runs Through Bridge Rail Near Valpariso, Fla.

Two Washington women were drowned near Valpariso, Fla., Thursday night when the automobile in which they were riding plunged through a bridge guard rail into a bayou, the Associated Press reported yesterday.

The victims were Mrs. Joan Harvey, 23, and her mother, Mrs. William H. Boylan, 4105 Wisconsin ave. nw.

Mrs. Harvey's husband, Lieut. Col. Julian A. Harvey, USAF, who was driving, freed himself from the submerged automobile and summoned aid, Florida highway patrolmen said, but help came too late. The patrolmen said Harvey apparently lost control of the car. He was treated at the Eglin Air Base Hospital for shock and exposure.

The Harveys were married in Fort Myer Chapel in 1946 and lived for a time in Arlington when he was stationed at the Pentagon. The Harveys, who had a 15-month-old son, Lance, moved to Florida six months ago when he was transferred to Fort Walton. Mrs. Harvey, a Western High School graduate, worked for the Government prior to her marriage.

Mrs. Boylan left Washington about two months ago to visit her daughter and son-in-law in Florida. Her husband, an analyst with the Maritime Commission, upon retiring April 1, drove to Florida to join the family.

Headless Rooster Dies, Beating Execution Order

Los Angeles, April 22 (AP).—Lazarus, the headless rooster, died today.

The chicken succumbed unexpectedly in front of city inspectors who were serving Lazarus' owner, Mrs. Martha Green, with an order to kill him within 12 hours.

"All of a sudden he just hung his neck and died," said Mrs. Green. "I got down on my knees and prayed. I prayed for America. I know God put that rooster into the world and let him live for a purpose. I prayed that God might forgive us for what we had done."

Only yesterday, Lazarus won a court reprieve from an earlier death sentence.

Mrs. Green said the chicken will be stuffed.

Turn Timepieces Forward

Any Way You Want to Figure, You're Out An Hour Sunday

Maybe you personally will change to Daylight Saving Time before you go to bed tonight, or maybe you'll wait until tomorrow morning when you wake up.

But whenever you do it—the official hour is 2 a. m. Sunday—turn your clock or watch forward an hour. FORWARD, that is.

Though the change is always confusing to some, Washington this year will be spared the chaos of last year, when congressional action on the summer time was delayed and the District was out of step with much of the rest of the Nation for a week.

Daylight time also goes into effect Sunday, either officially or unofficially, in adjacent cities and counties of Maryland and Virginia.

Action by the authorities has made the "fast time" official for Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties, Md., and Falls Church and Alexandria, Va. The Arlington County (Va.) Board is expected to sign a daylight saving ordinance today.

In Fairfax County, Va., the time change will be officially delayed because the ordinance must be advertised further, but the Supervisors have indicated that Washington's lead will be followed Sunday morning.

Railroads, airlines and bus companies will remain on Standard Time, on paper.

Set clocks ahead one hour

However, railroad and bus companies will change their commuter schedules and many other schedules as well to conform to the working schedules of most of the general public. If in doubt, check your schedule beforehand, Union Terminal and bus officials advise.

This advice goes double if you're planning a trip by air, as some of the airlines will make major changes in schedules as of 2 a. m. Sunday. Their timetables will be written in standard time language, but both standard and local time will be given in replies to inquiries for flight schedules.

Clocks at terminals serving the three types of transportation will also remain on standard.

A. K. Mitchell, Washington superintendent for Western Union, asked subscribers to Western Union time service in stores, offices and public places to turn their clocks ahead to avoid public confusion.

Quick Pregnancy Test Hailed As Virtually 100% Accurate

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

A new quick test for pregnancy described as virtually 100 per cent accurate, even shortly after conception, was announced yesterday by Northwestern University.

The test, it was said, eliminates the time-honored use of laboratory animals such as rabbits, frogs and rats, and can be done with simple equipment in the doctor's laboratory while the patient awaits results in the outer office.

Already used in more than 1000 cases over a five-year period, the chemical color test of urine was devised by Dr. Garwood C. Richardson, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the university's medical school.

Dr. Richardson described the method and told of its results for the first time yesterday in joint meeting of the Chicago and St. Louis-Kansas City gynecological societies, at the Chicago Lying-in Hospital.

Requiring only two small test tubes and a variety of simple chemical reagents, the Richardson test is based on a quantitative

For Mentally Defective

Child Sterilization Proposed By Virginia Hospital Chief

Richmond, Va., April 22 (AP).—Dr. Joseph E. Barrett, director of Virginia's mental hospitals, today proposed that children with inherent mental defects be sterilized. He made the recommendation at a conference of the Child Research Clinic.

Barrett also proposed sterilization for persons whose mental defects are accidental "because though able, possibly, to produce normal children, they are incapable of raising them normally."

The clinic is sponsored by the Woods Schools of Langhorne, Pa., in collaboration with the Medical College of Virginia and the State Department of Mental Hygiene and Hospitals.

Dr. Barrett divided the mentally deficient into two classes. They were inherent or germ plasm defects and accidental defects.

He also advocated vocational training to be supplied by the educational system for children not in State mental hospitals and training "to capacity" for those in institutions.

He said the State law in Virginia already provides for the sterilization of persons committed to State institutions for mental deficiencies.

Senators Told of SS Slaughter of 150 GIs

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

A Senate subcommittee was told yesterday how 150 American soldiers who had surrendered were lined up in a Belgium cow pasture and shot down by hilarious SS troopers.

Kenneth F. Ahrens of Erie, Pa., former sergeant in the 285th Field Artillery Observation Battalion, was one of a very few men who missed death that December day in 1944. Yesterday he told what happened, in a low and deliberate voice, in a hushed and crowded Senate Armed Services Committee room.

"We were standing there not knowing what was going to heppen," said Ahrens, "and I was thinking about spending Christmas in a prison camp.

"Then one German stood up in a halftrack and pulled out a pistol. He waved it around and then came down into our group. He fired once and one boy dropped and he fired again and another boy dropped.

"Then I'd say all hell broke loose."

Machine Guns Open Fire

Ahrens said machine guns on a number of tanks opened fire on the prisoners and "I think I was hit in the first burst." He fell to the ground and lay there while "they fired into us quite a little while, spraying back and forth." When the machine guns stopped, he said, " a lot of the boys were moaning and groaning" and he could hear Germans walking among them shooting those who showed signs of life.

The SS troopers, members of "Task Force Pieper," which spearheaded the Ardennes drive of 1944, were laughing and joking, said Ahrens, and after they had moved on, other troops would pass on the road and fire into the men on the ground. These also, he said, were laughing and talking.

Finally, Ahrens said, he heard someone whisper and got a signal to run. He got up with several other soldiers, he said, and ran several hundred yards to a wood, although fired upon by a detachment left at a nearby crossroads. He made his way through the woods to the American lines and was picked up and hospitalized for two wounds in the back.

Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) took exception to calling Ahrens' terming the action an effort "to inflame the public and the members of this committee." Later McCarthy referred to the proceeding as a "Roman holiday" and "entirely improper."

The subcommittee, under chairmanship of Senator Baldwin (R., Conn.), is investigating charges that confessions were wrung from former SS men by third-degree methods. Baldwin told McCarthy it was entirely proper to call Ahrens for background and to check statements made by convicted Germans in their confessions.

After Ahrens testified, Morris Elowitz of New York, a former investigator in the SS cases, denied charges of brutality made by three convicted men. Each of the three named him in connection with what they described as mistreatment used to induce them to confess. In each case, he said, their statements were "entirely false."

Elowitz also said the much-discussed "mock trials" were merely an extension of police methods much used in the United States in which the suspect is confronted by a "tough" interrogator and a "friendly" one. The purpose, he said, is for the "friendly" investigator to gain the prisoner's confidence. In these "mock trials," the witness said, both interrogators were known to the suspects and in no case was an effort made to pretend that one was a prosecutor and the other a defense counsel.

Still another witness, John M. Raymond of Boston, who as a colonel headed a board that reviewed the convictions for Gen. Lucius D. Clay, said the "mock trials" met with little success. He said the trial court was told of these "trials" and "gave them such weight as they should have."

Former Technical Sergt. Dominick A Scalise of Warren, Pa., who was provost sergeant at the prison where the suspects were held during interrogation, denied knowledge of any brutality or inhuman treatment. He said that a "death cell" in which the convicted men frequently said they were confined could not have been used for that purpose since it contained a machine shop.

2 German Criminals Get Execution Stays

Frankfurt, Germany, April 2 (U.P.)—Army headquarters today said a stay of execution had been granted two convicted war criminals who were scheduled to hang today at Landsberg Prison. No reason was given.

They are George Schallermaier, SS master sergeant convicted of beating to death several inmates of Dachau Concentration Camp, and Hermann, Dammann, member of the Home Guard, who was sentenced for his part in slaying an American flier who parachuted near Neu Wulmsdorf, Germany, June 20, 1944.

In Russian Zone

Mail Closed To Catholic Publications

Berlin, April 22 (AP).—Catholic leaders said today that the church's publications in Berlin have been barred from the mails in Russian-occupied German territory.

The Communist German Economic Commission issued the order. It is equivalent to a complete ban because it is the only open method of distributing publications from western Berlin in the Russian zone.

The Communists claimed "there is no demand" for the Catholic newspapers advanced by the Communists several months ago when they shut out secular newspapers licensed by western powers.

The press secretary of Konrad Cardinal von Preysing said the Berlin diocese would attempt to continue distribution by its own methods—by hand and surreptitiously if necessary.

good reporting can't fix." The newspapers should drop "other sideshows" for some "good old-fashioned reporting." This came from Paul Miller of the Gannett Newspapers, former head of the Washington bureau of the Associated Press.

After the Roosevelt victories despite press opposition, the public laughed. But after the Truman victory, the public has "shrugged, as though we were no longer so important."

The papers made a "serious mistake" to let the public opinion polls "wander at will through the pages" as though the press "vouched" for the polls as scientific. These remarks came from Philip H. Parrish of the Portland Oregonian, which supported no candidate.

The session heard three off-the-record speeches from President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of Defense Johnson. The President went to the Statler when rain prevented the editors' visit to the White House, where a meeting had been planned in the rose garden.

Appearing with Johnson before the group were Maj. Gen. A. M. Gruenther, director of the Joint Staff, and Maj. Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, of the Foreign Assistance Correlation Committee. Johnson was introduced by Alexander F. Jones, assistant to the publisher of The Washington Post and treasurer of the ASNE.

Election of four directors of the society was announced at the evening session. Reeelcted for new terms were B. M. McKelway, editor of the Evening Star, and Dwight Young of the Dayton Journal Herald. Newly elected were Kenneth MacDonald of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, and Jenkin Lloyd Jones of the Tulsa Tribune.

This morning the directors will elect from their own number officers for the coming year. McKelway, now first vice president, is due to be named president, with Young moving up from second to first vice president.

At the same time, the ASNE's resolutions committee approved for consideration today a resolution deploring off-the-record speeches "by officials responsible to the electorate" and urging the society's officials to work to "abate this condition" both in the society and elsewhere.

A more controversial resolution is one urging the Associated Press and United Press to furnish the State Department's foreign information service with their news services, something AP and UP have refused to do.

Another resolution for consideration at today's closing sessions of the three-day gathering indorses action by the society's board of directors to fight the Baltimore court ruling which limits news stories in crime cases before the trial.

The resolution said the court rule "tends to expose the individual citizen to the risk of secret police and court action and to keep the public in ignorance of any deprivation of civil rights or of miscarriage of justice and to impose upon the press an insurmountable handicap in the fulfillment of its obligations to the public."

At a luncheon today the nearly 400 editors and guests will hear Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio discuss "The Future of the Republican Party." The convention ends with a banquet tonight at which the British Ambassador Sir Oliver Franks will speak.

Food 'Blockade' Lifted in Berlin Zoo

Early Big 4 Talks Hinted

Paris, April 22 (AP).—Foreign Minister Robert Schuman indicated today a four-power conference on Germany may be held soon.

Asked about reports of Russian overtures to the United States, Britain and France, Schuman smiled and replied:

"Some have been in error; others have been exact."

He said there have been informal conversations at Lake Success between Russia and the west on the Berlin blockade, but the Russians have made no definite proposals for lifting the blockade.

Schuman returned Monday from a trip to Washington and Lake Success.

Informed quarters at Lake Success, United Nation's site, commented that a brief talk between United States and Russian representatives on the Berlin blockade took place about three weeks ago.

Philip C. Jessup, United States Ambassador at large, and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jakob A. Malik were identified as participants. The informants said no conversations on Berlin are in progress at Lake Success at present.

Reds Denied Election Facilities by West

Berlin, April 22 (NYHT).—The western military government formally denied today official facilities in western Berlin for the May 15 election to the Soviet-sponsored German Peoples Congress.

In a joint statement, the Americans, British and French authorities called the election one in which "The result is settled in advance." Last winter the Russians turned down the opportunity to have a free election in which all Berlin would take part, the statement continued.

Moscow Radio Urges Easing of Berlin Bans

Berlin, April 22 (U.P.)—Moscow Radio urged today that "normal trade" be restored in Berlin and thus brought to a near official level the Communist clamor for an easing of the East-West economic war in Germany.

There was yet no sign that the Russian government was prepared to make the first move, as it must do, to ease the situation.

U. S. Rushes Trouble-Shooter To Save German Rule Offer

of the Russians who demanded abandonment of west German government proposals as a condition to lifting the blockade of Berlin. In addition, the stalemate adds encouragement to the so-called People's Council in the Soviet zone of Germany, which has approved a constitution for "all of Germany."

Yesterday's "compromise" offer by the Big Three was agreed to here on April 8, and no official reason was given for delaying its announcement, which was left to determination of the three military governors of West Germany.

One reason given unofficially was that it was held up in the hope that the Germans themselves could work out a solution. Some Germans, however, may look at it critically because of the delay—particularly the Christian Democratic Union which may have to concede the most under a compromise formula.

The Big Three memorandum offers "sympathetic consideration" to:

1. "Any provisions put forward by the Parliamentary Council (at Bonn) in the direction of securing financial independence and adequate strength for both the Laender (states) and federal governments in operating in their respective fields . . ."

2. Any formula which "assures to the Laender sufficient powers to enable them to be independent and vigorous governmental bodies."

3. Any formula which will give the federal government power to deal effectively in the governmental fields in which the interest of more than one state is involved—public health, for example.

4. Suggestions on the right of the federal government, from the taxes it collects, to extend some aid to the states for education, health and welfare purposes—subject to approval by the state-appointed members of the upper house of the proposed government.

At the same time, the memorandum also reiterates that the big three cannot consider including the dividend City of Berlin in such a government at this time, and calls for limiting federal power to exclude central authority over such areas as education, cultural and religious affairs, public health and financial control beyond its own needs—as called for by the big three's London agreement of June 1, 1948.

Russia Plans Blow at U. S., Eaker Says

Biloxi, Miss., April 22 (U.P.)—Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, retired Air Force leader, said here today he "believes Russia plans to attack our country when her dictator thinks he can win."

The former leader of the Eighth Air Force said Russian representatives were at great pains to make certain all United Nations efforts for peace failed.

U. N. Tables Inquiry Into Clergy Trials

Lake Success, April 22 (AP).—The United Nations voted today against any U. N. inquiry now into the trials of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty and 15 Bulgarian Protestant churchmen but decided to keep the issue alive until fall.

The U. N. approved instead an American-supported plan to invoke peace treaty guarantees of human rights and freedoms in Hungary and Bulgaria.

A Cuban-Austrian plan for an investigation was defeated, 30 to 4, in the 58-nation special political committee of the U. N. Assembly. Only Australia, Cuba, LeBannon and New Zealand voted for it.

The winning resolution—offered by Bolivia and backed by the United States, France and Britain—urged Hungary and Bulgaria to cooperate toward settling the issue under the peace treaties.

The vote was 34 to 6 (the six were the Russian bloc).

The Bolivian resolution now goes to the full Assembly, where its final approval is expected.

Israel Soon May Get Austerity Program

Tel Aviv, April 22 (NYHT.).—Israel's civilian populace received warning today of an approaching austerity program which will rival that endured by postwar England.

Within a month the state's Constituent Assembly will receive a comprehensive plan to ration all basic commodities, to stabilize wages, to fix prices and to wipe out black market dealings.

Satellites Change Minds on Red Cross

Geneva, Switzerland, April 22 (U.P.)—Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, which had previously turned down invitations to the International Red Cross Conference here, today followed Russia's lead and announced they would attend.

Latin-Americans Plan Customs Union

Annecy, France, April 22 (AP).—Plans for a Latin-American customs union between Colombia, Venezuela, Ecuador and Panama were announced here today by Colombian Delegate Alfonso Araujo to the world tariff negotiations here.

Politburo Ouster Indicated

New York, April 22 (AP).—New evidence came from Moscow today to indicate that the Soviet Politburo—Russia's top policy-making body—has fired one of its members.

This may be the first Politburo ouster in more than a decade. The man believed dropped is Nikolai A. Voznesensky, replaced as head of the Russian Planning Commission when V. M. Molotov was relieved as Foreign Minister.

A dispatch from Moscow today announcing that members of the Politburo have been elected delegates to the Soviet Trades Union Congress contained what seemed to be a complete list of Politburo members, without mention of Voznesensky.

Red Invasion Plan Aired

Coleman, in Cumberland.—Editor's note.]

Following Nicodemus to the stand was another FBI undercover man, Garfield Herron of Hot Springs, Ark., who said he joined the party in Chicago in 1944 when he was working at the Douglas aircraft plant there.

Herron said he went to the FBI before he joined the party and made regular reports until he left Chicago in 1947 and returned to Arkansas. Among those he contacted in Chicago, he said, was Gilbert Green, Illinois Communist chairman and one of the defendants on trial here for conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the United State Government.

Herron said he later went to work at the Stewart-Warner plant and joined the Communist unit there. He attended a six-week course in advanced party strategy, he said, with a man identified as Everett Hall, as educational director.

One of the lessons called for a study of the revolution in Russia with special emphasis on the "defeat of one's own government." Herron said he was taught that the Truman Administration was the main instrument of imperialism "in the hands of the bourgeois."

That lesson, he said, had a subtitle: "After the proletariat revolution."

It stated, he said, that the revolution would mean the smashing of the bourgeois state, its army, police force and political machinery. A triumph of the dictatorship of the proletariat, the lesson stated, was not merely a change of government but the creation of a new state.

Defense attorneys appeared disturbed by the appearance of this second FBI plant within the party playing a role similar to the one of Herbert Philbrick, the Boston advertising executive who testified about Communist activities in New England.

Paris, April 22 (AP).—Donald Henderson, an American labor leader, told the Communist-dominated World Peace Congress today that workers in the United States "will not be driven into a war against the Soviet Union."

The 2244 persons attending the congress from 46 countries gave him an ovation.

Henderson, international president of the Tobacco, Agricultural and Allied Workers Union of America, an affiliate of the CIO, made a bitter attack on his own government.

He accused it of using "every device and trick to confuse, divide, bribe and use democratic people as weapons against the forces of democracy in the world."

Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, 81-year-old American Negro author and chairman of the American delegation to the congress, made this reference to the United States:

"Drunk with power, we are leading the world to hell in a new colonialism with the same old human slavery which once ruined us."

The patriarch Alexis, head of the Russian Orthodox Church, sent blessings to the congress. The Metropolitan Nicolas Kuititsky conveyed the blessings and then criticized "warmongers."

No Song for Pact Backer

Stockholm, Sweden, April 22 (U.P.).—Paul Robeson, American Negro baritone, has canceled two scheduled concerts in Copenhagen because a newspaper that sponsored them favors the Atlantic Treaty, he disclosed today.

Robeson said the concerts were to be sponsored by the Copenhagen newspaper Politiken.

He said he would be happy to sing in Copenhagen if the Danish Communist newspaper Land og Folk sponsored the concerts.

Robeson's voice was drowned out at a concert here last night when he tried to sing the Russian "Song of the Fatherland." He tried vainly to make his voice heard over the clamor of the catcalls, whistling and foot-stamping.

Mother of Witnesss Guarded After Threat

Cumberland, Md., April 22 (AP).—The 50-year-old mother of Charles W. Nicodemus, Government witness in the New York Communist trial, has received "threatening telephone calls" and her home was placed under guard, police reported today.

Chicago U. Dean Denies Any Red Link

Springfield, Ill., April 22 (AP).—A University of Chicago dean declared today he is not a Communist, and the president of Roosevelt College in Chicago said he knows of nothing subversive at his college.

They testified at the second day of hearings by the Illinois Seditious Activities Investigation Commission. It is searching for any subversive activities of "Communist indoctrination" at the two institutions.

A commission agent said Albert Einstein and Thomas Mann, member of Roosevelt College's advisory board, have been linked with "Communist organizations."

Dr. Edward J. Sparling, Roosevelt's president, replied: "We are proud to have them on our board. I don't believe in the doctrine of guilt by association, and far be it from me to interpret what goes on in their great minds."

Einstein is a famous physicist and Mann is an author. Both are Nobel Prize winners.

Dr. Sparling said that "if we have a Communist on our faculty, I do not know of it."

The Rev. John B. Thompson, Presbyterian minister and dean of Rockefeller Memorial Chapel at the University of Chicago, opened his testimony with this statement:

"I am not a Communist. I have never been a Communist. I have profound philopsical and political criticisms of communism."

He concluded, after long questioning, by declaring that under the terms of pending bills to outlaw communism in Illinois, "Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln could be arrested and put in jail for what they said."

The bills are sponsored by State Senator Paul Broyles (R., Mount Vernon), head of the investigation commission. One would make being a Communist a felony punishable by five years in prison.

Dr. Thompson, former chairman of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, a group described by the Attorney General as a Communist front organization, also testified:

"I protest against the commission's process of guilt by association, the lumping of people as subversive because they happen to believe in something some Communists believe in."

The names of Einstein and Mann were brought up by J. B. Matthews, former Dies Committee agent serving as questioner for the Illinois Legislature Commission.

He said that they belonged to number of "Communist front" groups, and that such groups are "the same as Communist organizations."

Crippled Sloop Hit Again by China Reds

Shanghai, April 22 (AP).—The British sloop Amethyst was hit again today by Chinese Communist shellfire when she tried to limp to the Yangtze to Nanking.

British sources did not know if any new casualties had been added to the crippled ship's 19 dead and 40-odd wounded.

They said the Amethyst, now about 60 miles east of Nanking, might try to reach Nanking by night.

The vessel was damaged Wednesday by Red shellfire.

Three other British ships, the cruisier London, destroyer Consort and sloop Black Swan were also damaged by Communist artillery when they attempted to aid the Amethyst. Total casualties were 44 dead and 82 or more wounded.

The Amethyst has been under intermittent artillery fire and continual small-arms fire ever since.

All of her wounded reached Shanghai by train tonight with the bodies of her captain, Lieut. Comdr. B. M. Skinner, and one other who died after being taken ashore under fire.

British Captain Hit In Seat of His Pants

Shanghai, April 22 (AP).—Capt. Peter Cazalet of the cruiser H. M. S. London will probably take his meals standing up for the next few days.

The skipper said today "I got hit in the seat of the pants" when Communist shells and shrapnel tore 23 holes in the British ship's hull yesterday on the Yangtze River.

Cabinet to Discuss China Reds' Attacks

London, April 22 (U.P.).—The cabinet is fearful of "losing face" in Asia and will discuss on Monday the Chinese Communist attacks on four British naval vessels on the Yangtze River, a government source said today.

Incidents there appeared to be little Britain could do. None of the great powers—not even Russia—recognizes the Chinese Communist regime.

Annual Egg Hunt Set

The fourteenth annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Prince Georges County and Sidney Lust theaters will be held at 10 a. m. today in Magruder Park, Hyattsville, Md.

Death Separated Them on High Seas

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

SAGA—Hero of a tragic pre-Easter cruise on the stormy Atlantic was John Pitcairn, a socialite of Boston and Bryn Athyn, Pa., who, after watching helplessly as his wife was swept overboard, pitted his courage and skill against raging seas to save the lives of eight other vacationists on his schooner Seaflower. The storm struck the 70-foot windjammer, en route to Bermuda, in the Gulf Stream. The four women aboard were ordered below deck, but Mrs. Pitcairn was struck by a boom swinging in the gale and was tossed overboard by a 40-foot wave. She was the former Virginia Jaeschki of Flossmoor, Ill. The Pitcairns met while students three years ago

British Police Save Red From Angry Crowd

Dartmouth, England, April 22 (AP).—Police had to rescue Britain's top Communist tonight from a crowd enraged over the shelling of four British ships by Chinese Reds.

Harry Pollitt, general secretary of the British Communist Party, was draged to safety by constables after members of the crowd offered him a rope and a suggestion that he hang himself.

Then the crowd burned the Red flag that draped the speaking platform of the outdoor political rally.

Pollitt took refuge in a house after eggs, fruit and rocks were heaved. The Communist chief decided to stay there overnight, ignoring shouts of "Come out, Harry, we will wait all night if necessary."

When Pollitt cut short a speech on Communist Party policy and said he would answer questions, a man asked:

"What would you do if you were on the Amethyst?"

Pollitt replied: "I should do exactly as our British boys are doing at this moment. I would ask the same question as many of you are asking—what was the Amethyst doing there?"

At this point a man shoved a note and a rope at Pollitt.

Police said the note read:

"Judas Iscariot was presented with one of these and used it. I invite you to do likewise. Signed C. F. Akhurst, father of one of the boys murdered on the Yangtze."

Akhurst said his son, John Cecil, 29, was killed on the destroyer Consort.

Reynaud Sees Red Peril To All Asia

Communist advances in China pose a "very dangerous" situation for French Indochina—and also for Siam, Malaya, Burma and India—former French Premier Paul Reynaud said here yesterday.

Reynaud called attention to recent reports of Chinese Communists crossing into Indochina to aid Chinese guerillas fighting the French there.

"What is happening in China now is important not only to France, but to all the peace," stated Reynaud, who chose to retire as premier in 1940 rather than surrender France to the Nazis.

At a news conference at the French Embassy, Reynaud, still spry at the age of 70, recalled that he was last here in 1936 during the presidential election campaign and told President Roosevelt, "Europe wants America to have a great President, because war will break out in Europe during the next term."

Today, he said, while conditions are far from satisfactory, "they are not so bad as in 1936."

In response to a question, Reynaud said he is "not very optimistic" about the chances of an agreement on making "peace" with Russia.

"I hope an agreement will be reached one day," he said. "I can't say it is something easy."

He said there can be "no doubt that conditions have improved in France" recently, with "not so many strikes now as before the war." France, he said, to recover fully must "work more, produced more, export more."

Asked to give his views on General de Gaulle's chances to gain leadership of the French government, he said, "the statistics are the best answer."

Reynaud, now a member of the French Chamber of Deputies, said his primary purpose in this country is to address a meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce in New York on Wednesday, and that he will see 'some personalities" here, including President Truman and Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman.

Work Halted On Navy's New Supercarrier

Copyright, 1949, N. Y. Herald Tribune

All work on the Navy's new 65,000-ton superaircraft carrier United States has been stopped and it is highly probable that its construction will be canceled, it was learned from high sources in the Military Establishment last night.

The final decision, it was learned, rests with Defense Secretary Louis Johnson and the Joint Chiefs of Staff and probably will be made known Monday.

The Navy on Monday went through the ceremony of laying the keel for the vessel at Newport News, Va., but it was only a formaltiy. A survey by the Joint Chiefs to determine the advisability of the carrier's construction already was under way.

That study, it was learned tonight, has shown that the ultimate cost of the carrier would be much more than the 186 million dollars originally estimated—perhaps three times as much, it was said in some quarter—because of increased wages for workers and higher costs for materials.

Officials Flee China Capital

but carted off everything they could lay their hands on.

Flags of different nationalities still flew over the various consulates and embassies and other buildings of foreign nations. So far the foreign diplomatic missions have made no move to evacuate the capital. A few American, British, French and other nationals still remained.

Not a single Communist shell was sent into the city, Chang reported over one of the few remaining telephone circuits.

The Associated Press reported from Nanking that an estimated 100,000 Nationalist troops reportedly clogged the roads in disorderly retreat from Nanking. They fled south along four main highways.

The flight of government soldiers led to belief that their commanders temporarily had lost control. Military quarters said the twenty-sixth Army, ordered to move into Nanking last night to defend the capital, never arrived.

Desertion of Nationalist troops was reported at many points. The defecting troops simply sat down and waited for the Communists.

Elements of the Communist Thirty-fifth and Thirty-seventh Armies attacted Pukow and fires could be seen just north of the city. Red machinegun and rifle fire could be heard plainly in Nanking.

(In Canton, the Foreign Affairs Ministry asked all foreign diplomatic representatives to move their offices to Canton. The ministry said Chinese missions abroad had been instructed to make the same representations to foreign governments. Thus it appeared Canton would become the temporary Chinese capital.)

A United States Embassy spokesman said that so far Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart had received no new instructions from Washington.

The Communists had occupied Kiangyin, on the Shanghai-Nanking Highway 85 miles southeast of Nanking. That river naval base is 20 miles north of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway, but in belief that the railway had been or soon would be cut, all departures from Nanking were by plane.

The Communists were acknowledged to have a full army—20,000 men—in Kiangyin.

On both sides of Nanking, desertions and nonfighting retreats plagued the government's poor defenses.

Gov. Lane Signs 239 Maryland Bills

Annapolis, Md., April 22 (AP).—Governor Lane waded through 239 pieces of legislation today and by signing them did this:

1. Put Maryland's tough anti-Communist law into immediate effect.

2. Gave final approval to the $16,373,000 bond issue he had sponsored for buildings and improvements at State institutions.

3. Indorsed the regional plan for higher education in the South.

4. Called for referenda on constitutional amendments which would freeze at 123 the membership of the House of Delegates and allow judges to rule on sufficiency of evidence in criminal cases.

J. P. Brock, administrative assistant to the secretary of State, said 441 measures have yet to be acted on. Lane already has signed 419 acts of the Legislature which adjourned April 4.

The antisubversive law, drawn up by a special commission, outlaws organizations which promote overthrow of the Government by force, calls for loyalty checks of public employes and grand jury investigations of Communist activity. It is effective immediately.

Other Bills Signed

Other bills signed into law included:

House Bills

H. B. 71—By speaker—validating a local law of Montgomery County giving the county the right to regulate taxicabs, particularly as to rates.

Sweets Baited 'Hearts' Notes

Dover, Del., April 22 (U.P.).—Confessed "lonely hearts" slayer Mrs. Inez Brennan baited her letters to "lonely hearts" suitors with such such terms as "Sweetums" and "My dearest darling," State police disclosed today.

The tender phrases cropped up time and again in a batch of letters she wrote to Fred W. Schub, 63, a well-to-do poultryman from Salisbury, Md. Schub has been unheard from since December, 1947, when he told friends he was going to the Carolinas to live with a son.

Authorities were investigating the possibility that he had suffered the fate of two widowers, who sought the 45-year-old Mrs. Brennan's hand and were slain. They were Wade N. Wooldridge, 70, Stone Mountain, Va., and Hugo Schultz, 65, Concord, N. H.

Mrs. Brennan and her two sons, Robert, 16, and Raymond, 23, were held for the grand jury today. Judge Ernest Keith ordered "not guilty" pleas entered for all three.

Goat Castle Mistress Dies

Natchez, Miss., April 22 (U.P.).—The story of "Goat Castle" ended today with the death of Octavia Dockery, 84-year-old chatelaine of a brokendown mansion amid Natchez's ante-bellum splendor.

She died without a judgment on her claim to be the legal wife of the late Richard H. C. (Dick) Dana. She had held on to the end in the dreamy ruin despite repeated eviction attempts by parties who bought the mansion at a foreclosure sale.

Goat Castle got its name—and the legend started—in 1931 when a neighbor, Miss Jennie Merrill, was murdered. Investigators found goats wandering through the spacious halls and ballrooms where the gilt of a forgotten era was turning to dust.

Dana and Miss Dockery were arrested but were finally cleared when George Pearls was charged with the murder. He was killed in Arkansas before he could be tried.

The aging couple went back to Goat Castle. Last September, Dana died.

A few weeks ago Miss Dockery sued Isaac, Sam and Seaman Kerkowsky and Mrs. Jeanette Habas, who gained title to the property through a United States commissioner's sale on foreclosure of a mortgage signed by Miss Dockery as Dana's guardian.

Miss Dockery contended she and Dana were married in 1902. She admitted the papers could not now be found to back up the claim.

Miss Dockery went back into her rotting castle to await court's decision and death came quietly today.

Plane Tickets From Canada Beat 15% Tax

New York, April 22 (AP).—Americans have discovered they can beat the 15 per cent travel tax by buying their airlines tickets mail-order fashion from Canada. And the mailed-ticket business is booming.

The bargain gimmick was created March 23 when Canada lifted its 15 per cent tax on travel. That tax still is in effect in the United States.

But tickets between any two places in the world served by regular airlines can be purchased in Canada without restrictions as to the departure point. This is in accordance with an international Air Transport Association agreement.

Save About $44.94.

Thus, a New Yorker wishing to fly to Los Angeles, for example, can write a ticket agent in Canada and pay $299.92 for a round-trip ticket which in the United States would cost about $44.94 more because of the United States tax, airlines spokesmen said.

The situation on train tickets is somewhat different, because the railroads have agreed to sell tax-free tickets only on trips originating in Canada, according to a spokesman for the New York Central Railroad.

However, since the railroads do issue tickets for the entire trip from the Canadian point to any place in this country, via connecting lines, persons living near the border can effect savings by crossing to Canada for their tickets.

It would pay a resident of Seattle, for example, to go to nearby Vancouver, British Columbia, for a round-trip ticket to a distant point like Miami.

Sales Up 17% Here in Week Before Easter

By S. Oliver Goodman

Final figures on Easter sales indicate that Washington department stores recorded a gain of 17 per cent in the week ended April 16 over the same 1948 period.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, reporting this yesterday, added that dollar volume for the four weeks ended April 17 was 14 per cent over the like period last year.

Regionally, the gains were 13 per cent for the week and 9 per cent for the four-week period.

To give an accurate picture of Easter sales this year as contrasted with 1948, most merchants agree that the March-April aggregate should be compared because of the much earlier holiday last year. Actually, it wasn't until the week ended April 9 that sales began to him here and elsewhere. Volume for March was lower. But in the final two weeks before Easter, good weather and intensive store promotion "started the customers running like shad."

SLIP IN SALES: Reliable Stores Corp. yesterday reported consolidated net sales of $3,850,447 for the first three months this year, compared with $4,593,012 in the same 1948 period. Net income amounted to $55,987 or 16 cents a common share, against $276,757 or 81 cents a share in same period last year.

FBI Arrests Four In Bank Robberies

Nashville, Tenn., April 22 (AP). The FBI was piecing together today the stories of three men and a young woman arrested and charged with bank robberies that netted more than $40,000.

Memphis FBI Agent D. S. Hostetter said two of the four arrested in yesterday's simultaneous raids at Memphis and on a farmhouse, have given oral confessions implicating the others.

The robberies, said Hostetter, involved two Baltimore banks and a Follansbee (W. Va.) bank.

Hostetter said FBI agents found the suspects target-shooting with a pistol in a farm yard in Hickman County. They were captured after police fired only one shot. They were identified as Carl Close, 31, Joseph William Moran, 24, and Audry Fay Lynn, 22.

The woman—a shapely brunette—told officers she and the two men had been planning to leave soon for California.

Some $1660 was found in Close's wallet. The woman had approximately $80 in her possession.

Almost at the same moment that officers closed in on the farmhouse, agents in Memphis quietly arrested James Edward Bernett, 23, in a drugstore there. He was unarmed and had $385 on his person.

Bernett readily told officers of his part in the robberies. So did Moran. Bernett "put the finger" on the others and also pointed out Roy L. Mann, 28, who was arrested several days ago in West Virginia with two women, as his partner in two of the robberies.

Bernett, Close and Mann are charged with robbing the two Baltimore banks. In one of them last January 28, $2800 was taken from the Occidental Federal Savings and Loan Association, and in the other, February 15, some $32,000 was taken from the Union Trust Co.

Bernett, Close and Moran are charged with the Follansbee robbery April 13, when $5400 was taken.

the station and met his death within an hour.

In New York, mid-Manhattan court records showed that a man identifying himself as John Garris, 36, of 362 W. 57th st., was convicted May 28, 1947, on a charge of loitering in a men's room of a subway station. Sentence was suspended. Papers on the body here had the same address, police said.

Police had broadcast a lookout notice for a bloodstained automobile with a New York license as a possible clew. The notice was canceled soon afterward. Police said the car was not connected with the case. It was driven by a New York salesman of religious literature. The bloodstains were caused by the man's dog.

E. I. Heiderbrand, detective superintendent, said he was trying to locate a close associate of Garris who traveled with him frequently.

The unnamed associate was scheduled to take a plane from Atlanta to Dallas on the day Garris' body was found. The opera company now is in Dallas, Tex.

Garris' roommate and singing coach in New York, Lutz Peter, said the singer was a modest, quiet person with "a very sweet disposition" who had no enemies.

Asked about reports another man was raveling with Garris on the Met tour, Peter said "the only man he could have traveled with was I, and I was in Los Angeles."

[The United Press identified Garris' roommate as Lutz P. Ullfelder.]

Garris' manager, Michael de Pace, said there was no significance in the twin-bed room reserved for Garris in Dallas.

"We always ask for a double room because it is easier to get them." He said as far as he knew no one was traveling with Garris.

Costa Rican Crisis Over

San Jose, Costa Rica, April 22 (U.P.).—A three-day political crisis appeared to have been solved today when provisional President Jose Figueres announced he and his junta would remain in power until a new constitution is adopted and a new congress elected.

analysis of esterone present in the patient's urine. Esterone, a female hormone, is found in the urine of non pregnant women but can be shown in sufficiently higher concentration for pregnancy diagnosis in the urine of women who have conceived, Dr. Richardson said.

Accurate results, the gynecologist said, can readily be obtained by a physician using the test within a period not exceeding a half-hour from the time the urine specimen is taken.

Presently used pregnancy tests are seldom used in less than 15 days following lapse of menstrual period, and take two hours to five days or more to obtain results. The time factor is particularly important in suspected cases of tubal pregnancy (occurring within the Fallopian tubes), where prompt surgery is required.

The standard rabbit method takes about 48 hours; the standard frog test can be done in 12 hours, and the relatively new frog test, first announced last year, takes two to four hours to complete. The often-favored series tests on five mice requires five days or more.

Esterone skin tests for pregnancy, not always accurate, require a time lapse of five days and can be administered successfully only to patients who have a known regular menstrual cycle, have received no recent glandular treatments, and do not have anemia.

For the Richardson test, estrone in the urine specimen must be separated from progestrone derivatives, the presence of which interferes with esterone determination.

Reaction of the urine to sodium hydroxide and chloroform causes the desired extraction of progesterone derivatives. The ultimate sample to be assayed rises to the top and is transferred to an inner test tube for the final step in the analysis.

In this, esterone in one procedure causes the sample to turn brown to indicate positive result (pregnancy); in another final step procedure the sample turns violet-red to give the same finding.

that the marshal's return in the case was directed to District Court and that he was powerless to aid Fuller.

James Menendez, criminal clerk of the court, said that his office never received a statement of Fuller's arrest either from the marshal or from North Carolina authorities who under Federal Court rules must forward transcripts in removal hearings.

Fay assigned an assistant Charles B. Murray, to investigate the case to determine whether the prosecution office was in any way at fault.

Murray told a reporter, "I am not going to make anything public about the case until I have investigated all angles. Then, if I am permitted, I will do so no matter who is at fault."

The Nation's Health

The objective of a national health program, the President told Congress yesterday, is twofold: "to make available enough medical services to go around, and to see that everybody has a chance to obtain these services." This, it seems to us, is the proper sequence of accomplishment. The President in making national health insurance his first objective put the cart before the horse.

Health insurance is primarily a technique of payment for medical care costs. It means simple prepayment of premiums as in any other type of insurance. Accordingly, it could be instituted as of tomorrow, and everyone covered would immediately begin paying the premiums, through payroll deduction or the like. This, the President said, would mean that proper medical care would be "economically accessible to everyone covered by it."

The trouble is that "economically" means "theoretically" in the case of medical care in this country today. There are not enough doctors, nurses, hospital beds, clinics and laboratories in the United States to take care of present demand. If, day after tomorrow, all those covered by the proposed insurance system should decide to take advantage of the medical services their premium payments promise, chaos would result.

The first problem, thus, is to stimulate the supply of medical personnel and facilities in keeping with expanding demands for medical care. Several years will be required for the necessary building and training. As the supply problem is improved—and Federal assistance is both necessary and proper in this—complete medical care can be extended over an increasingly wider field. Whether or not compulsory Federal health insurance is the best means of accomplishing the desired end can then be decided in the light of our wider experience. Certainly it would be premature today and should not be allowed to obscure the immediate problem of expanding our medical and hospital resources.

Balance In Housing

The goal at which the housing bill passed by the Senate on Thursday night is aimed is a decent home for every American family. Of course, this bill represents only one step toward achievement of that goal, and measured against the total need it is a small step. Our national need for housing is estimated at between 17 and 18 million units by 1960. The present bill makes allowance for only 810,000 units over the next six years. This limit, however, is by no means a measure of its significance.

Actually the building of homes has now attained an enormous volume. It is balance in the program that is lacking. Taking advantage of the shortages resulting from a lag of building during the war, private industry has been supplying homes for families in the upper income brackets. While that is important and while the great bulk of the building will continue to be done by private industry, the acute demand for low-cost housing has been almost wholly neglected. The bill approved by the Senate will remedy this defect. It recognizes that housing is a community problem as well as an individual problem and taps the resources of the Federal Government to aid local communities in meeting those housing needs that private industry cannot meet.

The philosophy behind the bill is the reverse of socialism. It is predicated on the assumption that private industry will continue to supply the great bulk of our housing requirements. The program of housing research authorized by the bill is expected greatly to aid private builders, and its main provisions concerned with the clearance of slums and the erection of low-cost housing are confined to a field that private industry cannot touch. Indeed, the Senate has leaned backward to avoid any encroachment upon private home-building. It requires a gap of at least 20 per cent between the upper rent levels in the public housing authorized and the lowest rents at which private enterprise can supply decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings on a large scale. We can see no reason why public housing should not be available to any low-income families for whom private enterprise cannot provide. The 20 per cent gap is an obvious denial of the Banking and Currency Committee's goal of a decent home for every family, and seems to us to be quite out of keeping with the otherwise progressive nature of the bill.

This generally forward-looking measure is made meaningful to Washington by the Sparkman amendment restoring to the National Capital Housing Authority the power to purchase land. That authority should never have been taken from NCHA. Probably no American city is in greater need of decent low-cost housing than Washington. Adoption of Senator Sparkman's suggestion of launching model housing projects here would serve the double purpose of demonstrating to Congress and many visitors what can be done in relieving the Nation's Capital of conditions that have been shameful over many decades.

Soviet Feelers

Without a doubt someone from the Soviet side of Europe has been making discreet overtures toward a lifting of the Berlin blockade. M. Schuman said in Paris yesterday that there had been informal talks on the subject at Lake Success, but no precise proposals as yet. The Western governments do not seem to know just what these feelers mean. The official attitude so far has been exactly right: to repeat, as Mr. Acheson did on Wednesday, that all official channels remain open to the Russians; to receive any specific inquiry willingly but to examine it searchingly; to keep calm about it, and to remember that too much eagerness from this side might only further the purposes of propaganda from the other.

The Western allies can afford to keep cool about these shadowy overtures from Moscow. The Russians are not seeking peace; they are seeking to extricate themselves from a situation that becomes more damaging for them day by day. The astonishing feat of the air lift in landing 12,941 tons in Berlin last Saturday showed that the city could be supplied indefinitely. The signature of the North Atlantic Treaty showed that Russia could no longer pick off her victims one by one. The new agreements on Germany showed that the Western allies could not be blocked or dissuaded in the German areas under their control. As conditions in the western zones improve, as the counterblockade grows tighter, there is every sign of deterioration in the Soviet-controlled zone in the east. All these factors—the air lift, the treaty, west German progress and east German decay—have combined to produce the new overtures, whatever their precise nature may be.

Evidently the Russians want an early meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers, as the first step toward postponing the creation of a German government in the west. If such a meeting is all the Russians want, the Western allies would be on shaky ground in objecting to it. Last summer they told Stalin they would be willing to have a four-power meeting, on the problems of Germany as a whole, if the blockade were lifted, although they declined to postpone creation of a western German government in the meantime. Dr. Jessup repeated these assurances and conditions in Paris later in the year. But the Western powers should be on their guard against any new Soviet conditions.

They should be careful, in particular, not to agree to restore the status quo within Berlin as it existed prior to last June. For almost three years the old four-power government of the city was frustrated and paralyzed by the Soviet veto in the Komandatura. Now the three Western powers have abolished the veto among themselves, and have substituted the more sensible "veto-in-reverse" which General Mark Clark persuaded the Russians to accept in Vienna long ago. Under this device the Berlin city government is free to act in the western sectors unless all three allies unanimously object to any decision. The new system is working well. It would be better to keep Berlin divided than to return to the organized and legalized obstruction of former days. General Clay has assured the Berliners once more that the West will not hand them over to domination by the Soviet Union. There can be no retreat from this pledge without undoing everything that has been accomplished since the blockade began.

News For Export

The American Society of Newspaper Editors, meeting in Washington, today is scheduled to act upon a resolution calling for vigorous expansion of United States information efforts abroad. This resolution is in keeping with the recent findings of the independent advisory commission on information headed by the society's outgoing president. Of special importance is the section urging the Associated Press and United Press to furnish their news services for Voice of America broadcasts. Both these agencies so far have denied their facilities to the information program on the ground that governmental use of their stories might reflect on their objectivity.

Whatever reason there may have been initially for this fear, its significance is minimized by the integrity with which the information program has been conducted and the need for the United States to make use of every instrument in the world-wide battle for free information. There is a further absurdity in the denial because of the fact that Associated Press news is available to Tass, the Russian news agency, through an exchange agreement—and if the Tass use does not amount to propaganda nothing does.

Altogether, what the AP-UP policy has done is to tie knots in the American effort to protect over the world the very objectivity they are concerned about. Newspaper editors ought to be the first to demonstrate their understanding of the broad issue by a strong vote urging the press associations to end the handicap to the country's efforts to get the truth across.

Arms And The Treaty

By disclosing the size and general nature of the proposed military-aid program, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee has made ratification of the North Atlantic Treaty a good deal easier. Mr. Acheson was in a real dilemma when he went to Capitol Hill Thursday for a private session with the committee. He did not want the coming debate over the treaty to be clut tered up with irrelevant argument over the detail of military aid. On the other hand, he knew that the treaty obligated the United States to help its partners "develop their individual and collective capacity to resist armed attack." Senator Connally apparently wanted to bottle up all the facts about the arms program until the treaty had been ratified; Senator George at one time wanted a preaudit of the arms program, as if by a certified public accountant, before he would even vote for ratification. Either course would have entangled the treaty seriously if not fatally. The committee and Mr. Acheson have found a far more sensible middle way.

The committee's public statement makes clear, first, that the Administration will seek about $1,130,000,000 in military aid for the treaty partners in the next fiscal year; second, that some of this aid may consist of raw materials, or of surplus equipment which would not require new appropriations. Apart from these broad disclosures, the statement contains a candid explanation of the relationship of the treaty to the arms program. Although the treaty does not bind the United States to send any specific help to specific countries, it does bind the United States, as Mr. Acheson says, to use its "honest judgment" as to the kind of aid, and the amount that will best achieve a joint defense of the treaty partners. Judging from the committee's public statement, Mr. Acheson must have been frank in his testimony. He will have another chance to deflect criticism by candor when public hearings on the pact begin next Thursday.

The amount to be sought in military aid is smaller than advance accounts had suggested. Obviously the state of the Federal budget, and the worried state of mind in Congress, have resulted in a pruning of the program. The additional 320 million dollars to be sought for Greece, Turkey, and other nontreaty countries, probably including Iran, Korea and the Philippines, is also smaller than had been expected. Without full details it is impossible to judge whether these proposed amounts are adequate, or what, indeed, they will provide. But the Administration and the committee are quite right in saying that further details must await the formal submission of the arms-to-Europe program. The Senate and the public now know enough about military aid to debate the treaty in intelligent fashion.

Mr. Gwinn's Bogeys

Congressman Gwinn of New York warned the D. A. R. that this country is heading for state socialism and urged its members to fight the trend by manning the political trenches and propaganda platforms with volunteers like those at Valley Forge. What are these evil tendencies that threaten to deprive Americans of their cherished liberties and convert them into subservient subjects of a totalitarian state? They are such things as Federal aid to education, compulsory health insurance, Federal housing laws, minimum-wage legislation, and old-age insurance. Mr. Gwinn detects the sinister influence of Marxism in all these governmental attempts to succor the needy and raise living standards by remedial legislation.

This narrow concept of the permissible limits to governmental activity in a non-socialistic society are indeed a throwback to the days when Americans were fighting for their independence. Fortunately, few modern Americans share his view that there is no middle ground between socialism and freedom; they believe there is a safe middle ground, permitting of an expansion of publicly financed social services of the kind that private enterprise is not in a position to provide. To resist demands for this sort of governmental activity would entail risks of a political revolt that might bring about the overthrow of the very institutions that Mr. Gwinn wants to preserve.

Fine Appointments

President Truman would never be bothered by criticism of his appointments if all of them were as good as the choice of David Bruce to be Ambassador to France. Few Americans have ever shown a deeper understanding of the French than Mr. Bruce in his one year as chief of the ECA mission in Paris. He won the liking and the trust of labor leaders and shopkeepers as well as politicians. He was an evangelist, in his quiet and persuasive way, for the Marshall Plan and for the foreign policy that now links the United States more closely than ever to France and the rest of western Europe. When he becomes Ambassador, the job and the man will be ideally matched.

President Truman said wistfully the other day that it was hard to find qualified men for important Government posts. Yet good men can be found if fitness is the only guide. The President proved it a second time by nominating Barry Bingham of Louisville to succeed Mr. Bruce as head of the ECA mission in France. Mr. Bingham's ability and public spirit have been tested in other Government posts as well as on his great newspaper, the Courier-Journal. The Bruce and Bingham appointments are of the sort that reflect credit on the President and on his administration.

"American Politburo"

What you say in your April 20 editorial about my recently published book, Toward Efficient Democracy, indicates that the writer of your editorial either had not read the book or chose to misrepresent it. He gives attention to only one feature of one chapter and he does not even present fairly the feature that he singles out for criticism.

I am concerned in this book quite as much with the preservation of democracy and our fundamental liberties as with the efficiency of government. I make clear that the plan of government which I set up "should be viewed as a rough sketch, something in the nature of an hypothesis, or a statement of the abstract in concrete terms." I state further: "Certainly, no one individual can or should make the final plan. It will take form presumably only after much cooperative research, representative conferences, and compromising of views."

I am in full agreement with you when you say that what you would "like to see is a body of experts . . . at work on modernization of outmoded sections of the Constitution," but I disagree in one important particular. You would prohibit the body of experts from touching basic principles; I would encourage them to study and discuss, freely and objectively, every aspect of our frame of government. This, in my opinion, is the practical and the democratic, as well as the scientific way. I cannot see how we can make progress democratically in the perfecting of democratic government if we are to close our minds, as you seemingly think we should, to important groups of facts and to major lines of investigation.

Communist Link

Much has been written and argued about that so-called Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace which recently took place in New York City.

Opponents charged that this "peace" conference was nothing but a follow-up of the Communist-inspired so-called Congress of Intellectuals, which was held in September, 1948, in Wroclaw (Breslau), Poland. Prof. Harlow Shapley, chairman of the New York conference, strongly repudiated such views and declared that this was not true.

I have just received from Paris the March-April issue of the monthly, Democratic Nouvelle (sic), official periodical of western European communism. Its political director is Jacques Duclos of the French Communist Party. Among the members of the editorial board and contributors are William Z. Foster, Harry Pollitt, Palmiro Togliatti.

The March-April issue contains an article by Jean Bruhat, assistant professor of Paris University. This article, entitled "Intellectuals in the Fight for Peace," eulogizes the highly important role of the Wroclaw congress. The author adds: "The Wroclaw congress is to be considered as a starting point and not the end of a campaign. It appealed to the intellectuals of all countries to organize in all countries national cultural conferences of men and women for the defense of peace."

At the end of his article the author states categorically:

"The pledges solemnly taken in Wroclaw are being kept. In a few days [the article was written before the New York conference started] the National Council of Arts and Sciences in the United States will organize in New York a cultural and scientific congress for peace at which intellectuals of numerous countries will participate."

This clear statement in the leading official theoretical organ of western European communism gives the lie to the evasive and concealing declarations of the sponsors of the New York "peace" conference.

"Strange Progressivism"

The cavalier manner in which proponents of the housing bill in the Senate condemned the Bricker amendment against discrimination and your April 15 editorial rationalization called "Strange Progressivism" does no credit to the housing enthusiasts.

We do not know the motives behind Senator Bricker's amendment. It seems conceded that they were not of the purest variety in terms of passage of the whole bill. But conceding this, should the whole question of safeguards against discrimination be discarded? We think not.

We know that colored Americans need new and better housing probably more than any other group. But we are not sure that they will get it under this bill unless some provision is included to insure against discrimination and provide for equality of treatment. We feel, therefore, that the proponents of the bill and especially the Administration spokesmen in Congress are obligated to recognize this problem and do something about it.

"Dogs Or Children"

I am not a professional anti-vivisectionist. I do not, ipso facto, regard those who experiment with living animals as fiends. I am reasonably well aware of the extent to which medical knowledge has been enriched by this method.

Be all that as it may, I wish to point out what seems to me to make the proposal for using dogs from the District pound, which you espoused in your April 20 editorial, "Dogs or Children," quite impractical, not to say dangerous.

Two months ago my dog ran away. He was wearing his District license tag.

When the pound picks up a licensed dog it normally, I believe, notifies the owner. Through what I suppose was merely a clerical error, I was not notified. My wife and I devoted six days to a search which included two calls to the pound, neither of which uncovered the fact that the dog was there all the time. It also included advertising in your columns and those of another paper. Finally, a third and fairly hopeless appeal to the pound disclosed its custody of the dog. We got him back, nearly starved, since he will not eat away from home, and so shaken emotionally that he was sickly for more than a month.

Had the proposal you support been in effect in February, my dog might easily have become, before this, an involuntary servant of science. I don't think he, or I, should be compelled by the community to run that risk. With all deference to current incumbents, I do not believe that the average municipal employe or the average administration mechanism can be trusted to exercise such a power, not only of life and death but of suffering, over other living beings. With all deference to my medical friends, I don't believe even that the average doctor—let alone laboratory technician—ought to be given such arbitrary power.

Plurality Presidents

My interest in the matter of Representative Coudert's proposed constitutional amendment is not to take you to task but to attempt to clarify the underlying principles of his plan and of the Lodge-Gossett plan and to distinguish between them, so that a wise choice can be made in changing from the present method of electing the President and the Vice President.

You stated in your editorial of April 5, "Splinter Bogey," that you would oppose the Lodge-Gossett plan if it were shown that it would break up the two-party system. I believe Senator Lodge and Representative Gossett would take the same position, for there is no pride in authorship involved.

Both gentlemen have stated before committees of the Congress that their plan could be attributed to former Representative Clarence F. Lea of California, who had introduced it in the House of Representatives as far back as 1928—20 years ago. We are all sincerely trying to improve the method of choosing the President and Vice President so that the general will of the American people is fairly reflected in the policy of the executive branch of the Government.

I think you err with Senator Lodge in defending the proportional feature of his plan while ignoring the plurality feature of it, for it is the plurality feature that contains the danger to the two-party system. You are both correct in saying that the proportional feature is harmless when used to elect one man to one office. I used "plurality-proportional-representation" in my letter of April 4 as the term to describe the plan. I was wrong in adding the word "representation," but I did put "plurality" first.

The two-party system is rooted in the present constitutional requirement of an electoral majority in the choice of the President. The continuation of that requirement is the fundamental condition of the continued existence of the two-party system, which we all insist upon.

Both major parties are "split wide open," to use Governor Dewey's words; and there are sectional aspects of the factional divisions. The Southern Democrats control 11 States, conservative Republicans draw their dominant strength from the Middle Western States and in the towns, villages and small and medium-sized cities in the Eastern and Far Western States, while the "modern" Republicans and the Northern Democrats are in conflict for office in the heavily populated States with the largest cities.

Without the binding strength of the electoral majority requirement to hold them together these factional elements will fly apart. Each will strive for mastery. Needing only a plurality of the electoral vote and being assured of their full voting strength by the proportional counting, each will believe it represents the largest number of the voters. I would suggest closer study of this crucial plurality feature of the Lodge-Gossett plan for the election of President and Vice President.

Mail Order Americanism

By Malvina Lindsay

New 'Secret' Weapon

SOME AMERICANS are beginning to put almost as much faith in the wrist watch as in the atom bomb as a means of national defense. They proclaim that to win the cold war we need only to smuggle enough mail order catalogues into the Soviet Union. Show our standard of living to the world, they point out, and peoples everywhere will become discontented with their ways of life, turn toward ours.

The present world craze for American comforts and luxuries gives credence to such a theory. Recent excitement in Yugoslavia over a Sears, Roebuck & Co., catalogue illustrates this. Sober dealers in ideas in the American Information Library in Belgrade found themselves serving as general store clerks after Yugoslavians began their rush on the library to see the mail order catalogues. As the long queue filed into the library, Yugoslavian women had to be shown how to measure themselves for dresses and to judge the merits of fabrics advertised. Business abated only when the bank stopped issuing the drafts of $6 and below that foreign exchange regulations had permitted.

Clothes, gadgets (as watches and cameras) and kitchen conveniences seem now the leading American emissaries abroad. A wave of interest in American clothes is reported in Japan with a great demand for patterns and fashion magazines. One reason for the growing dominance of Western fashions, particularly American ones, is their practicality. Many Japanese who cling to native dress for family and social occasions wear American garb to business.

THIS INTEREST in American mass produced goods antedated the war, but was increased by the wider contacts it brought. Delegations of Congressmen on early postwar inspection trips found Grand Rapids furniture in Arab dwellings. American glamour goods had penetrated to Eastern harems. Now as this interest increases enemies of this country warn loudly that Yankee materialism will take over the world.

Yet some of these goods have ideological uses. The simpler household labor-saving devices are looked to as the chief means of giving women in many parts of Asia and Europe sufficient relief from drudgery to do something about government. Japanese women leaders say it is useless to talk to their masses of rural women about voting, or even informing themselves on public matters, unless some of the load of primitive household slavery is lifted off their backs. Throughout much of the world, women and men as well can only attain time to think and to learn by having their labors lightened.

So, too, it is good democratic strategy to encourage interest in clothes and appearance among peoples everywhere. For this is a big incentive to self-respect, self-assertion and economic independence. Dictators sense this, hence their insistence on regimentation in apparel and their scorn for "decadent" fashion.

HOWEVER, glamour goods, gadgets, kitchen and field appliances won't alone win the battle for Western democracy. There is great danger of Americans childishly putting too much faith in mail-order catalogues to prove the superiority of their system.

The unique and most lasting merchandise they have to offer is their personal freedom—the basis of the initiative that helped make their gadgets possible. American Information offices abroad, the Voice of America and the magazine Amerika try within their limited means to picture American life in such a way that this freedom will be emphasized. Naturally an approach other than by dry preachment is needed.

But telling the world in a dramatic and far-reaching way that any American can listen to whatever he wants on the radio, read any book, magazine or newspaper he desires, criticize his President on streetcar, in drug store or public park, worship in any church he pleases—or none, move to California or take a coast-to-coast motor trip without asking permission of any official, refuse to let an officer search his house without proper papers—this is a challenge that neither the Government nor private enterprise, great beneficiary of the American system, has yet met.

The personal freedoms that affect everyday living are something that peoples all over the world are now thinking and talking about. The Universal Declaration of Human Rights grew out of their aspirations. This would seem the psychological moment for Americans to find some equivalent of the mail order catalogue to advertise their goods in this line.

Freedom Fair

An elaborate sesquicentennial program as described in your April 16 issue, would be the height of hypocrisy in a [illegible] on that harbors in its Capital such slums as those described in your paper of April 16.

Freedom Fair—what an expression when human beings are obliged to live in squalor, and children of all races and colors must grow up without adequate schools or playgrounds!

Such an expenditure to celebrate a condition that does not exist is criminal. Can't this country be realistic, though rich?

Washington Calling

Censorship In The Pentagon

AS THIS NATION moves on to new responsibilities of world power, there are inevitable changes which seem at times to threaten the older and simpler way of life that most of us grew up under. Big Government, a big military establishment, a greatly expanded foreign service and world-wide information centers, all these mean a recasting of ideas and beliefs out of the past.

Childs

One of the deep concerns of the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting here is with freedom of information. Voluntary censorship was accepted in wartime, but anything remotely like that in time of peace is repugnant.

The office of the Secretary of Defense recently issued consolidation directive No. 1. It raises some interesting points about free expression. Johnson is naturally concerned with ending the feud between the three services, which is one reason why unification has lagged and why the waste and duplication talked about by Herbert Hoover continue.

Nevertheless, the sweeping nature of the directive calls for some serious thinking. At the heart of the matter is the question of intelligent and informed criticism of military policy. The all-powerful French general staff imposed the Maginot Line concept on an uncritical public in France and we know with what disastrous consequences.

DIRECTIVE NO. 1 is an order for the "review" which means censorship, of "all informational material" originating from the departments of the national military establishment, including "classified military information or other matter." It provides review of:

"1. Transcripts of testimony before committees of the Congress in executive session by personnel subject to military jurisdiction, when such transcripts are made available for review prior to public release by the committees concerned.

"2. Material dealing with military matters prepared for general publication by civilian employes of the National Military Establishment or the departments or agencies of which it is composed. Advice will be given to such employes concerning possible violations of policy or propriety.

"3. Material proposed for public release by manufacturers, including subcontractors, concerning military equipment in process of development or production by them under contract for departments or agencies of the National Military Establishment.

"4. Material for publication dealing with military matters prepared by reserve or national guard personnel based upon information obtained through their postwar Federal military training."

STRICTLY enforced, this would preclude any criticism of military policy even before committees of Congress. If interpreted literally, it might prevent Paul Smith, editor of the San Francisco Chronicle, from writing an editorial on some military subject. Smith had a distinguished combat record in the Marine Corps during World War II and if he kept up his reserve training he would be subject to the review order.

Of course, that would not happen. But the directive now in force would hold back a great deal of information that, in my opinion, the public is entitled to. When it is put alongside the proposed revision of military law, more restrictive and more sweeping than ever before, it merits careful consideration.

If the directive had been in force, we should never have had a public airing of the dispute between Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault and the late Gen. Joseph Stilwell over the conduct of the war in China. It seems to me a healthy thing that that quarrel was aired. The conflicts, the errors, the failures of our commanders in World War II are instructive and not alone for professional military men.

I am frank to admit that I may have a selfish interest in this as a reporter. One thing Directive No. 1 will certainly do is spread a numbing fear through the Pentagon. The brass will be afraid to tell inquiring reporters their own name. Some benefits for unification may result. But such far-reaching censorship, which is what this amounts to, is bound to have grave disadvantages.

Truman Asks Enactment Of Health Insurance Program

plans give only very limited protection. While some 50 million people now have some form of health insurance, this insurance usually provides only limited protection so far as hospitalization is concerned and in most cases makes no provision at all for other medical services.

"Only three and one half million of our people have insurance which provides anything approaching adequate health protection. Most serious of all, since rates in these voluntary plans are not adjusted to incomes, those who need protection most cannot afford to join."

The "only fair and effective" means, the Chief Executive insisted, is to build on the pattern of existing Social Security insurance.

Doctors Reassured

Mr. Truman insisted that national health insurance will not interfere with existing doctor-patient relationships.

"Health insurance," he said, "is a method of paying for medical care. It will not require doctors to become employes of the Government.

"It will not disturb the freedom of doctors and hospitals to determine the nature and extent of treatment to be given. It will not interfere with the personal relationship between doctor and patient.

"Under such a plan, patients will remain free to choose their own doctors, and doctors will remain free to accept or reject patients. Moreover, patients, doctors, and hospitals will remain free to make their own arrangements for care outside the insurance system if they so choose."

Compares Cost

Mr. Truman noted that many persons are concerned about the cost of his proposed national health program.

"The truth is," he said, "that it will save a great deal more than it costs. We are already paying about 4 per cent of our national income for health care. More and better care can be obtained for this same amount of money under the program I am recommending."

The real cost of present inadequate medical care is not measured merely by doctors' bill and hospital bills, the Chief Executive stated.

"The real cost to society is in unnecessary human suffering and the yearly loss of hundreds of millions of productive working days.

"To the individual the real costs are the shattering of family budgets, the disruption of family life, the sufferings and disabilities, the permanent physical impairments left by crippling diseases, and the deaths each year of tens of thousands of persons who might have lived. This is the price we are now paying for inadequate medical care."

Willing to Compromise

The President made clear his willingness to compromise, if necessary, to get some sort of health program adopted.

"Where there are differences remaining as to the details of the program," he said, "we should not permit these differences to stand in the way of our going forward. They should be threshed out with honesty and tolerance, as is our democratic fashion. We should enact the best possible program and then all of us should get behind it to make it work."

Congressional reaction to the President's proposals was divided.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), chairman of the Democratic National Committee, described the President's health program as one which would enable Americans to receive the medical care they need, rather than doing without needed treatment they cannot now afford.

Representative John Dingell (D., Mich.), a member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee which will consider the bill, called the message "the perfect answer to the reactionary leadership of the American Medical Association and their false assertions that health insurance is socialized medicine."

Taft Predicts Rejection

Chairman Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, predicted Congress will respect the compulsory insurance plan, but he indorsed Federal aid to medical schools and hospitals.

He denounced Mr. Truman's message as an effort "to sugar-coat a plan to socialize and nationalize medicine" and said that if carried out it would lay a heavy new tax burden on the public and involve patients and doctors in "elaborate Federal regulation."

Chairman Robert L. Doughton (D., N. C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee reserved comment. He said the whole program would have to be studied carefully.

Mr. Truman asked the Congress to extend and modify the present Federal Hospital Survey and Construction law which expires in 1951. Congress should recognize in the program, he said, that the Government's share should take into account the varying financial resources of the different States.

Furthermore, he said, the program should be broadened to include aid for the establishment of community health centers, diagnostic clinics and group practice clinics. This help should be in the form of grants in aid, he declared.

The Nation now suffers, Mr. Truman said, from a shortage of physicians.

"Today we have about 190,000 active physicians, of whom 145,000 are in active practice," he told Congress. "This is not enough."

He warned that unless prompt action is taken to expand medical schools the Nation will be facing the same situation 10 years from now.

Health insurance, he said, will enable doctors to practice where they are needed most, without sacrifice of income.

GOP Senator Calls Truman Charge False

By The Associated Press

Republican Senator Williams of Delaware said yesterday President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Brannan had falsely balmed the Republican Eightieth Congress for a shortage of grain storage facilities in the Midwest.

Williams said the two men had indulged in "a deliberate misrepresentation of the true facts" during the political campaign among Middle Western farmers last fall.

The grain had to be in proper storage to qualify for Government price support loans.

Due to Bungling, He Says

Actually, the GOP Senator charged, the storage shortage was due to the "bungling" of Agriculture Department officials.

Williams said they sold Government-owned grain bins that could hold more than 250 million bushels at a fraction of original cost and then failed to use their authority to acquire others.

Williams' blast came as Democratic leaders sought passage of an Administration bill revising the Commodity Credit Corporation. This is the Agriculture Department agency that supports farm prices under its five-billion-dollar loan and purchase authority.

Chairman Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee had asked speedy Senate approval of these changes earlier in the day. But a barrage of Republican criticism from Williams and Senator Donnell (R., Mo.) slowed action.

Would Make Them Tools

Donnell said a proposal to let the Secretary of Agriculture appoint and dismiss directors of the agency would result in the directors, being merely a "series of tools."

The Eightieth Congress required that the five directors of the big loan agency, including the Secretary and two Agriculture Department officials, be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Senator Byrd (D., Va.) supported Republican suggestions that this system be retained. He said the agency is the Government's second largest banking corporation, surpassed only by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Humphrey Bill Asks 500 Million For New Schools

Describing the Nation's school plant as inadequate and over-aged, Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.) yesterday introduced a bill to authorize 500 million dollars Federal aid for new school construction.

"More than four million children throughout the country are not attending school, due in many instances to lack of adequate buildings," he told the Senate.

He predicted enrollment by 1951 of 2,400,000 more children than were in school in 1948 and said that, in eight years, there will be more than eight million more children seeking enrollment than in 1948.

"A recent survey by the National Education Association shows," he said, "that, in communities checked, one of every five schools now in use was built prior to 1900. Two per cent of these, still in use, were built in 1870. Many of these old buildings are firetraps and should be condemned."

School Bond Issue Urged by Group Of Women Voters

Authorization of a five-million-dollar bond issue for school construction in Montgomery County the coming year was urged yesterday by the county's League of Women Voters.

The luncheon session at the Indian Spring Country Club, Silver Spring, attended by a hundred women, also voted to sponsor a bill to establish a county-wide library separate from the State system.

The proposed library legislation will be pushed during the County Council's legislative session in May, and a public hearing on it sought.

In a further action the League outlined a full program of study of county finances.

Spud Support $20,000 Each In One State

By Ovid A. Martin
Associated Press Staff Writer

Some farms obtained an average of more than $20,000 for surplus 1948 crop potatoes sold to the Government under its grower price-support program.

This figure was disclosed yesterday by Secretary of Agriculture Brannan in a report which said the total cost of the 1948 support program for this crop already has approached 200 million dollars. And some of last year's potatoes still remain to be bought. The plus average of more than $20,000 was reported for Rhode Island farms.

Similar potato support programs cost the Government 90 million dollars in 1946 and 50 million dollars in 1947.

Brannan said about 28,444 commercial potato growers were eligible to sell potatoes to the Government under the program. Up to February 28 the Government had paid an average of $5457 to such farms for potatoes which could not be sold on the market at the Government-guaranteed price.

The secretary said these figures "show clearly some of the shortcomings of the present method" of supporting prices.

Brannan has proposed that the Government stop buying potatoes and other crops and instead allow prices to fall to levels determined by supply and demand. The Government would assure growers of a fair return through a direct payment arrangement.

The total amount paid directly to farmers for 1948 potatoes up to February 28 was reported at $155,224,000. But the Government has spent more than 25 million dollars more in diverting the surplus potatoes into byproduct uses, including alcohol, starch, flour and livestock feed.

The list, by States, of the number of farms eligible for price supports and the average amount paid each of these farms for surplus potatoes up to February 22, includes:

Maryland, 285 and $1558, and Virginia, 1676 and $3844.

No purchases were made in West Virginia.

10 Anthracite Miners End 3-Day Sitdown

Lansford, Pa., April 22 (A.P.).—Ten grimy, weary miners ended this morning their three-day underground sitdown strike that swelled to a walkout of 6000 hard coal diggers.

The sitdowners said they were protesting pay deductions made by the Lehigh Navigation Coal Co. because miners left their jobs before the scheduled end of the work day. Under the United Mine Workers-Anthracite Operators agreement, miners are permitted to go home early if mine conditions are adjudged bad.

Gloucester County Teachers Ask 15% Increase in Salary

Gloucester, Va., April 22 (A.P.).—Gloucester County school officials, facing Federal Court punishment on a contempt citation, were threatenced with another educational headache today—lack of teachers.

A group of principals and instructors threatened to refuse to renew contracts unless a 15 per cent salary increase is granted.

County officials said the increase was not possible for the next fiscal year since the new budget has been prepared and no unappropriated funds are available.

A 15 per cent salary hike for teachers, principals and supervising teachers was requested in a resolution sent to the school board by the Gloucester County Teachers Association. A spokesman for the group told the board the teachers would not sign new contracts unless they received the raise.

The new budget carries an appropriation for an 8.3 per cent raise and the county officials said that no additional funds can be made available.

The Gloucester County school superintendent and the board are to appear in Federal District Court in Richmond May 4 for sentencing for their alleged violation of a court directive calling for equalization of white and Negro school opportunities.

The salary increase request came from the white teachers, which make up the membership of the teachers' association. White and Negro teacher salaries were equalized in the county a year ago when the equalization matter came up in Federal Court.

Md. U. Budget Bill Snarls Boy Legislature

Annapolis, Md., April 22 (A.P.).—Maryland's boy lawmakers did some fancy parliamentary maneuvering in a tussle over university budgets today, but found their Governor had a few tricks up his sleeve, too.

They were all tangled up for a time on a pair of bills that said that if the YMCA's model Legislature had its way, all State agencies would submit their requests for appropriations in minute detail.

They made it clear they were thinking mainly about the University of Maryland, target of several attacks in the recent session of the authentic General Assembly.

But this was the situation at day's end, when the 195 high school boys taking part in the sixth annual YMCA citizenship project adjourned to tour the Naval Academy:

Both House and Senate had passed duplicate bills about detailed budgets.

The House reconsidered and decided to table its bill.

Boy "Governor" Charles E. Moylan, jr., of Baltimore, signed the senate version.

Learning of this, the delegates hasitily drew up a repealer—to cancel out the whole thing—and passed it.

The "chief executive" announced he would "exercise my pocket veto power" if the repealer ever emerged from the senate.

They all had a dance to attend tonight, but will have another chance to stir up the legislative stew before going home Saturday.

There was no shortage of argument as the youngsters spent their first full day at lawmaking.

Jabez Loane, City College senior, started a filibuster against a bill by Joseph Taylor of Druid Hill and Albert M. Bushrod of Baltimore to set up a Maryland fair employment practices commission.

George Canaras of Baltimore came to Loane's rescue, but House Speaker Arthur Shanklin, another Baltimorean, ruled there had been enough talk. Delegates then passed the bill.

Meanwhile, the Senate adopted a measure that would admit students to the State University without regard to color or creed.

And while Governor Lane was signing the grown-up Senators' measure to put Maryland's anti-Communist law into effect immediately, the boy Senators passed a bill of their own to wipe out subversive activity. It was similar to the Ober commission's anti-Red act.

Dr. Furth Appointed To Post at Oak Ridge

Oak Ridge, Tenn., April 22 (A.P.).—The appointment of Dr. Jacob Furth, nationally known pathologist, as chief of the pathology section of the biology division at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, was announced today.

Dr. Furth, a native of Hungary, has been at Veterans' Administration Hospital at Dallas, Tex., as director of the branch reference laboratory.

In 1931 he was awarded a gold medal by the American Medical Association for his research in leukemia.

No End in Sight In Bendix Strike With 19,500 Idle

South Bend, Ind., April 21 (A.P.).—No early end was in sight tonight for the Bendix strike, which has idled 19,500 automobile workers.

Another 7000 will be idle Monday at the Kaiser-Frazer plant in Detroit because of a shortage of brake parts made by Bendix.

The two Federal mediators who came here to try to settle the differences between the 7500 striking CIO-United Automobile Workers and the Bendix Aviation Corp. planned to go back to Detroit.

"Both parties appear to be remaining firm," said E. M. Sconyers, one of the mediators.

The Nash-Kelvinator motor car division at Kenosha, Wis., closed last night because of the lack of Bendix brake parts. Twelve thousand workers were made idle by this closing.

St. Mary's Benefit Film Nets $1300 In Sight Program

Lexington Park, Md., April 22 (Spl.).—A total of $1300 for the St. Marys County Sight Conservation Program, sponsored by the Lexington Park Lions Club, was raised at the benefit showing Wednesday night of the film, "Bad Boy," a club spokesman announced today.

The showing of the picture at the Lexington Park Theater was attended by Gov. Preston Lane, jr., of Maryland and Rear Admiral Apollo Soucek, commandant of the Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent, Md. The film, which concerns juvenile delinquency, was made under the sponsorship of the Variety Clubs of America.

The Lions Club Sight Conservation Program is for such projects as making eye tests and buying eyeglasses for the children of St. Marys County.

Police Seek Men For Attempt at Mine House Blast

St. Charles, Va., April 22 (A.P.).—State police and Lee County officers continued a search today for men who fired upon miners and tried to blow up a magazine house at the Orville Howard mines north of here yesterday.

Seven workmen were camping in a mining house yesterday when a fusillade tore through the building. The seven workmen fled to safety.

Ray Sanders, who recently purchased the Howard Mines, said several former workmen recently had asked him for back pay for vacation time. When he told the men he owed them nothing because they had never worked for him, Sanders said the men claimed the mines would not operate unless they were paid.

Gen. Airey Coming Here

Trieste, April 22 (U.P.).—Maj. Gen. Terence S. Airey, British commander of American and British occupation forces in Trieste, will go to Washington Monday for a 10-day visit at the invitation of American authorities, it was announced today. He will discuss problems concerning Trieste.

One on the Aisle—

A Frisky Cherub And a Gargoyle

By Richard L. Coe

THE CAPITOL'S BILL this week is for the rhythmically young. Age need not destroy your amusement at the civilized barbarics of Woody Herman, Mel Torme and their associates. If you don't float off with the crowd on the slow-motion music that is this team's forte, you may get almost as much by lonely observation.

The juke box business would collapse had it to rely on my nickels, hence I report on Messrs. Torme, Herman et al. In the vein of an anthropologist among the headhunters. Mine is a surface curiosity.

I find, for instance, that their music strikes my ears much as the eyes receive slow-motion film. When they play a tune familiar to my aging drums, I feel that it comes in short hitches; a snatch wafts from the brassy band, then an erratic suspension in time, next another smidget, vaguely familiar, suggestive of more to come.

The Torme singing style, wildly popular, is best illustrated by his way with Cole Porter's "I Get a Kick Out of You" (which rather dates ME). Other people, to be sure, have a way of teasing this haunting tune, but Mel seems to have located the nadir of such treatment. "I get," moans Mel, and hangs around on it for a spell, "a keeeee-yik," he continues, to the mesmerized moans of young creatures, male and female.

What makes Torme so thoroughly acceptable is his catching, lackadaisical air. He is a splendid showman and suggests more than anything else a rather mischievous choirboy, blond and baby-faced, delighting his fellows in the loft with naughty, but by no means wicked tricks. Yes, he leads the pack for "Careless Hands."

If Mel is a frisky cherub, Woody Herman, the bandsman, is a cathedral gargoyle spirited, by his own inner fuels, into something resembling life. When he tackles "Blues in the Night" you feel that his stony face does indeed leer through the blackness and his "Amen" brings back, in that stylish slow-motion, an evening I spent in the Bahamas at a Holy Roller convention.

Tombstone Villainies on Screen

Woody's pals are an exceptionally lush collection of pipers, Bill Harris, Terry Gibbs, Don Lamond and Zoot Sims, among them. Songstress Mary Ann McCall, a statuesque priestess, uses Mel's style for such verses as "When the week is over and Friday rolls around."

The Capitol's picture is naturally of secondary value, a thing titled "Bad Men of Tombstone," in which all the heroes are positive dastards and wind up as such do in movies about the old West, dead, dead, dead, much as in "Hamlet."

Its story has something to do with the circuit from Gold City to Leadville and employs the villainies of Barry Sullivan, Broderick Crawford and Guinn Williams. Were Randolph Scott around, which, alas, he isn't, their evils would have been of briefer duration.

But the villainies of our dear old West are important only in giving breathing space to Mel, Woody and the boys, whose single stage respite comes when Neal Stanley takes over. Though Stanley's an impressionist, he's extremely good at the voices he takes off, so good, in fact, that he makes old tricks seem amusing.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY, says the Folger Library to its patron saint, William Shakespeare, whose 385th this is today . . . In the Bard's honor, the Folger is presenting an annual event in its theater, a talk on "Elizabethans in Intimacy" by Charles J. Sisson, professor of English of University College, London, tonight at 8:30.

"BAD MEN OF TOMBSTONE," an Allied Artists release, produced by Maurice and Frank King, directed by Kurt Neumann, screenplay by Philip Yordan and Arthur Strawn from the book "Last of the Badmen" by Jay Monaghan. At the Capitol.

THAT POSTPONED Easter Egg Hunt, rained out Monday, goes on this morning at 10 at Magruder Park, Hyattsville, sponsored by Sidney Lust and the Prince Georges County Kiwanis Club . . . The morning gets a dividend in appearances of Texas Rodeo headliners and tight rope whiz Paul Gordon . . . All other events will be run off as scheduled Monday . . . If it's not still raining.

TODAY brings a new picture to the Warner, "Knock on Any Door," wherein Humphrey Bogart attacks juvenile delinquency, to do which he introduced a newcomer to the young-men-of-Hollywood set, John Derek.

TOMORROW brings the wind-up for the Texas Rodeo at the National Guard Armory, with matinees at 2:30 today and tomorrow, and evening performances at 8:15 . . . Topping the records for the cowboys this week is Gene Staples, 230-pound war vet who's a whiz with the rope tricks and jumpin' routines . . . Also tomorrow, E. M. Loew's Drive-In on the Richmond hwy. steps out with its first-run, reissue bill, "Dirigible," the week's second junket to the South Pole, with Jack Holt and the United States Navy tackling Scott's objective, and "Submarine," another Navy adventure, starring Richard Dix.

DRIVE IS ON BACKSTAGE: "Give to Conquer Cancer" boxes are backstage at the Capitol this week attracting Woody Herman and Mr. and Mrs. Mel Torme, which the headliners do cheerfully. Mrs. Torme, whose nickname is "Candy," isn't in the show with her velvet fog-voiced husband, but she is pretty, dontcha think?

Yes, girls, Mel is in good hands

N. Y. Democrats Ponder Wagner's Resignation

New York, April 22 (AP).—A big question before State Democratic strategists now is whether ailing United States Senator Robert F. Wagner should resign before July 8.

Party leaders view that date as a deadline for a decision.

If the 71-year-old Senator steps out by that time, his successor would be chosen, under State law, at the election this November.

But if Wagner were to vacate the office after July 8, Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey could pick a successor to serve through 1950 until Wagner's term expires.

The Democrats don't want that. For them, the issue is whether Wagner should quit before the deadline, or try to carry on for the remainder of his term.

Kohler to Return From Moscow for Broadcast Post

Foy D. Kohler, who is temporarily in charge of the American Embassy in Moscow, will be brought back soon to head the State Department's international broadcasting division.

The division prepares the programs beamed by the "Voice of America" to Soviet-dominated parts of the world.

The State Department said yesterday that Kohler will return following the arrival in Moscow of Admiral Alan G. Kirk, new Ambassador to Russia.

In the broadcasting division, Kohler will succeed Charles W. Thayer, who has been assigned to the American Embassy at Athens as first secretary.

Dr. Booker Heads Arlington School Nominating Group

Dr. Ivan Booker, assistant research director for the National Education Association, has been elected president of the Arlington County School Board Nominating Conference.

Dr. Booker will succeed Oscar LeBeau and Edmund Campbell, who served as cochairmen. The group was formed last year to enlist the cooperation of county-wide organizations in selecting a slate of candidates for election to the school board.

Other officers of the group are Mrs. Charles S. Goode, American Association of University Women; E. R. Draheim, Arlington P-TA Council; William Truss, Council of Negro Organizations, and Mrs. Ruby Simpson, Organized Women Voters, vice presidents; Mrs. Ayme Torrence, Organized Women Voters, secretary pro tem.; Mrs. C. F. Pilger, Citizens Committee for School Improvements, assistant secretary; Joseph Ingram, Better Government League, treasurer; Mrs. Martha Gammon, Citizens Committee for School Improvements, historian, and Fred Bach, Arlington Civic Federation, sergeant at arms.

Mass Set Today To Mark Convent Sesquicentennial

A solemn pontifical mass commemorating the sesquicentennial of Georgetown Visitation Convent will be celebrated by the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, at 10:30 a. m. today at Holy Trinity Church.

The Alumnae Association of the convent will then honor Archbishop O'Boyle at a luncheon at 12:30 p. m. at Georgetown University.

Georgetown Visitation Convent was founded in June, 1799 by three women under the guidance of Father Leonard Neale, S. J., who was then president of Georgetown University.

Mrs. Hunter Wins Woman's Award For Achievement

Mrs. Alice C. Hunter of 72 R st. nw., last night was awarded the second annual Woman of Achievement Award of the Barristers' wives.

The award was made in recognition of Mrs. Hunter's 15 years of volunteer work in community organizations at a dinner attended by more than 150 persons in the Department of Commerce Building dining hall. Senator William Langer (D., N. Dak.) spoke at the dinner.

The award, a silver and diamond pin, was presented by Mrs. Wesley S. Williams, president of the organization composed of wives of members of the District bar. A contribution is also to be given to the District Planned Parenthood Association in the name of Mrs. Hunter, who is a board member.

Among those present last night were her husband, John L. Hunter, an Armstrong High School teacher, and father, Rev. Henry Callis, retired pastor of Lomax A. M. E. Zion Church.

The Lyons Den

NEW YORK.—Viscount Alexander, the Governor General of Canada, toured the M-G-M Studios, where he visited "The Red Danuble" set. In this film Walter Pidgeon wears the uniform of a British colonel, Peter Lawford the uniform of an American major and Louis Calhern the uniform of a Russian officer. Alexander, who was wearing his own uniform, stood near the movie-soldiers. A production assistant glanced at the endless rows of ribbons on Alexander's chest, ribbons representing the highest decorations from many nations, and said: "Say, buddy, I think the wardrobe department may have overdone it" . . . "Maybe they did," Alexander agreed. "Maybe they did."

Edward Knopf, the producer, offered Ethel Barrymore a role in "Running of the Tide," and assured her that it would be an exciting experience. "There'll be a scene in which you pull children out of a stormy sea," he said. Miss Barrymore shivered at the thought of the cold waves and replied: "I'll do it, if you postpone it till midsummer" . . . Odette Myrtle heard this exchange and told of playing a vaudeville date with Joe Frisco and Gertrude Ederle, who had just succeeded in swimming the English Channel. Miss Ederle complained that the late show was too tiring—that she didn't mind doing the matinee and evening shows, but the supper show was too much for her. "Why," Frisco suggested to the swimmer, "don't you float the supper show?"

William Powell's 18-year-old son was puzzled by the problem of Powell's approaching birthday. "I don't know what to buy for you," he confessed, "because you have everything" . . . At the birthday dinner, the youngster delivered a parcel to his father, who opened the package and found a Norden bombsight. "I figured that a Norden bombsight is one thing you haven't got," young Powell explained. "So now you really have everything—including a bombsight."

George Raft's dinner at the Friars Club will have a dais occupied only by the toughest gangsters in the world—Humphrey Bogart, James Cagney, Alan Ladd and Richard Widmark . . . At the dress rehearsal of the Friars Frolics—a show which raised $300,000 for the Motion Picture Relief Fund—George Jessel described the neighborhood. "It's a dismal, horrible place. The dogs in this neighborhood are half rabbit and half mouse" . . . When mistakes were made by the Frolics chorus line, composed of Van Johnson, Robert Taylor, Ray Milland, Walter Pidgeon, George Murphy, Fred MacMurray, Peter Lawford and James Stewart, Jessel warned them: "You guys better get it right. Remember, you can very easily be replaced."

Synod Approves Merger

Cleveland, April 22 (AP).—The general synod of the Evangelical and Reformed Church has given final approval to a merger with the Congregational Christian Churches.

The action makes possible creation, probably early in 1950, of a new United Church of Christ as the seventh largest Protestant denomination in this country, with a membership of about 1,900,000.

General synod delegates voted 249 to 41 in favor of the merger yesterday, and passed a resolution inviting other Protestant denominations to help make the new church a means of achieving still further union.

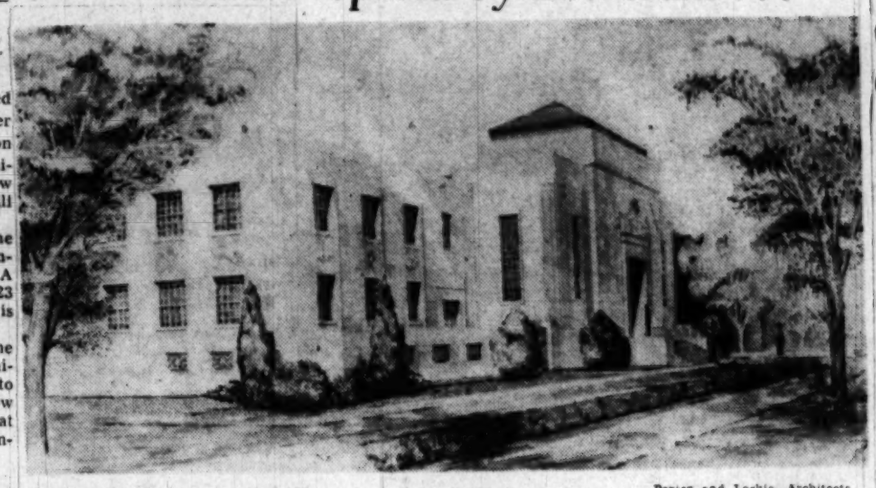
Between now and mid-June, the 34 Evangelical and Reformed synods will vote on the union. A majority much larger than the 23 required by the general synod is expected to approve.

After the synods have acted, the way will be clear for each denomination to name 350 delegates to attend a general synod of the new United Church of Christ. At that meeting the merger will be consummated.

Auxiliary to Meet

The Armenian Presbyterian Ladies Auxiliary will meet Sunday at 2:30 p. m. at Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, 1862 Kalorama rd. nw. The Rev. Puzant Kalsayan, secretary of the Armenian Missionary Society of New York, will preside at the service.

Parish House Proposed by Lutherans . . .



ARCHITECTS' SKETCH—Drawing shows how the proposed St. John's parish house will look when erected next to the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol st. A drive for funds begins Tuesday

Lutheran Church Starts Fund Drive for Parish Hall Tuesday

The Lutheran Church of the Reformation, 212 East Capitol st., will begin a four-week drive for funds Tuesday to erect a new parish hall adjoining the present church.

In addition to classrooms, the three-story building will contain a children's chapel seating 125 and a fellowship room. The parish house will be named in memory of St. John's Lutheran Church, hich joined Reformation in 1939.

Founded in a Civil War barracks chapel in 1869, the Church of the Reformation has served the Capitol Hill area during its entire lifetime. The present building was erected in 1935. Since then the congregation has grown from 611 to 2495 baptized members and the Sunday school has more than doubled.

St. John's Lutheran Church was organized in 1853. Money received from Government purchase of its property, which is now the site of the Federal Secruity Agency building, was held by St. John's trustees to be used toward construction of the parish house.

John F. Herrmann, who was a member and officer of St. John's Church, and Thomas P. Hickman, Sunday school superintendent of Reformation since 1916, are honorary chairmen of the fund-raising committee. A dinner officially opening the drive will be held at the church Tuesday.

Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder and the Rev. Arnold F. Keller, jr., are pastors of the Church of the Reformation. Dr. Blackwelder came here in 1933 from Christ Lutheran Church, Baltimore.

National Baptist Discussion Serics

"Developing a Christian Philosophy of Life" will be discussed at a series of meetings at 8 p. m. Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Thursday at National Baptist Memorial Church, 16th st. and Columbia rd. nw.

Dr. Charles E. Boddie, pastor of Mount Olivet Church, Rochester, N. Y., will speak on Sunday on "An Adequate Pattern for Living" and on Monday on "Living as Christian Neighbors."

On Tuesday there will be a panel discussion on "Christian Living Encounters Beverage Alcohol." Howard Rees, student secretary of the D. C. Baptist Convention, will speak on "A Christian's Adjustment to Modern Living" on Thursday.

Holy Name Society Union To Convene

The second annual convention of the Union of Holy Name Societies of the Washington Archdiocese will be held Sunday at St. Jerome's auditorium, Hyattsville, Md.

At 10:30 a. m., the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will preside at a solemn high mass opening the convention.

The business session of the convention will be held in the auditorium beginning at 2 p. m. Reports of sectional presidents and of Lawrence J. McDonnell, union president, will be preesnted and new officers will be elected.

Speaker for the convention will be the Rev. John Schultz, missionary priest and former Army chaplain. Caesar L. Aiello, mayor of Hyattsville and president of the Prince Georges County section of the union, will act as temporary chairman.

The Rev. Joseph M. Moran, pastor of St. Thomas the Apostle Church in Washington, is spiritual director of the union.

Churches Plan Courses for Child Work

A Children's Workers Spring Institute will be held at Hamline Methodist Church, 16th and Allison sts. nw., at 7:30 p. m. on four successive Tuesdays beginning April 26.

Sponsored by the Children's Work Committee of the Washington Federation of Churches, the institute is designed to meet the need for instruction in methods and techniques for teaching in the church school. Problems of the vacation church school and summer religious education activities will also be studied.

General theme of the institute is "Guiding Children in Christian Growth." Ten courses, divided into three sections, are planned.

Courses are planned for nursery, kindergarten, primary, and junior teachers who have not attended previous institutes. In addition there will be advanced work for kindergarten, primary and junior teachers, and a course for the teacher who needs training in creative activities.

Superintendents, pastors, members of Boards of Christian Education, and adbinistrators of vacation religious education programs will participate in a third section of the institute. Two courses will consider administering the church school and administering the vacation church school program and summertime activities in the local church.

Classes will be limited to 30 persons. The Rev. Edmund R. Strait, assistant minister of Westmoreland Congregational Church, is dean of the school, and Mrs. Josephine H. Fyles, assistant executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, is director.

5-Day Mission Of Healing Announced

A mission for the healing of body and spirit will be held at Ascension and St. Agnes Episcopal Church, 12th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw., Sunday through Thursday.

Dr. Banks

The Rev. John Gaynor Banks, director of the Fellowship of St. Luke, San Diego, Calif., will conduct the five-day mission.

The schedule of services includes: Sunday, 10:45 a. m., morning prayer, solemn mass and sermon, "God and Your Body"; Monday through Thursday, 9:30 a. m., Holy Communion; 10 a. m., sermon; 8 p. m., mission service and sermon. Healing services will be held at the altar each night.

Dr. Banks is a graduate of King's College, University of London, and the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn. He has been a member of the Guild of Pastoral Psychology for the past 15 years.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of National Presbyterian Church, Connecticut ave. and N st. nw., will begin a series of sermons on making Christian homes at 8 p. m. Sunday.

His opening sermon is "So You Want to Get Married—Christian Mating."

On successive Sundays he will speak on "Minister, Doctor, Lawyer — the Foundation;". "Here Comes the Bride—the Meaning of the Service;" and "They Lived Happily Ever After—Perpetuating Christian Homes."

Old and new hymns will be sung at the 11 a. m. service at Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw. At the service newly installed chimes will be dedicated in memory of the late Mrs. Bernice Moore, church organist for more than 10 years, who died while playing the organ at the 1948 Christmas service.

"This Faith of Ours" will be Dr. Seth R. Brooks' sermon subject at 11 a. m. at Universalist National Memorial Church, 1810 16th st. nw.

Episcopal churches in the Diocese of Washington will celebrate the fifth anniversary of the consecration of the Right Rev. Angus Dun as Bishop of Washington on Sunday.

In honor of the event, Bishop Dun will broadcas ta message to communicants in the 90 parishes in the diocese at 11:15 a. m. over Station WTOP. The message, to be delivered at the 11 a. m. service at the Washington Cathedral, will be heard in all Episcopal churches in the diocese.

Memorial chimes will be dedicated at 11 a. m. at Chevy Chase Baptist Church, 5671 Western ave. nw. The chimes were given by Charles S. Muir and his family in memory of his wife, Mrs. Carlotta Brockett Muir, for many years contralto soloist in the church.

"Answer for Anne," a sound motion picture on resettlement of displaced persons, will be shown at 9 and 11 a. m. at Atonement Lutheran Church, 2 Rhode Island ave. ne.

Housing Bill Vote Seen Ending Slums

Passage of the housing bill by the Senate indicates "the beginning of the end of the slums," Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) told the Nation's church editors here yesterday.

Douglas, addressing the final luncheon of the Associated Church Press Convention at the Congressional Hotel, illustrated his speech on slum clearance with photographs of Washington and Chicago slum areas.

Millions of people are living in slums today, the Senator said, and the evil is "not merely an esthetic one." Slums, he said, constitute a moral cancer, a health hazard and an economic loss.

The Nation's slum blight is too vast to be cured house by house by individual landlords, Douglas, who has helped lead the fight for the housing bill, asserted to the editors.

Furthermore, he said, banks will not loan nor the FHA insure appreciable loans for modernizing or rebuilding in slum areas. They have written off the slums as hopeless, he said.

Only by a "major surgical operation"—which can be performed only by the Federal Government—can the slums be cleared, Douglas said. He told the delegates that "we must make a mass attack on the evil."

Serious Threat

Church Press Opposes Rise In Postage

Representatives of the religious press have registered stiff opposition to proposed legislation to increase postal rates on second-class mail.

Legislation which has been introduced in both the House and Senate provides for readjustment of postal rates in all classes of mail. Hearings are being conducted before the committees on Post Office and Civil Service.

Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson appeared before the committee on March 8 to call for a rate boost of 250 million annually. Greatest increase in rates would be for second-class mail, which includes newspapers, magazines and other publications. The bill would raise postal revenues $253,275,000 in the face of an anticipated deficit of 500 million dollars this fiscal year.

Dr. Samuel McCrae Cavert, general secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, voiced his opposition to the legislation when he appeared before the House committee. He presented a resolution adopted by the executive committee of the council which urged that the present system of preferential rates for second-class mail be continued.

The resolution said the committee "views with grave concern the proposal now before Congress for a radical increase in second-class postal rates as they would affect the publications of churches and religious bodies." It said that religious periodicals do not carry large amounts of advertising and could not meet increased postal expenses by boosting their advertising income.

Earlier in the hearings the Rev. Paul Bussard, president of the Catholic Press Association, said many small publications would be put out of business by the proposed rate hike. Larger publications would have to cut their content and fire staff members to meet the increase, which would amount to 300 per cent in the first year, he said.

Others who appeared before the committee contended that the churches would have to divert funds from missionary and benevolent work to make up for the increase in the cost of mailing their periodicals.

They have said that the boost would destroy practically all religious, farm, educational, labor and nonprofit publications.

Suspension of religious publications would deny to the Nation one of its most effective means of fighting atheistic and communistic propaganda, they contend. Several witnesses have asked that nonprofit publications be exempted from the rate increase.

Domestication Of Religion Seen in Europe

Governments of eastern Europe are attempting "religious domestication" rather than religious persecution, according to Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches.

Dr. Visser 't Hooft explained that persecution means a direct and definite attempt to destroy the church similar to that made during the early years of the Communist regime in Russia. He said that in eastern Europe today no attempt is being made to exterminate the church.

Governments are trying instead to "domesticate" the church by coordinating it in their total Communistic framework he explained. From the point of view of the church, Dr. Visser 't Hooft said, this is more dangerous and difficult than out-and-out persecution would be.

Dr. Visser 't Hooft spoke to a gathering of Washington clergy and laymen at the Y. W. C. A. on Thursday. The meeting was arranged by the Washington Federation of Churches. Dr. Frederick E. Reissig, executive secretary of the Washington Federation of Churches, spent nine months as public relations officer of the first assembly of the World Council of Churches at Amsterdam, Holland, last summer.

Dr. Visser 't Hooft pointed out that the fact that lay men and are different in each country because the church is in different stages of development and its leadership varies. He urged his hearers not to judge every situation by the same standards.

Dr. Visser 't Hooft also asserted that the fact that laymen and women are thought of as a special category touches a deep sickness in the church and the whole of modern civilization."

The churches, he said, ought to help lay people to live as Christians in the world rather than placing entire emphasis on lay assistance in the work in the church.

Dr. Cranford Plans 5-Week Sermon Series

Dr. Clarence W. Cranford, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw., will begin a five-week series of sermons entitled "Messages from the Psalms" on Sunday.

The sermons, to be given at 9 and 11 a. m., are entitled "Psalms of Pilgrimage," "Psalms of Ascent," Psalms and the Family," "Psalms That Search the Soul" and "Psalms for Times of Distress."

The choir of the Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa., will sing a concert of sacred music at 5:30 p. m. Sunday at Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle. The choir is composed of 26 men studying for the ministry.

Road Work Delayed

Wet grounds yesterday at the Montgomery County Agricultural Center, Gaithersburg, Md., forced the second postponement of a community road-building project on the site scheduled for today. Officials are hoping for clear weather next Saturday so that 100 dump trucks and scores of volunteers can swing into action to build in one day the road network at the 64-acre center.

Chandler Bldg. Is Bought by Mine Workers

John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers yesterday took title to their fourth major downtown office building, the 11-story Chandler Building, 1427 I st. nw., making the labor organization one of the city's biggest property owners.

The UMW paid $550,000 for the structure, in the Washington financial district near the Insurance Building, 15th and I sts. nw., a UMW property purchased for around one million dollars in October, 1946.

Union officials would not reveal how the UMW intended to use the property, but J. Rupert Mohler, jr., realtor, said it would be used by the union for office space. The sale was negotiated by Mohler and G. Calvert Bowie. Former owner is the Washington Chandler Corp., which Mohler identified as a group of local investors.

Last December the union bought for "approximately $600,000," a two-building structure at 1433 K st. It also owns and occupies the old University Club at 15th and I sts. nw., on the other side of McPherson Park from the Insurance Building. The former was bought for $275,000 in 1936.

Operating policy of the union has been to allow existing leases to expire and then take over the vacated space for their own purposes. The Chandler Building was built in 1928 by the Fletcher Fireproofing Co., for the Chandler Building Corp., original owners, for $200,000.

It was sold at auction in 1939 for $240,000 to Samuel H. Kauffmann, representing a group of note holders.

Greek Orthodox Church To Observe Easter

Easter will be observed in the Greek Orthodox Church on Sunday. Resurrection services will be broadcast from St. Sophia's Greek Orthodox Church, 8t hand L sts. nw., by station WMAL at midnight today.

The Rev. Amilianos Laloussis, pastor of St. Sophia Church, will officiate at the service and the Byzantine choir of the church will sing. Evagoras Constantinides will be translator and narrator for the broadcast.

Protest

Britons Urge No Princess, Pope Meeting

London, April 22 (AP).—A protest against any meeting of Princess Margaret and Pope Pius XII was lodged by two Protestant organizations today.

They asked King George VI, temporal head of the Church of England, to see that his 18-year-old daughter does not have an audience with the Roman Catholic pontiff on a tour of Italy she plans next week.

The "long, historic struggle against papal influence in the reigning house" of England was cited.

Letters were sent to the King by the Protestant Truth Society, an information agency representing most Protestant churches in Britain, and by the National Union of Protestants in northern Ireland.

They were based upon dispatches from Italy. There was no confirmation Margaret had planned to visit the Pope.

Both Buckingham Palace and Vatican authorities declined comment.

Unofficial Vatican sources, however, said such a meeting could be as simple as the Princess chose.

Earth Slows Down, Posing Time Problem

Philadelphia, April 22 (AP).—The world is about to face a choice between two kinds of time, because the earth's rate of rotation is slowing.

This was the message today of the world's chief timekeeper, Britain's royal astronomer, Sir Harold Spencer Jones, chief of Greenwich Time. He is having trouble with the length of the day, he reported to the American Philosophical Society.

He said that because of the gradual slowing in the earth's rotation, time today is not the same as in Babylonian days. Records of Babylonian astronomers show this. Time is slower now because the earth takes longer to reel off 24 hours.

That will go on, Sir Harold said, until it will take 47 of the present days for the earth to make one turn on its axis.

In that day, too, the earth will always present the same face to the moon, because the moon's motion around the earth will be slower. You will have to travel halfway around the world then to see the moon, if you happen to live on the wrong side.

Sir Harold said that although this long day is too remote to be important now, its beginnings are about at the partings of the ways.

Until now clocks haven't been accurate enough to be affected. But Sir Harold said the new atomic clock about to be built by the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, will really differ from the time shown by present Greenwich methods of relying on the earth's rotation. The atomic clocks will be correct. Mother Earth will be wrong.

The slowdown is due partly to the drag, that is friction, of tides in shallow seas. The moon raises these tides. It works just like the moon using a rope to hold back the earth.

Other causes are the pulls of other planets and probably the fact that the earth's outer mantle of rock is rotating faster than its core, thus creating more friction.

Banned Center's Directors Assail New Catechism

Cambridge, Mass., April 22 (AP).—Directors of the St. Benedict (Catholic) Center, banned to Catholics in the Boston College "heresy" dispute, charged today that parts of the new Roman Catholic catechism violate basic church dogma.

The Center's five directors, appealing to Pope Pius XII for support, said:

"In our view, the statement made by the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine . . . contradicts the dogma which has been defined repeatedly by the Catholic Church, namely, that there is no salvation outside the church. Any graces given to a non-Catholic are given for the purpose of leading him to the church."

Nats Lose Fourth Straight, 2-0, to A's

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

IT'S A HEALTHY and growing respect that is being commanded in these times by a crew of athletes Mr. Connie Mack has assembled, and there is high suspicion that the fourth-place A's of last season could take it all, if the Indians or Red Sox stumble a bit.

Even Mr. Mack has abandoned some of his modesty to proclaim that his team could win the pennant in contrast to former seasons when he would say merely, "We have a bunch of nice, young fellows."

POVICH

Around the league there is considerable thinking that the A's are not only nice boys, as a group, but also very competent. In the case of the Indians and Red Sox, there is more apprehension over the A's than the Yankees. And Mr. Mack himself has become infected with the idea he has the club with which to upset calculations.

The idea wasn't original with Mr. Mack, it must be reported, however. With Coach Al Simmons as their spokesman, the A's players suggested in Florida that Mr. Mack hush his mouth a bit and stop picking the Indians and Red Sox to make it a two-team race, and express some confidence in his own team.

SO LATELY he's been doing that, and wondering out loud whether the Red Sox or Indians are good enough to finish in front of his A's. He's been saying the Red Sox don't have the pitching, that the Indians are doomed without Feller, and that the Yankees, without Joe DiMaggio are done in.

Of his own ball club, Mr. Mack has never said so many nice things. Down in Florida a month ago, he went so far as to declare his 1949 infield was superior, defensively, even to his famed $100,000 infield of 1914 when McInnis-Collins-Baker-Barry were supposed to defy comparison.

At this time, the item that is separating the A's from even more respect is the doubt that their outfield will hit like a pennant winner's should. Elmer Valo will, it is believed, but Barney McCosky is lamed by his back ailment, and Mack is gambling that his man Sam Chapman will come up with one of his good years. Chapman could put the A's over, if he could find the big bat he used before the war.

MACK WOULDN'T trade his pitching staff for anybody else's. "We're so deep in good pitchers, it's wonderful," he says, and he isn't over-stating it. Phil Marchildon's defeat by the Red Sox the other day after shutting them out for eight innings was not discouraging. If Hal Newhouser is the best left-hander in the league, then Mack thinks he has the second best in young Lew Brissie. And Dick Fowler and Carl Scheib round out an impressive starting quartet.

His particular prides, though, are his two infielders, Eddie Joost and Ferris Fain. The A's pitchers love to work in front of that pair of fielding demons and double-play specialists. Lou Boudreau is the only shortstop in the league to be mentioned in the same inhalation with Joost defensively, and they are not separated by much. Fain is not merely the best first baseman in the American League, but the finest in the majors.

Mr. Mack had his share of luck, incidentally, when he came by Fain a couple of years ago for the Pacific Coast League's modest draft price. He owes it all to the bungling of the New York Giants.

SAN FRANCISCO was not prepared to let Fain be drafted, and had an understanding with the Giants that the latter would claim another Frisco player, thus protecting Fain under the rule that only one player could be drafted off any club. But the Giants forgot about that pledge, and claimed Jack Lohrke, San Diego third baseman, leaving Fain exposed to the draft by the A's for $10,000.

It was, conservatively, about a $200,000 gift to the Athletics. At the present market, Fain would probably bring more. He has brought to the A's not only the best first-basing job in the league, but a new kind of spirit. He made it plain early that he wouldn't play on a dead-fish ball club, and told the A's other infielders to "look alive, because I'm gonna throw that ball around, and you're apt to get hurt."

Fain shook the A's up and woke 'em up. They make the first-to-second-to-first play better than any other club in the league. They give the impression that they feel pretty highly about themselves, a nice sort of attitude, and that there isn't so very much to lick in this league.

Yanks Beat Bosox, 5-3, For Fourth Win in Row

Boston, April 22 (AP).—The undefeated New York Yankees, with strange faces in many positions, won their fourth consecutive game today and at the same time spoiled Boston's American League home opener by whipping the Red Sox, 5-3.

The largest opening day crowd in the history of Fenway Park, 33,955, saw Boston pitchers dole out nine bases on balls and Yankee hurlers give eight.

Tex Hughson made his first start of the season and didn't do too well. The tall-right-hander, who went to Texas to pitch in the hot sun last season after two arm operations, walked six Yankees and was rapped for five hits in six innings.

The loss, however, was charged to Lefty Earl Johnson, second of four Boston hurlers.

Allie Reynolds, starting and winning New York pitcher, wasn't much better as he walked five and was banged for all seven Red Sox hits.

The Yanks scored three times at Johnson's expense in the seventh.

On Tax Free Passes?

Boston, April 22 (AP). — The Massachusetts House today voted to impose a $1000 tax on Sunday major league baseball games.

With that item out of the way, the legislators adjourned to attend the opening home game of the Boston Red Sox — on passes.

Chisox Beat Browns, 5-2, in Home Opener

Chicago, April 22 (AP).—The Chicago White Sox fashioned a four run fourth inning, including Gus Zernial's homer, for a 5-2 home opener win over the St. Louis Browns today before 9568 fans today.

Although Marino Pieretti had to leave the game at the outset of the eighth inning, he was credited with the victory. The tiny pale hose hurler's pitching elbow tightened.

The Sox touched Starter Red Embree and reliefers Tom Ferrick and Joe Ostrowski for nine hits, including Cass Michaels' triple which produced the fifth Chicago tally in the eighth inning.

Vernon's Single in 10th Gives Tribe 4-3 Victory Over Tigers

Cleveland, April 22 (AP).—Mickey Vernon celebrated his thirty-first birthday today with a tenth-inning single that gave the World Champion Cleveland Indians a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers before a home opening day crowd of 63,725.

The Tribe's new first baseman, obtained in a trade with Washington, lashed a single past Third Baseman George Kell that scored Larry Doby from second. Doby had reached first on an error by Second Baseman Neil Berry and advanced to second on a sacrifice by Manager Lou Boudreau.

Dizzy Trout, who relieved Starter Freddie Hutchinson in the ninth, was on the mound when Vernon came through with his game-winning blow.

The Indians entered the ninth with a 3-to-2 lead but the Tigers tied it up on singles by Hoot Evers, Johnny Groth and Pinch-hitter Eddie Lake.

The Tribe broke a 2-all deadlock in the eighth on Boudreau's double and Joe Gordon's single.

Gordon also accounted for the other two Cleveland runs in the first inning when he doubled after Doby's single and Boudreau's two-bagger.

Joe Louis Is Asked $500,000 Questions —And He Must Answer

Chicago, April 22 (U.P.).—Superior Court Judge Benjamin Epstein today ordered former Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis to reply to six questions raised in a $500,000 alienation of affections suit.

The suit was filed in April, 1948, by the Rev. Matthew Faulkner, 32, Chicago, who accused Louis of stealing the love of his wife, Mattie Carie Faulkner, 24, a former model.

Epstein directed Louis to answer the questions in two weeks.

The questions submitted by Friedman were:

1. Did you buy a beaver coat and mink coat for Mattie Carie?

2. Did you ever deposit $10,000 to her bank account?

3. Did you buy her a cocktail ring?

4. Did you buy her a diamond-emerald ring worth $20,000?

5. Did you buy her a wardrobe when she accompanied you to London?

6. Is it true that she nursed your eye after your first fight with Joe Walcott?

Thomson Steal Fails, Braves Tie Giants, 6-6

New York, April 22 (AP). — The New York Giants and Boston Braves played a 6-6 tie today in the Polo Grounds opener when rain and darkness forced the umpires to call the game after the teams played nine innings in a steady drizzle.

A subpar crowd of 24,321 saw the Giants almost pull it out of the fire in the last of the ninth when they loaded the bases with one out. Bobby Thomson, trying to steal home, was nipped at the plate and Dave Koslo struck out to end the threat.

Both starters Johnny Sain and Larry Jansen appeared to be handicapped by the slippery ball which also bothered the fielders.

Brazle Hurls Cards To Win Over Cubs, 9-2

St. Louis, April 22 (AP).—A four-hit pitching job by angular Al Brazle and long-distance hitting spree by his mates gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 9-2 verdict over the Chicago Cubs today for their first victory of the season.

The crowd of 10,121 that turned out for the National League opener here was rewarded by an offensive that included Stan Musial's first homer of the year, a three-run double by Marty Marion, and four other extra base blows.

The four hits yielded by Brazle included an eighth-inning home run by Frank Gustine.

O'Leary Retains Golf Lead With Par 70 in Rain

Wilmington, N. C., April 22 (AP).—Paul O'Leary, 20-year-old newcomer from Bismarck, N. Dak., today added a two-under-par 70 to his first day 64 for a 134 total to hold his lead in the $10,000 Wilmington Open golf.

A cold rain, whipped occasionally by stiff winds, proved too much for most of the field to handle.

Eric Monti of Santa Monica, Calif., who was second in yesterday's opening round with a 65, came through with a 70 today to stick one notch behind O'Leary at 135.

Other top scorers included: Dick Metz of Virginia Beach, Va., 68, 68—136; Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill., 69, 69—138; Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa, 57, 72—138; Fred Haas, jr., of New Orleans, 72, 67—139, and Herman Keiser of St. Andrews, Ill., 71, 68—139.

Stranahan, Ward in Finals

Pinehurst, N. C., April 22 (AP).—Harvie Ward and Frank Stranahan today gained the finals of the North and South Amateur Golf Tournament for the second successive year.

Ward turned back former National Amateur Champion Richard D. Chapman of Pinehurst, 3 and 2, while Stranahan romped over Arnold Palmer, Wake Forest College sophomore from Latrobe, Pa., 12 and 11, in 36-hole semifinals tests.

Stranahan, in gaining the finals for the fourth time, dropped the second hole to Palmer when he three-putted for a six, one of two such morning lapses. He never lost a hole the rest of the day.

The British amateur champion from Toledo, Ohio, was out in 74 to 83 for Palmer. That left him seven up. After lunch Stranahan won five of seven holes to wind it up. He was even with par as far as he went in the afternoon. Palmer had five fives and a pair of fours.

Fans 6 in Inning, Still Loser

What Must a Guy Do to Win?

SEATTLE, April 22 (AP).—Pitcher Al Getchell yesterday struck out 6 men in one inning, 21 in nine innings, gave up only one hit and lost the game, 9 to 8.

Yes, six in one inning! Three times catchers dropped the third strike in the fourth stanza.

His Pier 91 team used three catchers and the trio contributed 10 of the team's 12 errors. A Bremerton, Wash., Navy team was the victor.

Giants Have System For Baiting Ump

NEW YORK, April 22 (U.P.).—Baseball's three best umpire-baiters—Leo Durocher, Frank Frisch and Freddie Fitzsimmons of the New York Giants—have a gentleman's agreement not to gang up on any one of the men in blue.

They have a simple system. When a debate is called for, Durocher tackles the plate umpire. Frisch sticks his chin in the first base arbiter's face and Fitzsimmons harangues the umpire closest to him.

And if all three get the bounce, the Giants still have a couple of silent coaches who can run the ball club—Ralph (Red) Kress and Herman Franks . . .

Nats Open Kids Baseball School Today

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

More than 5000 Washington and area youngsters will greet their Nat instructors at 10 a. m. this morning as the first sessions of this year's Walter Johnson Memorial Baseball School opens.

Kids of all ages are welcomed. Registration begins at 9:30 a. m. at each of the 22 playground class locations. There is no charge for the fun and lessons.

Today's agenda runs something like this. The Nats, in uniform, will be driven by Junior Board of Commerce drivers, to the class locations.

Kids Take Over

From about 10 to 11 o'clock, the ballplayers will discuss and demonstrate the various techniques and plays. From then 'til noon, the kids will take the field for intra-class games, with the Nats looking on, pointing out mistakes and making suggestions.

Helping the ballplayers in their instructions at each class, will be a D. C. Recreation Department leader. At the end of the session, each Nat will present an autographed souvenir to the prize pupil of the day.

All together, four weeks of instruction and application are in store for the kids. Similar classes are slated for Saturday mornings, April 30, May 7 and May 14.

Nats Return May 14

After a Western road trip, the Nats will return for the final session May 14, and then the pupils, who've attended most of the

Coaltown Goes Against 3 Rivals at 'Graw Today

Exciting, But . . .

Giants' 'Official' Opener Was Damp

By Red Smith

NEW YORK, APRIL 22 (NYHT).—For a sizable segment of New York's population, who ignore such Johnny-come-latelies as the Yankees and consider Brooklyn foreigners ineligible for the national game, no baseball season starts until the Giants play in the Polo Grounds. For them, the 1949 season is now official; the Giants played at home today, loosely speaking.

Red Smith

By 1:30 p. m. the morning sunshine had thinned out like automat soup but most of the day's 24,321 customers were shoving into the playground, all teed up as happily as though this were a bona fide homecoming and the Giants hadn't been prowling in the neighborhood like suspicious characters for a week.

By 3 p. m. it was raining a mixture of cold water and scorching Boston base hits and the Giants were four runs down to the Braves. Only a few sodden strays still huddled in the unroofed bleachers, whose drenched slopes, scabrous with a litter of scorecards and newspapers, looked as desolate as a tattered circus poster in December.

Half an hour later, though, there was sunlight again under 24,321 waistcoats. The socially distinguished Bostonian, John Sain, had followed New York's starting pitcher, Larry Jansen, on the long, squishly portage to the boudoir in center field, and the Giants were in front.

ON INTO THE MOIST and clammy dusk the idolators sat tight, straining and shivering as the struggle swayed, until at long last with the bases filled and one out in the ninth, Bobby Thomson was rubbed out stealing home, Dave Koslo fanned because all pinch-batters had been expended, and all hands settled grumpily for a tie, 6 to 6.

There may have been better openings in the Polo Grounds' lengthy history, but there have been none more exciting or damper. For the record: After Boston scored four times in the second inning, a band played "Heartaches"; as the clientele waded home, a phonograph gave with "Cruising Down the River."

Up to the moment when Hugo Rogers, Borough President of Manhattan, flung out the opening pitch in the most unceremonious ceremony on record, spirits were high all over the joint. Ford Frick, president of the National League, arrived lugging a satchel which, he told Leo Durocher, was for carrying golf balls. He wondered whether the practically peerless leader of the Giants wouldn't like to contribute toward the golf ball fund by addressing a few ill-chosen words to an umpire.

"Not me," said the practically peerless leader, proprietor of the most expensive vocabulary in the league. "No fines, no trouble for me. That was a balk yesterday, you know."

HE WAS referring to a delivery by Brooklyn's Preacher Roe, which he had vainly protested as illegal on Thursday.

"Ummm," said President Frick, chattily.

"I just went out to Dascoli," the P. P. leader continued, "and I told him, 'You're not going to throw me out today, but what is this? Look.' "

He stood up and illustrated his version of Roe's pitching motion. "Double motion, see?" I told him, 'if that's not a balk, I'm a Chinaman.' And I walked away. When I walked past Pinelli I said, 'and you, spaghetti eater, you know it's a balk.' "

"I'm very low on golf balls," President Frick said.

"The only way an umpire will call a balk in this league," said the P. P. L., "is for the pitcher to take his stride and come all the way over the top and then hold the ball. My own guy, Hartung, he made a balk yesterday and nobody saw it."

"Keep talking," said President Frick.

"That Rip Sewell's still doing it this way," said the voice of the Giants, demonstrating again "and all you can get out of the umpires is, 'Well, he's done that all his life.' So what? Does that give him a license? And there's a guy with this Boston Club, Si Johnson, balked every time he had runners on. Did they call it? No."

"Ummm," said Mr. President.

"SO YOU called Pinelli a spaghetti eater?" said Frank Shaughnessy, president of the International League.

"Sure," the leader said, "I have no trouble with Babe. He'll miss one and I'll charge out and he'll say, 'Don't see how coulda called it that way. I sure missed it.' Well, then, I'm through. If I charged him then, I'd deserve to be fined $150."

"Let's get that in writing," the president said. "Keep talking, Leo."

Leo did, too, until the Braves' pitching tenor, Red Barrett, came by and recalled a statement in the press this spring when Durocher, discounting rumors that he might trade Thomson for Barrett, had said, "We've already got lots of that kind of pitching."

"Which of my kinds of pitching were you referring to?" Red asked sweetly. "Intelligent pitching, control pitching or the old fast ball?"

No answer occurred right off to the practically peerless leader.

Havre De Grace, Md., April 22.—Three candidates from the original 47 eligibles for the $15,000 added Edward Burke Handicap, tomorrow's feature offering, were named overnight to face the powerful Calumet Farm entry of Coaltown and Faultless. The trainers of Mrs. Ellsworth H. Augustus' Seven League, Claude C. Tanner's Nearway and W. Y. Goldsborough Binky B. entered their charges with a fervent prayer that track condition might change the plans for Coaltown's first Maryland showing.

It is practically assured that Coaltown will get to the barrier in the one mile and a sixteenth test regardless of a muddy or fast track. The Bull Lea colt has been rested since equalling the world's record for a mile and one-quarter when he carried 128 pounds in 1:59 4/5 to win the Gulfstream Park Handicap in ridiculous fashion and Trainer Jimmy Jones desires to get a few races under his charge in preparation for his coming engagements.

Jones stated yesterday that Coaltown is ready for his Maryland debut and he would definitely start the Calumet Comet.

Nine races have been carded for the weekend program. The additional race will be run in the event that no wagering is permitted on the Burke handicap. This will be decided after scratch time tomorrow morning. There is little indication that any of Coaltown's opponents have the slightest chance of upsetting the Calumet colt. Nearway is a two-time stakes winner at Bowie this spring but he failed in his last New York start.

Undercurrent Wins Feature Race at 'Graw

Havre de Grace, Md., April 22.—King Ranch's Undercurrent, a disappointing fourth in her last start, found the sloppy 6 furlongs of the La Plata Purse, best offering on today's card, to her liking and romped home with the major spoils of the $4000 purse.

The baby filly gave Steve Brooks his second riding victory on the card when she reached the wire two lengths clear of Delta Queen. The latter closed some ground to gain a head photo decision over the favored Clinging Vine.

It was a gloomy day in more ways than one as far as the favorite players in the crowd of 7308 were concerned. The public choices needed a guide to find the winner's circle with but one favorite getting home, Fort Mifflin, in the fifth event.

The $16 payoff on the winner followed the trend throughout the afternoon.

The longest daily-double payoff of the Maryland season of $733.80 resulted when the "2-6" combination accounted for the first and second events.

There was a total of 48 tickets on the correct duo of Connie Morse, winner of the first race at $50.40 straight, and Hedgethorn, $42.60. A parlay of the two long-shot winners would have amounted to $1075.

WRC Airs Life Of Johnson Today

The life of Walter Johnson will be dramatized today at 4 p. m. over radio station WRC on a national hook-up. The broadcast is in conjunction with the national campaign of the American Cancer Society. Johnson died in 1946.

Bob Considine will be the narrator and Edwin C. Johnson, the pitcher's son, will be cut into the program from Washington to make an appeal for contributions to the cancer society.

Denver, April 22 (AP).—Colorado today extended a bid for the 1956 winter Olympic games.

Called Juvenile Delinquency Pitfall

N. Y. Judge Reserves Decision On Petition to Ban Double

New York, April 22 (AP).—Supreme Court Justice John E. McGeehan reserved decision today on a petition to have the daily double declared illegal at New York race tracks.

The court took the application under advisement after former Magistrate Joseph Goldstein charged that it contributed to juvenile delinquency and was "taking money from the pockets of those least able to afford it."

Goldstein brought the petition for Murray Mellman of New York and named as defendants the Metropolitan Jockey Club, Westchester Racing Association, Queens County Jockey Club, Empire City Racing Association, Saratoga Association and the State Racing Commission.

Assistant Attorney General John Powers, representing the commission, asked the court to dismiss the case on the ground that Mellman was "not a person agrieved" and therefore not in position to bring the suit. He said the methods used in the daily double were consistent with State laws.

Declaring "the State is in the gambling business," Goldstein contended that daily double tickets were not vended by machines and totalizators, which he said was required by law.

Bill Bennings:

At Havre de Grace

DEAR FOLKS:

Although the race was run last Wednesday, fans and horsemen are still talking about the thrilling Philadelphia Handicap. This event will be long remembered. Charlie McLennan, racing secretary here, may well take a bow for his weights certainly "brought them together." Ten horses competed and there was only 4½ lengths between the first and tenth horse at the wire. In fact, the first seven to finish were only a length and three-quarters apart. The charge through the stretch in which Pep Well won for Calumet was reminiscent of a cavalry display. By the way, three stakes here were decided in photo finishes. Jockey Henri Mora, injured here last week, was a track visitor. He has a broken jaw and a fractured collar bone.—BILL.

Rape Jury Returns 2d Death Verdict

Martinsville, Va., April 22 (AP).—A jury in the Circuit Court of Martinsville returned the second death penalty verdict in two days here tonight when it found Frank Hairston, jr., guilty of rape and fixed his penalty at death in the electric chair.

Hairston is the second of seven Negroes being tried separately for the rape of a white woman on January 8.

Judge Kennon C. Whittle overruled a motion to set aside the verdict as contrary to the law and evidence. He did not immediately sentence Hairston, saying that such action would await the completion of the other trials.

Yesterday the jury convicted Joe Henry Hampton, 19, and fixed his punishment at death. Other defendants in the cases are Booker T. Millner, Howard Lee Hairston, John Clabon Taylor, Francis DeSales Grayson and James Luther Hairston. Millner will be the next of the men to stand trial when court convenes Monday.

All the Negro defendants are charged with raping a 32-year-old white woman.

6 Alexandria Apartments Ransacked

Alexandria police yesterday were investigating a rash of daylight housebreakings in downtown apartments which netted thieves $365.

Six apartments on or near Washington st. were broken into Thursday by jimmying the front door while the occupants were away. Police were convinced all the jobs were done by the same person or persons.

Biggest theft was that of $300 taken from a desk in the apartment of Emmett M. Day at 922 S. Washington st. Two other apartments at the same address were ransacked but only cigarettes were taken.

Police said $55 was reported stolen from an apartment at 515 N. Washington st., and $10 from a Hunting Terrace apartment on South Washington st. near Hunting Creek. An apartment at 719 S. St. Asaph st. was also entered, police said, but there, too, nothing but cigarettes were reported missing.

Soldiers Get 6 Months in Auto Thefts

Four young soldiers, linked by police to a recent series of auto thefts in Falls Church, were sentenced to six months in prison yesterday for unauthorized use of one of the stolen vehicles.

The four, originally charged with four counts of auto theft, were permitted to plead guilty to the lesser charge in one of the four alleged offenses. Action on the other three charges was deferred by Fairfax Trial Magistrate Harry Carrico pending reports from insurance companies covering the stolen vehicles.

The four, all stationed at Fort Belvoir, are Pvts. Charles Henry Edmundson, Robert E. Force and Andrew Durant, all 19, and Pvt. Joseph Arena, 17.

Their arrest resulted from an investigation by Lieut. George E. Simpson, of the Falls Church police force, in the theft of four autos, all of which later were recovered. According to Simpson, the thefts occurred after the four began dating a group of Falls Church girls about February 9.

Man Held in Bond On Attempted Choking Charge

Andrew Ashton, 30, a laborer, was held yesterday under $10,000 bond for grand jury action on a charge of attempting to choke to death a 69-year-old bedridden woman who said she had been his benefactress.

The complainant, Mrs. Mary Cooper, 69, of 826 48th pl. ne., came to Municipal Court in a wheelchair. She said that three years ago when Ashton was turned out of his own home she allowed him to sleep on the porch during good weather and on a living-room couch when the weather was bad.

He seemed well behaved, she declared, until Wednesday night. He came home and for no ascertainable reason began choking her with his hands and then with a pillow. She said she managed, however, to get loose enough to make an outcry to summon relatives, who came to her aid.

Student Newsmen Hold Damascus Conclave Today

High school journalism students in Montgomery County will write what they see at a press conference today at Damascus High School, Damascus, Md., and then submit their work to a panel of judges for prize money.

Judges will be members of the Montgomery County Press Association, which is furnishing prize money for the third annual press conference sponsored by the Inter-high Council.

Fitting subjects for editorials, news, sports and feature writing will be staged beginning at 1 p. m., and the students will then write their stories.

FBI Fugitive Shot In Indianapolis Fight

Indianapolis, April 22 (AP).—Clyde Milton Johnson, the FBI's public enemy No. 1, lay in critical condition at General Hospital today with a bullet in his back.

Johnson was wounded in a running gun fight with three FBI agents on crowded Monument Circle last night.

FBI Agent Harvey Foster said Johnson was charged with robbing the North Side branch of the First National Bank at Memphis, Tenn., February 8 and with escaping from the Dade County jail at Miami, Fla., March 1.

Boy, 15, Shot in Eye, May Lose Sight

A 15-year-old boy may lose the sight of his right eye as the result of a BB-gun injury suffered yesterday.

George E. Dorn of 1125 7th st. ne. was playing in the alley in the rear of his house with four unidentified boys, police said, when he was shot. Doctors at Casualty Hospital, where the boy was taken, said the shot entered the cornea just above the pupil and that there is a possibility the eye may be lost.

D.C. Policeman Fined $60 in Arrest Case

Pvt. Talbert E. Dowling of the Eleventh Precinct was fined a total of $60 yesterday by a police trial board on charges growing out of an arrest he made last March 21.

On that date, Dowling arrested Wilbur L. Evans, 21, of 1147 Stevens rd. se., at his home on an assault warrant. While Dowling was arresting Evans, another man struck Evans in the nose.

When the policeman reached the stationhouse, Evans' nose was bleeding. Capt. James E. Silvea, commander of the Eleventh Precinct, instructed Dowling to make out an assault report.

Dowling did make out the report—but not until several days later. Captain Silvea charged him with failing to make out a report, disobeying orders of a superior officer and neglect of duty.

At the trial board hearing yesterday, Dowling pleaded not guilty and, according to Inspector Robert E. Pearce, chairman of the trial board, pleaded that he had difficulty on obtaining the name of the man who struck Evans.

The trial board found Dowling guilty of not making the report and disobeying orders of a superior officer, but not guilty of neglect of duty. He was fined $10 on the first charge and $50 on the second charge.

The trial board's recommendations were approved by Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police.

Montgomery Gets Bid of $123,749 For Negro School

Montgomery County school officials were heartened yesterday by a bid of only $133,749 for a proposed 10-room consolidated Negro elementary school at Emory Grove, less than the amount already set aside.

Assistant School Superintendent Richard Carptenter said the unexpectedly low cost of the project, first of five proposed Negro consolidated elementaries, coupled with the fact that as many as 10 bids had been opened, might be a "hopeful sign" that school building costs are coming down.

The bid, submitted by Camp & Heck Co., Bethesda, will be considered by the school board Monday night, Carpenter said.

12 Burglaries In Northwest Laid to 3 Boys

Police claimed the solution of about a dozen housebreakings in Northwest Washington with the arrest of three juveniles yesterday.

A call was received by police about 1 a. m. reporting that someone was trying to break into the Wakefield Grill, 1359 Connecticut ave. nw.

When a scout car reached the scene, two boys crawled from beneath an automobile and fled. A third boy, hiding behind the car, also ran.

Policemen had no trouble catching the first two boys, but the third youth got about two blocks away, then fell into the excavation at the Dupont Circle underpass. Other scout cars arrived and the boy was pulled from the excavation.

The boys—one is 15 and two are 17—were taken to the Third Precinct Station for questioning. Detectives said they had tried to break into the grill through a skylight. They said they believe the boys are responsible for at least a dozen housebreakings in the Seventh, Tenth and Third Precincts.

The boys were held for action of Juvenile Court.

Schools Oppose Central District Accounting Plan

The Board of Education yesterday voted against a central accounting system for the District as proposed by Auditor A. R. Pilkerton.

In a special poll, board members approved a report of School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning that such a move would "interfere with effective operation of the public schools."

The proposal would place preparation of teacher payrolls, now under jurisdiction of school officials, under the auditor. Dr. Corning said this would violate provisions of the act setting up the school system.

School officials and board members will present their views at a meeting of heads of all departments of the District government Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the District Building.

Folger Unit to Mark Shakespeare's Birth

The 385th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare will be observed at the Folger Shakespeare Library at 8:30 p. m. today with an address in the theater by Charles J. Sisson, professor of English at University College, London.

Professor Sisson, editor of the Modern Language Review and author of several works on the Elizabethan period, will speak on "Elizabethans in Intimacy."

Rescue Squad Parades Today In Bethesda

A parade, featuring the latest firefighting and rescue equipment plus an overhead cover of airplanes will be held today at 5 p. m. along Wisconsin ave. in Bethesda, Md.

The event is sponsored by the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Rescue Squad in conjunction with its fund-raising carnival now under way at Wisconsin ave. and Old Georgetown rd., Bethesda.

More than 100 firefighting pieces from Montgomery County and adjoining areas, as well as 100 commercial floats, have been entered. The planes will be C-47 transports of the District National Guard.

The 100-piece Washington Police Band and bands from Greenbelt, Md.; Montgomery Blair High School and the Silver Spring Elks Club will take part.

Units will form at Wisconsin ave. and Bradley blvd., and move north on Wisconsin ave. to Old Georgetown rd., then to Moorland lane.

Bottling Plant Strike Ends in Silver Spring

Local 67, Beverage Drivers Union, yesterday called off its five-week strike against the Silver Spring bottling plant of Canada Dry following an agreement between company and union officials in New York.

Both the local, affiliated with the AFL Teamsters, and the plant, located on the East-West hwy., agreed to withdraw charges of unfair labor practices filed against each other and being investigated by the National Labor Relations Board.

The plant has been operating despite the pickets since the walkout began in the middle of March in a dispute over a new contract. All strikers will report back to work Monday.

According to the union the agreement calls for a $2 a week increase in pay for all employes of the plant subject to the union's jurisdiction. A management official said that some 40 inside workers had already been given $2 a week increase in wages, and that 16 driers would now also benefit from the pay hike.

New Phone Books Take Effect After Midnight

Don't forget to use that new telephone book after midnight tonight.

About 27,000 Washington telephone numbers in four existing exchanges and three new ones will have five numerals from then on.

The change from two letters and four digits to two letters and five digits will be introduced at midnight with Kenmore, Locust, Lincoln, Ludlow, Johnson, Lockwood and Logan numbers. The latter two new exchanges replace the Pleasant and Spruce offices.

Lockwood numbers will have 5 as the first digit, while the other six revised exchanges will use the digit 3.

The first three turns of the dial will be the same in dialing Johnson 3, Locust 3 or Logan 3 numbers. However, the last four digits in each case will determine which telephone office your call will go through.

Murray Bill Proposes New Salary Schedule For 104,000 CPCs

The Murray reclassification bill would set up a separate salary schedule for the 104,000 Federal workers in the crafts, protective and custodial services (CPC).

There would be 10 CPC grades with a salary range from $1400 to $4900. The average increase under the Murray bill would be $59.17, or about $10 a year more than the average classified employe would get under another provision in the measure. The top boost would be $174.40 a year. Some few CPCs would get no raise.

Longevity increases for CPCs would be: $60 for Grade 1; $70, Grade 2; $80 for Grades 3 through 6; $100 for Grade 7, and $125 for the three top grades. An employe would be eligible for a longevity boost after he had been at the top of his grade for four years. He would be limited to three such increases.

The following table shows how the salaries of the CPC employes would be adjusted under the Murray bill:

Fay Offers Chevy Chase Phone Issue Evidence

U. S. Attorney Files Affidavit in C&P Reply to Complaint After Gaming Raids

United States Attorney George Morris Fay yesterday offered to reveal at a public hearing what evidence he has to show that a Chevy Chase telephone was used for gambling purposes.

His proposal was contained in an affidavit filed with the Maryland Public Service Commission in Baltimore. It was part of an answer from the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. to the first of 23 subscriber complaints asking the PSC to prevent discontinuance of their phone service.

The answer requested that the complaint be dismissed.

Listed 324 in All

Fay had listed 324 telephones in Washington and Maryland which he said were being used "to aid and abet in the violation of statutes prohibiting gambling in the District of Columbia."

His list and a subsequest wave of complaints to the PSC and the courts followed a series of gambling raids in Greater Washington early last month.

Twenty-three subscribers sought relief from the PSC. On April 2, the PSC gave the telephone company until yesterday to file an answer in the case of George Morrison, 4610 Davidson st., Chevy Chase, one of those cited by Fay, or to face a public hearing. Other cases are to follow.

Fay said, in his affidavit that "certain evidence, documentary and otherwise," showing Morrison's phone was "being used illegally," had come to his attention.

Will Be Avialable

He said the evidence "will be available" at a hearing before the PSC.

The PSC has given no indication whether it will call any hearings after receiving all the telephone company's replies.

In yesterday's reply, the C. & P. said it had no complaints of the use of Morrison's phone prior to receipt of notification from Fay.

In view of Fay's information, the company declared, it felt "justified" in discontinuing the service and asked that Morrison's complaint be dismissed.

To Ask Injunction

Meanwhile, Myron G. Ehrlich, attorney for another complainant, said he notified the Government yesterday he would ask Judge David A. Pine on Tuesday to sign a temporary injunction restraining the C. & P. from disconnecting the telephone of Nathan Miller, 4923 LaSalle rd., Avondale, Md.

Judge Pine granted the injunction on April 14 for lack of evidence that the telephone had been used to violate District gambling laws. He said at the time he had heard evidence which might show it had been used in violation of Maryland law.

Fay is expected to note an appeal from the injunction.

Laughlin Includes Jury Foreman in Suit

Attorney James J. Laughlin amended his civil suit in District Court yesterday to include the foreman of the Prince Georges County grand jury. He also increased the amount of damages sought to $258,275.

When it was filed originally on Wednesday, the suit named only State's Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie of Prince Georges County. Now F. Bowie Addison, the grand jury foreman, has been added as a defendant.

When Laughlin first filed the suit, he asked for damages totaling $208,500 on grounds of malicious abuse of process, malicious prosecution and slander. He has now added a charge of conspiracy to violate his civil rights and asks $49,775 more.

An attachment for Laughlin's arrest was issued in the county Tuesday after he was accused of failing to answer subpena to appear before the grand jury which is investigating alleged gambling operations in the county.

Word to the Wise, Or Intuitive, Can Be Worth $93.75

The newspapers and a woman's intuition, Mrs. Rozier Rector discovered yesterday, can be worth $93.75 under certain circumstances.

Mrs. Rector, a Naval Gun Factory typist who lives at 1329 Massachusetts ave. se., removed $75 and an $18.75 war bond from her pocketbook before she went to a nearby delicatessen yesterday, she told police. She had been reading about purse snatchings, she said.

On her return, an unidentified man slipped up from behind and snatched her purse, containing two $5 bills, she reported.

Police broadcast a lookout for a slender Negro, about 6 feet 1 inch tall, hatless and wearing dark clothes. He escaped through an alley near 13th st. near E. Capitol st.

On a Rainy, Rainy Day . . .

By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

THIS SOLVES RECREATION PROBLEM—This is what they do in Woodrow Wilson Junior High School, Arlington, when it rains. The school's 115 students, who are crowded into the building's small gym for a recreation period on inclement days, enjoy themselves by square dancing. And teachers join in, too. This was the scene there at about 11 a. m. yesterday. Children who never danced before now know the graceful turns of "Lady Around the Lady," "Swing the Gal Behind You," among others

Truman Asked Not to Name Grant Again

The Federation of Civic Association urged President Truman last night not to reappoint Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3d, to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The Negro civic group urged this in a resolution adopted without discussion or opposition. The resolution suggested an appointee "who will more faithfully interpret (President Truman's) position in support of full, unrestricted first-class citizenship for every person resident in Metropolitan Washington as well as for every citizen throughout the entire United States."

Genral Grant, grandson and namesake of the Civil War general, has been repeatedly attacked on the floor of federation meetings because of the NCPP's race policies. These policies have been emphasized during the past few months in a series of letters between Grant and Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.). On April 15 Grant wrote the Congressman that racial designations on District playgrounds cannot be abolished without congressional mandate.

The federation, in its meeting at the District Building, also voted to ask the Board of Education for "immediate transfer of Roosevelt and Central High Schools to Divisions 10 to 13 for temporary use pending construction of Spingarn and (the new) Armstrong High Schools."

This action was taken after a plea by Paul Cooke, Miner Teachers College faculty member and president of Local 27, American Federation of Teachers.

The Negro population is now within four-tenths of a mile of Roosevelt, he said, and is slowly moving farther north. Central is almost completely surrounded by Negro residences, he added. Coolidge, Wilson, McKinley and Western High Schools, which are not used to capacity, could easily accommodate the students now attending Roosevelt and Central, Cooke declared.

The group also adopted a resolution indorsing the recent remarks of Municipal Court Judge Armond Scott in scoring two policemen who reportedly manhandled a drunk while making the arrest.

Furnishings Seized

Tenant Is Absent for Year But Pays Rent, Tax Men Find

District tax officials and police yesterday were searching for a Connecticut ave. apartment house tenant who has been paying his rent by telegraph but has not occupied his quarters here for at least a year.

The search was begun after the delinquent tax section of the District tax collector's office found Charles B. Davison, a tenant at the Chesapeake Apartments, 4607 Connecticut ave. nw., owed $627 in personal property taxes for 1947 and 1948.

Tax investigators who went to the bachelor quarters found a heavy coating of dust on the furniture, some men's clothes in the closet and food in the refrigerator which the apartment house manager, Mrs. Frances McCarthy, thought must have been there "at least a year."

Mrs. McCarthy described her tenant as a man in his middle fifties who was "very nice to talk to." She added she had seldom seen him during the past two years of his five-year tenancy, and had not seen him at all for at least a year.

Meanwhile, she said, she has been receiving the monthly rental by telegram from Charleston, W. Va. Last rental payment was made April 15, she said.

She described Davison as a construction contractor.

The tax collector's office has seized the property in the apartment and will keep it there "for a reasonable time" while efforts are made to locate Davison. If not found, officials said, it will be advertised and sold at public auction.

Psychological 'Stopgap'

Judge May Try 1-Year Terms To Deter Steady Drunks Here

Judge Armond W. Scott yesterday revealed plans to mete out one-year jail sentences as a psychological deterrent to steady drunks.

The Municipal Court jurist urged a repeater drunk before the bench to "spread the word around that this is the end of the general policy of leniency."

Later, Judge Scott told a reporter, "This is just a shot in the dark. I'll see Monday if the threat had any psychological effect."

Scott pointed out the futility of giving repeater drunks light sentences, only to have the alcohol victims returned to court as soon as their jail terms expire.

The judge said he would meet Monday with Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King to discuss the possibility of charging repeater drunks as third offenders, subject to a maximum $500 fine and six months in jail. Drunks who received the maximum sentence and were unable to pay the fine could receive a straight year in jail, Scott said.

The heaviest sentence he gave any of the 60-odd drunks in court yesterday was $100 or 30 days. He said he would wait until Monday, when the weekend toll mounts to about 125, sometimes 175, to see if his warning had proved effective.

Scott said the one-year sentence plan was only a temporary stopgap at best, that the only real solution would be a rehabilitation center with psychiatric guidance.

Assistant Corporation Counsel King said he thought steady repeaters should receive stiff sentences to forestall their return to court as soon as short sentences

Folk Festival Tonight Set in Upper Marlboro

The annual Folk Festival sponsored by the homemakers of Prince Georges County will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Upper Marlboro High School.

Twelve clubs will join in the square dancing, folk music, old fashioned dress revue and novelty dances. Ebb'n Ely will do the square-dance calling.

2 Policemen Exonerated in 2 Deaths Here

Two policemen were exonerated yesterday at coroner's inquests—one in the fatal shooting of a carpenter as he fled a looted restaurant, the other in the death of a drunken man, struck during an altercation.

The jury's verdict freed Pvt. George R. Sydnor, 33, of the Tenth Precinct, who shot and killed Richard A. Cooper, 36, of 239 17th st. se., in Crain's restaurant, 201 Upshur st. nw., early Thursday morning.

The jury ruled that Sydnor had fired his gun in the line of duty while trying to maintain an arrest during a felony and that Cooper's death was justifiable homicide.

The jury also freed Pvt. Charles D. Hill, 28, of the Seventh Precinct, in the death of William McDaniel of 1820 Capitol ave. ne. McDaniel died at Freedmen's Hospital shortly after Hill slapped him and he fell to the sidewalk Wednesday evening.

The jury ruled that McDaniel fell because of his drunken condition and was injured and that his death was accidental.

Sydnor testified he bumped into Cooper coming out the front door of the restaurant with a case of beer while checking his beat. Cooper said "Louie's in there," dropped the beer and ran into the restaurant, yelling "Louie, Louie," the policeman said.

He stated he followed Cooper inside, ordered him to halt several times and then fired twice, when Cooper ran into the kitchen. He said he did not realize his shot had taken effect, until Cooper was found dead a short time later in the alley.

Witnesses said McDaniel was ejected three times from the Twentieth Century Billiard Parlor, 1929 9th st. nw., because of disorderly conduct. Hill, who was off duty and in civilian clothes, identified himself as a policeman and tried to stop McDaniel from entering the pool room a fourth time, they said.

When McDaniel grabbed Hill's shirt collar and refused to let go, Hill slapped him across the cheek and he fell, striking his head. Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy said an autopsy disclosed the alcoholic content of McDaniel's blood was .31 per cent, showing he was "absolutely intoxicated."

Slum Clearance Hopes Increased By Senate Action

Housing Authority Plans to Start Delayed Program If Bill Is Passed

Washington officials yesterday greeted Senate passage of the national housing bill as opening new hope that some changes will be made for the better in District slum conditions.

John Ihlder, executive director of the National Capital Housing Authority, said that if the measure becomes law his agency would move at once toward carrying out its long proposed program for 5500 additional low-rent housing units in the District.

Sickening slum conditions here were cited by Senators during debate on the housing bill as members told of their tours to overcrowded shanties and alley hovels within sight of the Capitol.

Powers Restored

Then, in one of the last moves before passage of the bill, Senator John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) won Senate approval of an amendment that restores to the National Capital Housing Authority the site acquisition powers taken from it in 1946 by the District Redevelopment Act.

Sparkman said that without the amendment, the NCHA would have been left as the only public housing local agency in the country without authority to take advantage of the national housing bill.

Sparkman pointed out that the NCHA previously had site acquisition powers. Their removal and transfer to the District Redevelopment Land Agency set up by the 1946 act came as a result of a series of amendments which public housing officials had opposed.

He said public housing officials felt the transfer of the NCHA's site acquisition powers would "prevent more than a fragment of a public housing program in the District, and experience has borne out that forecast."

Waiting List Is Long

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) reminded Sparkman that only a few thousand dollars had been appropriated so far for planning under the Redevelopment act. The act charted a 20-million-dollar program of slum clearance and redevelopment of blighted areas, but none of this proposed fund has been appropriated, and requests for planning money have generally been pared down.

Ferguson obtained from Sparkman assurance that the NCHA amendment would make the national bill apply to the District, and would in no way repeal the redevelopment program.

Sparkman told the Senate the NCHA now has some 18,000 families on its waiting list, and more than 5000 of them are families of low-income veterans. He said the only redevelopment project yet planned is for some 350 families here, and with the NCHA kept out of the field, a large part of redeveloped areas would be for uses other than public housing.

Loan Plan Suggested

Ihlder said that moving to start the project of 5500 low-rent units here, the NCHA under the bill could apply to the Public Housing Administration for the necessary loan, repayable at the going Federal interest rate over a 40-year period. He said the loans could be paid off by annual repayments or by selling bonds to private investors as has been done in the past.

Senator Ferguson yesterday held conference with Ihlder and with Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant, 3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

General Grant was understood to have called attention to the need for planning funds to complete the master plan fixed by the Redevelopment Act as the first step in the program. His agency has been drawing up the plan.

Ihlder was understood to have voiced his belief that the Senate action had promised a strengthening of the District housing and slum clearance program as a whole.

Ihlder also called attention to a proposed District housing code drawn up 12 years ago by a Washington Housing Association committee of which he was a member and submitted then to the Commissioners. He recalled the proposed code would have set up (1) standards for new housing, specifying the size of rooms, lighting, ventilation, and building requirements, (2) a more moderate standard for existing buildings, and (3) standards of maintenance. He said it was aimed at a gradual improvement of housing in general.

Ihlder said the Senate action restoring NCHA site acquisition powers did not specify that the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the District Commissioners should first approve the sites selected by NCHA. But he emphasized that his agency's policy had always been to obtain such clearance.

Navy Band Concert

The Navy Band, under direction of Lieut. Comdr. Charles Brendler, will give a concert in the Catholic University on Sunday at 3 p. m. Tenor soloist will be Ben Mitchell Morris. The performance is open to the public.

Tydings and Hoey

2 Senators Push D. C. Sales Levy

Strong support for the proposed 2 per cent District sales tax was voiced yesterday by Senators Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) and Clyde R. Hoey (D., N. C.).

Both Tydings and Hoey served as members of the District Committee until the beginning of the last Congress, and Hoey is a member of the Senate Finance Committee in charge of national tax legislation.

Meanwhile, District Committee members opposed to the sales tax cantinued consideration of a minority report against the levy.

But Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) who has taken the lead in drafting the minority report, left for South Carolina about 4:30 p. m. without presenting the anti-sales-tax document to the Senate.

The 2 per cent District sales tax is a main feature of the proposed 18-million-dollar city revenue bill, which has cleared the Senate District Committee and is now awaiting Senate action.

Senator Tydings said he expects to vote for the sales tax plan as long as it contains exemptions for such items as food and medicine.

Senator Hoey said he regards the sales tax plan for the District as a "very good measure," although he emphasized that he had not yet studied the revenue bill, in detail.

Truman Yet To Decide on Commissioner

President Truman has given no thought to the appointment of a District Commissioner, according to Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, who yesterday called on him at the White House.

Mrs. Harriman, the District's Democratic National Committeewoman, made the visit with A. L. Wheeler, chairman of the local Democratic Central Committee.

Wheeler refused to talk about the visit but Mrs. Harriman said she told the President she hoped he would name as Commissioner a man who is in sympathy with such Democratic platform promises as home rule for the District and a civil rights program.

She said she told Mr. Truman the "official" Democratic candidate for the job, Thomas P. Morgan, jr., meets such qualifications. Mrs. Harriman said the President replied that he hadn't given the matter any thought as yet.

Mrs. Harriman said she brought "quite a good many" District problems to the President's attention but she did not say what they were, other than the commissionership. The term of John Russell Young expires May 17.

Democratic National Committeeman Melvin D. Hildreth was to have attended the White House meeting but did not return from a Texas business trip in time.

Air Force Officer Killed in Crash Near Brandywine

An Air Force officer was killed yesterday afternoon when an F-84 jet fighter from Otis Air Force Base, Falmouth, Mass., crashed on a farm near Brandywine, Md.

Officials at Andrews Air Force Base, where the plane was headed withheld identification of the pilot until next of kin could be notified.

Witnesses said the plane struck the ground then rammed a barn, and exploded.

The fighter was one of a flight of eight that left Falmouth at 9:58 a. m. Six made emergency landings at Patuxent River Naval Air Test Center, and one landed at Edgewood Arsenal, after running into heavy weather.

Probe Ordered in Arrest of Two Jaywalkers

Barrett Says Police Are Not Out to Embarrass People

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett yesterday ordered an investigation of the arrest of two women who were convicted here yesterday of jaywalking.

Judge George D. Neilson freed both women on their promises not to repeat the offense. They are Mrs. Carrie E. Swearingen, 69, of the Ontario Apartments, Ontario rd. and 18th st. nw., and Mrs. Helen Zeliff, 42, of 1026 15th st. nw.

The women were arrested by Police Pvt. Ralph Ogle as he directed traffic at 14th st. and New York ave. nw. Mrs. Zeliff told the court that Ogle was "overzealous," and Mrs. Swearingen said he was "officious," "a brute," and "a smart-aleck."

Major Barrett asked Traffic Inspector Arthur E. Miller to determine what action, if any, should be taken against Private Ogle.

"The Police Department is not out to embarrass ladies or anyone," Barrett declared. "We want to make friends."

Accused jaywalkers get suspended sentences

Mrs. Zeliff told the judge a traffic light at the intersection was in the middle of the street, but she admitted she had learned her lesson.

Mrs. Zeliff had also been charged with assaulting an officer after she allegedly smacked Ogle on the face with her pocketbook. This charge was nolle prossed by the United States Attorney's office.

Mrs. Swearingen, a Naval Gun Factory employe, protested her arrest vigorously and said her arm was bruised in four places by Ogle before she was hauled off in a patrol wagon.

When she insisted there was no traffic light facing her when she crossed the street, Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark F. King took her there in a police car and pointed it out. Returning to court, she admitted she was mistaken.

She praised the court for the courtesy she was afforded there, but persisted in her statement that Ogle had mistreated her.

Judge Neilson urged her to be more careful lest "grim death on the sreeets" catch up with her. He congratulated the Police Department for doing a "splendid job" with Washington's traffic problem and urged "continued courtesy and cooperation."

Area News In Brief

New Bethesda Bus Service Ordered

Rush hour express bus service between Bethesda and Washington by the Capital Transit Co. was authorized yesterday by the District Public Utilities Commission.

The PUC, ruling that Capital Transit's proposal was "in the public interest," ordered the service effective April 25.

The new route, to be known as T-9, will operate in Washington from the District line south on Wisconsin ave., Massachusetts ave. and 20th st. nw., east on I st. and south on 13th st. to the terminal south of Pennsylvania, in and out bound.

The PUC order provides that no intra-District passengers shall be carried on the T-9 express. In Maryland the route begins at the Naval Medical Center in Bethesda and proceeds down Wisconsin ave. The route has been approved by the Maryland Public Service Commission.

Plea for Quarantine

Parents of children suffering chickenpox were asked yesterday to keep their youngsters indoors during the period of isolation, which is normally 10 days or until all scabs have disappeared.

The request was made by Dr. Carl C. Dauer, director of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases, District Health Department, which pointed out that so far in 1949, a total of 1084 cases of chickenpox have been reported here as compared to 483 cases reported this time last year. There have been no deaths from this disease, he said.

Record Dealer Arrested

A 7th st. nw. disc dealer claimed yesterday some of his $1-$2 numbers were the "usual type of party records."

Police said they were obscene, however, and booked Samuel H. Penstein, 41, proprietor of the Hollywood Record Co., 1006 7th st. nw., on a charge of violating a statute prohibiting sale of obscene publications.

Lieut. Rog Blick, vice squad chief, said "a large number of records" were seized at the shop. Penstein was released in $1000 bond.

$4800 Awarded Girl

A consent judgment was ordered yesterday in District Court awarding $4800 damages to a 7-year-old girl who was injured June 22, 1948, in an automobile accident here. The award was made by Judge David A. Pine in behalf of the child, Lementine Woods, and her father, John Woods of 1925 17th st. ne.

The girl was hit by a truck of Defendant Robert O. Belcher, 4822 Russell rd. ne., in the 2100 block of West Virginia ave. ne. She suffered a fractured skull, pelvis, pubis and ischium. Her attorney was Richard R. Atkinson.

500 Pittsburgh Masons Due Here

More than 500 members of the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Visitation Club are due to arrive here by special train this afternoon to be guests of the Dawson Masonic Lodge at its formal opening, Edward G. Cabel, worshipful master of the lodge, announced yesterday.

After being greeted at the Masonic Temple, 13th st. and New York ave. nw., at 6:30 o'clock, the Pittsburgh group and members of Dawson Lodge will go to Washington Memorial Temple in Alexandria, where Dawson Lodge will be formally opened.

'Nazism' Denied

Alien Goods Chief Sued For $125,000

Mrs. Ellen Biddle von Stackelberg of Lakeville, Conn., filed suit in District Court yesterday to recover an estimated $125,000 held by the Alien Property Custodian.

Mrs. Von Stackelberg, daughter of the late New York financier, Nicholas Biddle, claims the money and securities involved were wrongfully seized from her under the Trading with the Enemy Act. She reaffirmed her American citizenship and declared that neither she nor her former husband, Curt von Stackelberg, ever were affiliated with the Nazis.

Mrs. von Stackelberg was born in New York in 1912. She married in 1931 and lived in Germany until 1939, when she returned here for a visit. She went back to Germany and remained there until 1946. She has four children.

Included in the money taken was $66,300 in cash and securities of an undisclosed value. The total was estimated at $125,000 by her attorney, Donald Hiss.

Joseph Patrick Donworth

Funeral services for Joseph Patrick Donworth, 71, for 35 years a night switchboard operator and comforter of expectant fathers at Columbia Hospital, will be held at 9 a. m. today.

He died Wednesday at the hospital. A requiem mass at St. Stephen's Church will follow prayers at 8:30 a. m. at Hysong's funeral home, 1300 N st. nw. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Born in County Limerick, Ireland, Mr. Donworth came to America 42 years ago. One of 18 children, six of whom became nuns, he was present at Columbia during the birth of nearly 100,000 babies.

His was the rare privilege of being treated at the hospital exclusively for women, where nurses and doctors made an exception because of his faithful service.

He lived at 1423 Harvard st. nw., and is survived by his wife, Josephine Magner Donworth, whom he married in Ireland 47 years ago.

Salvatore A. Caruso

Funeral services for Salvatore A. Caruso, 60, who died Thursday at the home of his daughter, 5724 5th st. nw., will be held at 9:10 a. m., Monday at Fort Lincoln Cemetery Chapel.

Born at Firimedinisi, Sicily, Mr. Caruso came to Washington 44 years ago. He had been in the grocery business for 25 years until his retirement two years ago. He founded the firm of Caruso, Inc., 419 Morse st. ne., now operated by members of his family.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Elly K. Caruso; three daughters, Mrs. Mami Garufi, 192 35th st. ne.; Mrs. Josephine Caputo, 3911 Blaine st. ne., and Mrs. Jean Scaldarferri, of the 5th st. address; and a son, Frank Caruso, of 918 Prince st. nw.

Ellis Middleton Dies; Former Deputy Sheriff

Ellis Middleton, 62, guard at the Upper Marlboro jail, and a former Prince Georges County deputy sheriff, died yesterday at his home, 5501 Branch ave. se., Camp Springs, Md.

A native and life-long resident of Camp Springs, Mr. Middleton was the son of the late Theodore B. Middleton, former Prince Georges County Commissioner.

Mr. Middleton had been ill for about a year. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Florence Bowie Middleton; his mother, Mrs. Amanda Middleton of Camp Springs; six children, Theodore B. Middleton and Mrs. Florence Pyles of Camp Springs, Mrs. Cora Lee Schultz of Clinton, Md.; Mrs. Louise Maske, Mrs. Alene Pyles and Mrs. Constance Hyde of Temple Hill, eight grandchildren, three sisters, Mrs. Helen Gwynn, and Mrs. Mildred Wheatley of Clinton; Mrs. Ted Farr of Camp Springs, and a brother, Bertram Middleton of Shadyside, Md.

The funeral will be at the home at 10:30 a. m. Monday, with services at St. Barnabas Episcopalian Church in Temple Hill at 11 a. m. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

250 Legionnaires Registered for 40 and 8 Session

Some 250 delegates from six States and the District registered yesterday for the Mid-Atlantic States Promenade of the American Legion's 40 and 8.

Harold J. Riley, Detroit, chef de chemin de fer of the national organization, will address a banquet at 7 o'clock tonight at the Roosevelt Hotel, headquarters for the three-day event closing Sunday. Earlier in the day, at 1 p. m. initiation ceremonies will be held at the Silver Spring, Md., National Guard Armory.

Delegates from Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Delaware, Pennsylvania and the District are attending the conclave.

Boys' Club Kite Contest To Be This Morning

Climaxing weeks of intraclub competition, interclub finals of the annual Metropolitan Police Boys Club kite flying contest will be run off at 10 a. m. today at Fairlawn Field, Anacostia.

Sixty boys from five clubs will compete in the midget class, 6 through 10, and junior class, 11 through 14. Kite classes are those made with two sticks, with three, and box kites with no limit on sticks. Recreation Department officials will judge the events.

18,000 Jam Carnegie Hall Area For Dr. Wise Funeral Services

New York, April 22 (AP).—Some 18,000 persons of all faiths jammed Carnegie Hall and the area surrounding it today for the funeral of Dr. Stephen S. Wise, noted Jewish leader.

Notables at the funeral included Mayor William O'Dwyer, David K. Niles, representing Mr. Truman; Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr.; Mrs. Chaim Weizmann, wife of the Israeli President; former Vice President Wallace, and Eleahu Elath, Israeli envoy to this country.

Dr. John Haynes Holmes, Protestant minister of the Community Church and a friend of the rabbi, read from Milton's "Samson Agonistes" and Arnold's "Rogby Chapel."

Dr. W. Petegorsky, executive director of the American Jewish Congress, gave the eulogy. He said Wise "was a man overflowing with love and dared to continue to love during a generation when hate and prejudice and ill will stalked the earth and crept into the hearts of millions."

He said Wise "did as much as any man of his time to right a 2000-year wrong by reestablishing the people of Israel in Israel's homeland."

Rabbi Edward E. Klein of the Free Synagogue, in a special prayer, said of Dr. Wise:

"The world was his pulpit, the people his flock."

Jewish Council Calls Rabbi Wise 'Great Man'

The death of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise marks "the passing of a great and noble man from the American Jewish scene," the Jewish Community Council of Washington said in a statement issued yesterday.

Speaking for the 67 religious and secular groups composing the council, Rabbi Isadore Breslau, president, and Isaac Franck, executive director, paid tribute to Rabbi Wise as "a giant of the spirit" who provided inspiration "to greater heights of courage and fearless dedication to the ideals of Judaism and Americanism.

"Rabbi Wise espoused the cause of a homeland for the Jewish people," said the statement, "and championed it vigorously and persuasively long before this cause had widespread, popular support in America. He embarked on an uncompromising struggle to translate into practice the American principle of equal rights for all people, irrespective of race, color, or religion at a time when it was still highly unpopular to carry on this struggle in the public arena."

Mrs. Bessie E. Causey

Funeral Services for Mrs. Bessie E. Causey, 59, of 317 Kentucky ave. se., a printer's assistant at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing for 18 years, who died Thursday, will be held at 1 p. m. Monday at Chambers funeral home, 517 11th st. se.

Mrs. Causey was born in Manassas, Va., on September 11, 1889, and educated in the public schools there. She had lived in the District for 42 years. She retired from the bureau in 1936. Death came at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ruth Feddon, 1602 Potomac ave. se.

Other survivors include her husband, Archie L. Cause, a carpenter, 317 Kentucky ave. se.; her mother, Mrs. Emma Clark, 1602 Potomac ave. se., and two brothers, Edward E. Clark, 2020 Perry st. ne., and Harry J. Clark, 5221 7th st. nw.

Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery. Mr. Causey served with the Army Air Force in World War I.

Lieut. Hoover Reburied in Arlington

Reburial services were held in Arlington Cemetery yesterday for Lieut. Woodward Hoover, who was killed on December 29, 1944, in the Battle of the Bulge.

Lieut. Hoover

A native of Washington, Lieut. Hoover was 24 at the time of his death. He was aide to Brig. Gen. John T. Collier of the Second Armored Division.

He was a graduate of Friends School and of Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Va., in 1943.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jeanne Rafferty Hoover of 2929 Greenvale rd., Chevy Chase, Md.; his parents, Capt. and Mrs. Frank W. Hoover of Glenbrook Farm, Derwood, Md.; a brother, Frank W. Hoover, jr., of Washington, and a sister, Miss Alice Serena Hoover of the Derwood address.

Joe Leppla

Neenah, Wis., April 22 (AP).—Joe Leppla, who boasted he was the oldest motorcycle rider in the world, died today of injuries suffered when his cycle skidded into a ditch. He was 91.

Leppla, who took up cycling at 60, wore out five motorbikes in covering some 100,000 miles.

Workman Killed In 2-Story Fall

A 42-year-old District laborer was killed yesterday in a 25-foot plunge to the ground from the second-story level of a construction project in Arlington.

Arlington police identified the man as Wilbert H. Gatewood, 3607 M st. nw. He fell from a scaffold while working on the new Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. building in the 1000 block of N. Irving st. He was pronounced dead shortly after 10 a. m. at Arlington Hospital, where he was taken by the Clarendon Rescue Squad ambulance.

Police said fellow workmen told them Gatewood stepped backward into space as he was cleaning a concrete conveyor on the second floor of the partially completed building, and plunged onto a concrete surface below. He was an employe of the Skinker & Garrett Co., contractors on the project, police said.

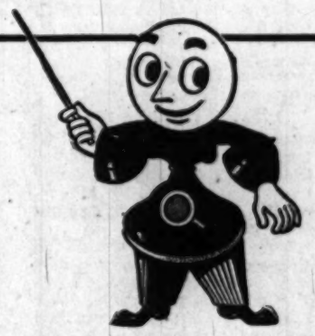
your old telephone directory is out of date—
thousands of telephone numbers in the Washington area change!

Starting tomorrow

Please look in the New Directory before every call



The Spring, 1949, telephone directory, which has now been delivered, goes into effect at midnight tonight. It contains thousands of new and changed telephone numbers.

Starting tomorrow morning, be sure to consult your NEW directory before calling any number. To avoid wrong numbers, discard your old directory at that time. If you keep a personal list of telephone numbers you frequently call, please bring it up to date.

New numbering plan prepares the way for more and better telephone service

The new 2-letter, 5-figure (digit) numbering plan which starts tomorrow morning will involve initially the changing of only about 7% of the telephone numbers in the Washington area. Eventually, all telephones in the area will be converted to this system, but this will be done gradually over a period of years. It will enable us to install more units of dial equipment with fewer central office names. It is one more step in our long-range program to provide you with finer, faster, more flexible telephone service.

Telephones in the following central offices will be affected by the initial change-over to the 2-letter, 5-figure (digit) dialing

KEnmore	LOcust
Lincoln	LUdlow

In addition, under the new numbering plan, the following changes will be made:

PLeasant numbers will change to LOckwood with a fifth figure
SPruce numbers will change to LOgan with a fifth figure
There will be another new central office, JOhnson, in which the telephone numbers will have a fifth figure

All of these changes appear in your NEW directory

The new numbering plan is easy to use—here's how!

To call one of these 2-letter, 5-figure numbers, just dial the first TWO letters of the central office name (as always) and then FIVE figures instead of four. It's as simple as that.

Youngs Entertain at Gay Party; Rumbos Host at Farewell Fete

By Marie McNair

MRS. GORDON YOUNG lost her voice, Mrs. Henry Stewart Price failed to arrive from New York, but General and Mrs. Young carried on like the two good soldiers that they are.

The party which Mrs. Young had planned several weeks ago, went off, yesterday with no further incident except perhaps, for the explosion of the Russian samovar.

Originally Mrs. Price, who is Mrs. Young's newly married sister, was to have been guest of honor. But the Prices were kept in New York. And on Wednesday Mrs. Young developed a severe case of tonsilitis and got up only to come to her own party.

The Norwegian Ambassador and Mme. Munthe de Morgenstierne, were there, and the Ecuador Ambassador, Augusto Dillon, with Senora de Dillon, she wearing a cascade of maize colored feathers on her hat. Senora de la Colina, wife of the Mexican Ambassador, in silver blue mink cape and a tiny gray hat on her blond hair, talked with Mrs. Leslie Biffle, who was besieged with questions about the state of Les Biffle's health. Still in the hospital with virus pneumonia, he's expected to get home early next week.

Mrs. Biffle, like Mrs. Morris Cafritz, was going on from there to Mr. and Mrs. Constantine de Stackelberg's party for Mrs. Bob Considine. So were Gen. Wade Haislip and Mrs. Haislip. Mrs. Haislip looked completely charming in a full gray taffeta frock and a gray felt roller to match.

Mrs. Harold Burton, wife of the justice, wearing a golden tan jacquard satin suit, had just left her place at the tea table when the samovar hissed, snorted and popped.

Miss Nannie Chase was among those taking their turn at the tea table, and in this predominantly service party were Maj. Gen. Conger Pratt and Mrs. Pratt, Gen. and Mrs. Virgil Peterson, Deputy Chief of Staff, Gen. J. Lawton Collins, and Mrs. Collins, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. A. B. Quinton, and Brig Gen. and Mrs. Thomas North.

Flying Officer George Mattusch's smile and the gleam in the eye of his father-in-law, Dr. Tomas Cajigas, increased each time congratulations were offered on the arrival of Tomas Porter Mattusch, four-day-old son of Flying Officer and Mrs. Mattusch, the former Anita Cajigas.

Others there were Mrs. Emil Hurja, who was suffering from Mrs. Young's ailment, and could only whisper to her friends; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Akers, Commissioner and Mrs. Guy Mason, and Mrs. Edgar Edmonston, who has lived in Baltimore for many years and is now back home in a house on Tracy pl.

Gold Braid Assembles At Argentine Embassy

GOLD braid assembled for cocktails yesterday at the home of the Argentine Naval Attache and Senora de Rumbo, who are leaving soon for the Argentine. Captain Rumbo is leaving the twenty-eighth by plane, and his family will follow by boat May 20.

Admiral and Mrs. Louis Denfeld were in the gathering, as well as Admiral and Mrs. Arthur Radford and Admiral and Mrs. R. B. Carney.

Others were Admiral and Mrs. John Price, Admiral and Mrs. William Fechteler, Admiral and Mrs. Charles Wellborn, Admiral and Mrs. Arthur Struble, Gen. and Mrs. Clifton Bledsoe Cates, Admiral and Mrs. Cafo Douglas Cates, Admiral and Mrs. Glenn Davis, Admiral and Mrs. O. B. Hardison, Admiral and Mrs. Charles Momsen, Capt. Albert Behmke, Capt. and Mrs. Vincent Hernandez, Capt. and Mrs. Joseph Barbaro, Capt. and Mrs. W. V. Dutermann, Capt. H. N. Coffin, Comdr. and Mrs. Jim Davis, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas Inglis, Capt. and E. G. Fullinwider, Capt. and Mrs. Floyd Ferris, Gen. and Mrs. Lemuel Shepherd, Admiral and Mrs. G. F. Shafforth and Gen. and Mrs. Willis Crittenberger.

Party for India Mission

The Charge d'Affaires of India and Mrs. B. R. Sen have issued invitations to a cocktail party May 2, in honor of members of the Indian Military Mission.

health insurance or socialized medicine. The DAR vigorously opposes legislation designed to create state medical care with its vast extension of a parasitic bureaucracy which could result in a socialistic state in violation of principles set forth in the Constitution of the United States."

The only dissenting votes on the resolutions were a few pertaining to immigration. Adopted first at the fifty-seventh Continental Congress and reaffirmed yesterday, the resolution urged that "no immigration over and above the present quota system shall be permitted into the United States, either by special legislation, unused quota or executive order."

Other resolutions passed petitioned the Governor of Pennsylvania and the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission to change the contemplated route of the Pennsyvania Turnpike to avoid dividing the Valley Forge Park area.

Congress was called upon to enact legislation to provide protection of the "Flag of the United States of America from mutilation and desecration"

By an overwhelming vote of delegates, the congress voted to reestablish the national girl home makers committee, which had been abolished by a vote of the DAR board of management this week. Elimination of the committee was made in a reorganization effort.

Mrs. Frank C. Love of Syracuse, N. Y., national chairman of the girl home makers committee, led the appeal for the restoration of the committee.

Speaking for the continuation were Mrs. James B. Patterson of Ohio, first vice president general; Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge of Georgia, honorary president general, and Mrs. Frank Leon Nason of Massachusetts, chairman of tellers.

Wrongs Fly to Denver

The Ambassador of Canada and Mrs. Wrong left Wednesday by plane for Denver, Colo., where the Ambassador addressed a dinner Thursday evening at the University of Colorado. Hosts on the occasion were members of the international affairs group. The Ambassador and his wife will return on Tuesday.

Mrs. Lammers To Announce '50 Candidacy

Mrs. Edwin Stanton Lammers of Dallas, Tex., recording secretary general, National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, is scheduled to announce her candidacy soon for the post of president general in the 1950 elections.

By-laws, adopted at the fifty-seventh Continental Congress last year, prohibit aspirants from announcing their intention to seek office one year prior to the elections while a Congress is in session. Hence Mrs. Lammers could not announce her candidacy during the fifty-eighth Congress, which ended yesterday.

On the present slate as running mates of the Texan are Mrs. Van Court Carwithen of Malvern, Pa., candidate for first vice president general; Mrs. David Royswen of Seattle, Wash., candidate for chaplain general.

Other candidates on the Lammers' ticket will include Mrs. Thomas Edward Maury of Aurora, Ill., recording secretary general; Mrs. LaFayette L. Porter of Greencastle, Ind., corresponding secretary general; Mrs. Frank O. McMillen of Akron, Ohio, organizing secretary general; Mrs. V. Eugene Holcombe of Charleston, W. Va., treasurer general; Mrs. Roy E. Haywood of Portland, Me., registrar general; Mrs. Charles Christen of San Francisco, Calif., historian general; Mrs. Roy V Shrewder of Ashland, Kans., librarian general; Mrs. Palmer M. Way of Wild Crest, N. J., curator general, and Mrs. Ober Dewitt Warthen of Vidalia, Ga., reporter general.

Three British Producers Honored by Eric Johnston

MEMBERS of the Joint Anglo-American Film Council were honored yesterday afternoon at a reception given by Eric Johnston, member of the council and president of the Motion Picture Association of America. The honored guests were three famous British producers, Sir Alexander Korda, J. Arthur Rank and Sir Henry French, and two of the United States, Barney Balaban, president of Paramount Pictures, and Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc.

Miss Gerrity Honors Miss Sara Ann Peabody

MISS Sara Ann Peabody, who is leaving soon for Japan to become the bride of Lieut. William Wagner, was honored Thursday at a luncheon given by Miss Mary Ellen Gerrity. Miss Peabody is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Winthrop Peabody.

Among the guests at Thursday's luncheon were Mrs. Harry Joseph Gerrity, mother of the hostess, Mrs. Peabody, Mrs. J. Winthrop Peabody, jr., Miss Joan Schweinhaut, and her house guest, Miss Myria Ramirez of Puerto Rico, Miss Peggy Hamilton, Miss Peggy Wilson, Miss Martha Lee Atwell, Miss Joan Cunningham, Miss Pamela McCutcheon, Miss Adele Peroni, Miss Janet Cassidy and Miss Frances Crowley.

Several Parties See Shoreham Fashion Show

SEVERAL luncheon parties were given yesterday in the Blue Room at the Shoreham Hotel at the regular Friday luncheon-fashion show.

Mrs. Charles F. Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, was the ranking guest at the luncheon given by Mrs. Shelby Thompson.

Mrs. Fred M. Vinson, wife of the Chief Justice, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Paul Porter entertained at a small luncheon.

Still others giving parties at the luncheon hour were Mrs. Frank Morrow, whose honor guest was Dowager Countess Jellicoe; Mrs. Strickland Gillilan who had a party for 25 guests, and Senorita Anita Ramirez-Duque.

Give Russia War Alternative Lippmann Says

News analyst Walter Lippmann observed yesterday that although the United States is superior to Russia in perfection and production of war weapons, we are "greatly inferior in military manpower."

Speaking before the Congressional Club, Mr. Lippmann pointed out that the North Atlantic Pact places this country in a position calling for simultaneous preparato prevent and to fight a future world war.

He maintained that the United States should not try "to force [Russia] to change its ideology," but instead present a clear alternative to war.

In answer to a question from the floor about the fighting in China, Mr. Lippmann said the real issues there will remain obscure even to the Chinese and will not be clarified in our generation. He said that the Soviet Union is certain to gain control of northern China and Manchuria. But if the Russians are "foolish enough to try to take over the entire country we'll never hear from them again."

Mr. Lippmann addressed an overflow crowd at the afternoon meeting which included not only Congress wives but several visiting delegates to the Daughters of the American Revolution convention and wives of delegates to the convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Guatemala Envoy Sees New Gallery

The Ambassador of Guatemala and Senora de Gonzalez-Arevalo spent Thursday in Philadelphia, attending the opening of a gallery in the Philadelphia Museum called Middle America Gallery. A Guatemalan Mayan exhibit was featured with the Ambassador and his wife the guests of honor.

After the opening the Ambassador was honored at a luncheon by the Pan American Association. In the evening the Ambassador and Senora de Gonzales-Arevalo attended a reception held at 9 o'clock at a Philatelic Museum.

Preconvention Tea Honors CAR Delegates and Advisers

Delegates to the national convention of Children of the American Revolution and members of the senior advisory board were guests yesterday afternoon at a tea sponsored by the District, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia chapters. The convention opens this morning at the Mayflower.

Honor guests at the tea were Mrs. Donald Bennett Adams, National president, and Miss Patricia Edwards, junior national president.

Following the afternoon reception, the Junior National Board held a dutch treat dinner meeting at the Burlington Hotel. The delegates met at 8 at the Foundry Methodist Church to entertain one another in the stunt night performances.

The CAR is open to youngsters who can trace their ancestry to Revolutionary War soldiers, and accepts members from birth to the age of 21, when the girls may transfer to the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the boys to the Sons of the American Revolution. It is under DAR sponsorship and has senior national officers who guide the program of the young people. The senior board met yesterday morning in the CAR board room at Memorial Continental Hall to hear reports of officers and chairmen.

At a luncheon meeting of the National Officers Club which includes past and present officers, Mrs. B. Harrison Lingo was elected president of the club, succeeding Mrs. John Morrison Kerr, both of Washington.

Almost 900 delegates are expected to attend the CAR convention starting with a business meeting in the Mayflower Ballroom, at which Lieut. William H. Keeler, safety supervisor of the Rochester (N. Y.) Police Department will be the chief speaker. The program will be opened by Mrs. Adams and turned over to the junior president, Miss Edwards.

Election of officers will be held this afternoon. A slate prepared by the nominating committee is expected to be unopposed.

A dinner dance will be held at 7 at the Mayflower with a senior round-table immediately following the dinner. Sunday there will be a dedication of the CAR tree, followed by the annual pilgrimage to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and Mount Vernon, memorial services for deceased CAR members, and installation of officers.

Two Performances Of Sand Biography To Aid Charities

For the benefit of the Tolstoy Foundation and the Lucretia Grady Fund for Greece, a play by Mrs. James Souby entitled "Portrait of George Sand" will be presented at Pierce Hall on the evenings of May 9 and 10. Director Elizabeth Mitchell, well known as an actress as well as a director, has assembled an excellent cast for Mrs. Souby's comedy.

Principal parts will be played by Jolande Oberly, who will take the part of George Sand; Warner Schriener, who will take the part of Chopin; Stuart Smith who will be seen as Alfred de Musset; and Richard Gordon of Georgetown University, who will play the part of Richard Gordon.

Mrs. Victor de Mers will play background music. Tickets may be obtained from the ticket committee by calling ORdway 4628 or DEcatur 4304 during the hours from 9 to 12 daily.

Five Days to Visit Indiana Art Salon

By Nicha Soure

IT MAY BE "Back Home in Indiana" after Wednesday for the Indiana Art Salon, but there are still five days for Washingtonians to view the Hoosier Art Exhibition at the Smithsonian Institution.

On Wednesday the Indiana State Society will ring down the curtain on the first State regional art exhibition in the Capital with a reception from 2 to 4 p. m. at the Smithsonian Institution. Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, will be the guest of honor on the closing date of the 20-day showing.

In the receiving line will be Gen. and Mrs. Lewis B. Hershey, Mrs. O'Byrne, Mrs. Homer E. Capehart, Mrs. William Jenner, Mrs. Ralph Harvey, Mrs. Royal E. Ingersol and Mrs. Douglas Whitlock.

Minnesota Society's 'Smiles' Party Tonight

Minnesota State Society is trying out a "Smiles" party tonight which should catch on. The idea originated in Minnesota where a button is worn featuring a picture of Miss America, Miss Bebe Shopp of Minnesota, over which is written "Minnesota Smiles."

Gov. Luther W. Youngdahl, enthusiastic about the idea flourishing in Washington, sent over these buttons which will be worn at the dance tonight. The spring party, which will close the Minnesota State Society social season, will be cabaret style at 9:30 p. m. in the Continental Room of the Wardman Park Hotel.

"My Minnesota Home," composed by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Janes, will be another feature of the evening when Barnee-Lowe's orchestra introduces the song to the members attending.

New York Society Plans NYU Alumni Dance

THE New York State Society will honor the New York University alumni at a dance tonight.

The NYU alumni will be special guests at the "New York University Night Ball," when the colors and music of the university will be featured.

An invitation is extended from the president, Harold B. Barnett, to all New Yorkers and their friends to attend the dance from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m. at the Shoreham Hotel.

Music will be furnished by Dave McWilliams orchestra for the dance, to which enlisted servicemen in uniform will be admitted free. Formal dress is suggested, but not required.

Nebraskans to Mark Arbor Day at Dance

THE Nebraska State Society is planning an Arbor Day dance today in the Wardman Park's Burgundy Room, from 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

The dance will commemorate the now nationally observed tree-planting day founded by a Nebraskan and one-time Secretary of Agriculture, J. Sterling Morton, back in April, 1872.

As a special feature, the society's board of governors has arranged with one of the Morton descendants, Judge T. Simpson Morton of Nebraska City, to have a tree shipped to Washington direct from Arbor Lodge for presentation as a souvenir at the party.

The newly appointed members of the society's board of governors will be introduced at the dance. They are Jessie Stearns, with the Economic Cooperation Administration, and Lieut. Col. Denver W. Wilson, with the National Guard Bureau.

University of Nebraska alumni are planning to join the party at the Burgundy Room after their Charter Day dinner earlier in the evening at Alban Towers.

Further information may be obtained from Miss Evelyn Walker at Senator Butler's office (National 3120) during the day, or Jessie Stearns (Michigan 5600, extension 611) after 6 p. m.

Buckeye Post-Easter Dinner-Dance Tuesday

The Buckeyes have slated a post-Easter buffet dinner dance at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, April 26 in the Congressional Room of the Willard Hotel.

Charles Sawyer, Secretary of Commerce, will be the principal speaker at the dinner which will be followed by dancing to the music of the Ohioans.

This will be the annual meeting with a short business session, including election of officers for the coming year, preceding the festivities of the evening.

In accordance with the Ohio Society constitution, the nominating committee has been appointed to name candidates for the offices. Members of the society may make independent nominations from the floor.

The nominating committee includes William Spanton, Robert Hanger, Russell Payne, Mrs. Abby McSweeney and Mrs. Louise Waterfield.

Massachusetts to Elect Officers at Meeting

The annual business meeting and election of officers and trustees for the 1949-1950 term of the Massachusetts Society of Washington will be held on Thursday.

The meeting will be held at 8 p. m. in the Longfellow Room, Pierce Hall, 15th and Harvard sts. nw. Following the business meeting, refreshments will be served and movies shown.

Missouri Society Also Welcoming Spring

Another society which is celebrating with a spring dance tonight is the Missouri Society.

Preceding the dance, which will be at 9:30 p. m. in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel, the annual election of officers will be held. During the dance intermission, Miss Catherine Harris will entertain with piano selections.

Philippine Club Installs Leaders

The Philippine Ambassador, Joaquin M. Elizalde, installed officers of the newly organized Philippine Club of Washington last evening at the clubhouse, 1708 New Hampshire ave. nw., at 7:30. Filipinos in the Washington area and their friends were invited to attend.

A short program was followed by dancing. Officers of the club are Candido T. Palting, president; Tomas C. Benitez, vice president; Bernardo de Guia, general manager; Constante Batoon, treasurer, and Osmundo Reynante, secretary. Members of the board of directors are Col. Mariano Erana, Dr. Armando Sison, Dr. Disedado Yap, Pablo Mansaril, Nicanor Donesa, Simeon Forinas and Doroteo Vite.

Ask Anne

Where to Mothproof Needlepoint Seat Covers

I have just made some handsome needle-point chair seats. Would like to have them mothproofed before putting on chairs. Is there any place in the District that could do moth-proofing without injuring the colors or wools? M. K. B.

There is a firm with several shops in this area that does mothproofing that is guaranteed for the lifetime of the material. They also insure against any damage to color or materials. One shop is in Silver Spring (telephone, Shepherd 8100), another in Bethesda (Wisconsin 8844), and another in Clarendon (Oxford 2644.)

To A. L., who asked about softening hard sugar: Tear an opening in the bags and place the sacks of sugar in the refrigerator. The sugar will become soft enough so that it can be broken up. I have done this several times and find that it is much easier than trying to break it apart with a hammer. H. S. M.

I have a metal, silver-colored cigarette box made in occupied Japan. At the time I purchased it, I thought it was silver-plated—perhaps it is—but now its beginning to tarnish and silver polish does not improve it. Do you suppose there is transparent lacquer on this box? If so, how can I remove it so that I can polish it? These initials are on the bottom of the box HKK. Is that the manufacturer's brand or could it denote the metal? J. A. G.

Since you are having difficulty removing the tarnish, the box probably has been lacquered. This should come off by washing in soap and water. If it doesn't, use alcohol. The initials very likely are those of the manufacturer.

My sister is getting married the middle of May. She wants a small, informal wedding and plans to wear a suit. However, she would like to have my four-year-old girl in it. Can this be done in such a small wedding? I forgot to mention I would be her only attendant. M. L. W.

Since the bride wishes it, your four-year-old can properly be in the wedding party. She could serve very nicely as either flower girl or ring bearer.

Inquiries and contributions to Ask Anne column must be in written form. We regret that time does not permit handling them by telephone. Address questions to Anne, Room 403, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

OVER PRICED?

Yes, we agree—owner wants $1000 more than this home is worth, but you see it and be the judge. We'll handle the bothersome details as contract, deposit, clear title, etc. Level lot 62x150, wooded, prewar brick; 5 rooms, tile bath, plus finished room in basement and another full bath. Small finished room on third floor. Just a block from all conveniences. Come out and make an offer. You may be the lucky one.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Handling of Golf Funds Examined by Board

The various local newspapers have devoted a good bit of space to the recently released Recreation Board report on Interior's public golf courses.

But not a single one of these stories has mentioned what is probably the most serious allegation in the entire report.

It charges that the concessioner (S. G. Leoffler Company) was operating the courses, in part, with money which belonged in a special reserve fund subject to the control of the Secretary of Interior.

Under the contract, 5 per cent of the gross receipts went into a "Rehabilitation Fund," reserved for the restoration of worn-out portions of the courses.

The Recreation Board analyzed Leoffler's annual balance sheets and said it found that the concessioner did not have as much "cash on hand" as was supposed to be in the Fund.

At the end of 1945, for example, the Board found that the Fund alone was supposed to contain $19,438.83. But only $6796.24 was reported as the total "cash on hand."

Similarly, at the end of 1947, the Board said that the Fund had grown to $57,125.93, because practically nothing was being spent to rehabilitate the courses. But "cash on hand" was only $34,200.02.

The Board's repor concludes that the "deficit" must have been used in the operation of the courses.

When questioned about the matter, Leoffler said that he had "no comment," inasmuch as this was a controversy between the Recreation Board and the Interior Department. But I think that the significance of the Board's charge becomes evident when we recall that the reason Interior promised to renew Leoffler's contract was that "the concessioner advanced money to the Department for the construction of needed facilities at Fort Dupont."

From the Recreation Board's report, it would appear that the Government borrowed its own dough. Somebody over at Interior must have been behind the door when business brains were being handed out.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two male kittens, 6 weeks old; applicants should have yard and no children under 6 years of age." (Shepherd 9247.)

"Six-week-old kitten; he's a darling, but my puppy thinks he's a pork chop. Will deliver." (Rockville 2409.)

"Four charming 6-week-old kittens." (Randolph 5174.)

PERSONAL NOTES

Ray Bailey: The way I get the story, the syndicate sent us the wrong solution to that puzzle, and we've never been able to find out what happened to the right one. We've had about a hundred inquiries on it.

OLD-BUT-STILL-GOOD DEPT.

Then there's the one about the man who is accosted by a panhandler. Suspiciously, the citizen says:

"What are you going to do—spend it on drink?"

"Oh, no," the beggar assures him. "I never drink."

"Then I suppose your weakness is gambling, eh?"

"No, I never drink, gamble or smoke."

"Hmmm. Come with me."

"Where are you taking me?"

"I'm taking you home with me. I want to show my wife what happens to a man who doesn't have any bad habits."

WORDS AND MUSIC

Paul Hoffman was explaining the ECA to the American Society of Newspaper Editors in the Statler's Presidential Room Thursday.

The editors listened intently as the ECAdministrator described where Uncle Sam's billions were going, and why. It was a very good speech.

But in the middle of it, saxophone music welled up out of noplace and filled the huge banquet hall with the kind of competition no speaker can successfully meet.

Hoffman stuck to his oratorical guns, but the editors squirmed uneasily. Finally somebody slipped out of the room and called the manager; the manager called his chief electrician.

After a hurried investigation, the source of the wailing saxophone was located on the floor above, and peace descended on Paul Hoffman and his speech about ECA's billions.

It turned out that one of the hotel's guests had been practicing his saxophone right beside an air vent that led down to the Presidential Room. He had been playing a selection called "Pieces of Gold."

BATTLE OF WRITS

Who is writing the script for the feud between Attorney James J. Laughlin and State's Attorney A. Gwyn Bowie? It's the best comedy skit since Amos met Andy.

NOTES ON LOCOMOTION

The Baldwin Locomotive Works announces a 5 per cent cut in the selling prices of its locomotives. I suspect that this is the sort of news on which the statisticians base their claims that the cost of living is falling.

Meantime the wage-earner's dollar doesn't go any farther, but it certainly does leave quicker and stay away longer.

Listen to Bill Gold's "This Is Washington," the District Line on the Air, Monday through Friday, over WTOP, from 10 a. m. to Arthur Godfrey time at 10:30.

BARNABY

I can understand your scholarly interest in Barnaby, Miss Dixon. But still, we wouldn't want any publicity about the child—
I can set your mind at rest—
The magazine has only a small circulation, and goes only to professional psychologists— And the article would be done with complete anonymity, with absolutely no names mentioned.
Buzz for Miss Dixon at once! I've got the title for your biography of me, Barnaby— "THE O'MALLEY STORY"
Just the right length for the movie marquees, too—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

No Doctor Shortage—for Some

By Drew Pearson

There is a definite doctor shortage in the Army and Navy, though apparently not under some circumstances. Certain phases of the situation were illustrated by a telephone call received by Col. James V. Cole, commanding officer of Fort Myer, Va., shortly before James Forrestal resigned as Secretary of Defense.

Forrestal Mrs. Eisenhower himself was on the telephone and asked Colonel Cole to send a doctor. "There's been an accident," he explained.

A call from such an important personage as the Secretary of Defense brought not one doctor but two. Colonel Cole summoned Col. William L. Thompson, chief surgeon of Fort Myer, together with Capt. Allen Fuller, medical officer of the day. And they both hurried across the Potomac River to the Forrestal home, where they found General and Mrs. Eisenhower with Secretary and Mrs. Forrestal.

Petite Mrs. Eisenhower had tripped and injured her ankle. Colonel Thompson's examination revealed a very slight sprain and he applied an ace bandage. While the ankle was being bandaged Ike and his companions talked about the doctor shortage in the armed services and what could be done to relieve it.

But when the ankle was bandaged, Mrs. Eisenhower found she could not put on her high-heeled evening slipper. This problem called for an immediate huddle on tactics. Demure Mrs. Ike was quite firm on the point that she was not going to return to the Statler Hotel and brave the crowd in the lobby attired in bedroom slippers, or even in one slipper.

Finally the problem was solved by Colonel Thompson removing the bandage, thereby enabling Mrs. Ike to put on her evening slipper. Then the two Army doctors accompanied General and Mrs. Eisenhower back to the Statler, proceeded through the no-man's land of the lobby to the Eisenhower suite. There the doctors reapplied the bandage to Mrs. Ike's ankle.

It was not learned whether any decision was reached during the evening on the best methods to be used in securing more doctors for the Army.

Guarantee for Peace

Many signs on the diplomatic front indicate that the United States is gradually winning the cold war. Here are some of them:

Russia is angling to lift the Berlin blockade . . . The Communist Party in Italy has lost 600,000 members . . . There's increasing unrest in Romania, Poland, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia . . . Iron Curtain countries are itching to trade with the United States . . . The signing of the North Atlantic Pact has made a profound impression in Moscow.

All this has brought a subtle, carefully-aimed drive from Moscow for peace concessions. Whether to make these concessions is about the most important question now facing the State Department.

If the Soviet gets a rest from the cold war, if trade concessions are now given which permit the strengthening of Soviet industry—especially war industry—it probably will be only a temporary breather. After a rest, the Politburo will go back to cutthroat tactics and the Western world will have lost its position of vantage.

But the big concession we should get from the Russians—while they are in a trading mood—is the right of cultural contact behind the Iron Curtain. While we are winning, there is no use selling out for a few cheap trade concessions. We might as well hold out for the only thing which will permanently prevent war—contact between the Russian and American peoples.

Tobin's Strike Failed

Secretary of Labor Tobin is probably the first Secretary of Labor ever to be embarrassed because a strike failed to come off.

Last January the handsome gentleman from Boston urged both houses of Congress to exempt stevedores from the Wage-Hour Act. Unless this special exemption was given, Tobin warned, New York Labor Boss Joe Ryan would tie up the waterfront with a strike in March in protest against the wage-hour bill.

Despite Tobin's warning, the Senate Labor Committee has not acted on the bill. Furthermore, March is now past and Joe Ryan has called no strike.

Note—Real reason Ryan wants exemption of stevedores from Wage-Hour Act is so waterfront work won't have to be spread around among all stevedores, but can be dished out by Ryan to his favorites. Why Tobin has teamed up with Ryan on this remains a mystery.
